FCC Withdraws OKAY of ABC-ITT MERGER

THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS Commission withdrew its approval of the merger of International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. and the American Broadcasting Co. The FCC gave the Justice Department two weeks to present its case on the possible damage the merger could do to broadcast competition.

The commission also gave parties to the $2 billion merger until Feb. 23 to file any evidence and information they feel is needed to support the consolidation, first approved by the FCC last Dec. 21. The commission's order amounted to an open-ended stay of its earlier approval.

NEW NEAR-BLIZZARD PUMMELS CHICAGO

THE THIRD STORM in six days early today was pummeling Chicago, a snow-groggy metropolis still reeling and half paralyzed under last week's near record 26 inch blow. The driving snows, approached near-blizzards ferocity in many midwest areas.

By the Chicago evening rush hour yesterday up to five inches of new snow piled atop towering drifts still blocking hundreds of streets in the 7.5-million metropolitan area.

PANEL 'INVITES' POWELL TO TESTIFY

A SPECIAL COMMITTEE studying whether Adam Clayton Powell should keep his seat in Congress has "invited" the Harlem Democrat to testify at a hearing on Feb. 8. Chairman Emanuel Celler, (D-N.Y.) told Powell in a letter that he should come prepared to discuss his legal problems in New York "and your alleged misconduct since Jan. 3, 1961," the date Powell became chairman of the Education and Labor Committee.

Powell has indicated he will testify. The committee plans to conduct an open hearing, but under House rules Powell has the right to insist that it be closed to the public.

POPE MAKES NEW VIET PEACE MOVE

POPE PAUL VI has launched a new campaign for peace in Vietnam and personally has asked Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny for help, high Vatican sources said Wednesday.

They said the pontiff appealed to Podgorny during their historic meeting Monday to help seek an extension of the coming four-day lunar new year cease-fire starting Feb. 9, into a truce for Vietnam peace talks. There was no indication of Podgorny's response. He returned to Moscow Tuesday.

ERRANT U.S. BOMBS KILL MARINE, INJURES 11

A FIERY CRASH of a shot down C123 defoliation plane, possibly in Laos, and a pair of misdirected Marine bombs that blasted American troops dealt tragedy yesterday to U.S. attempts to stop the Communists in the northern reaches of South Vietnam.

All five Americans aboard were killed when Communist gunners shot down the C123, one of three planes spreading defoliating chemicals along North Vietnamese infiltration routes.

The two fragmentation bombs dropped by a radar-guided U.S. Marine A-6 Intruder jet were aimed at Viet Cong mortar position 75 miles south of Da Nang, but landed instead amid a group of U.S. Marines. One Marine was killed and 11 others wounded.

MAO FORCES CLAIM MAJOR VICTORIES

FORCES LOYAL to Mao Tse-tung claimed major victories Wednesday in Communist China's political upheaval, but Peking's troubles at home were overshadowed by a near break in relations with Russia.

Peking wall posters said opposition to the Chinese Communist party chairman was collapsing in Sinkiang Province, where China's nuclear tests are carried out. Japanese correspondents said Mao's foes in the Uighur autonomous region of Sinkiang had fled into the mountains.

Informed sources in Moscow said the Soviet government will reduce its Peking embassy staff to skeleton size and ask the Chinese mission in the Soviet capital to cut its staff to similar size.

KAZAN-KOMAREK APPEALS VERDICT TODAY

VLADIMIR KAZAN-KOMAREK, Wellesley Hills, Mass., travel agent, convicted of espionage yesterday in a Czech court and sentenced to eight years in prison, took the verdict without showing emotion, an American citizen who was in the courtroom said by telephone from Prague. Kazan-Komarek "never batted an eye when he heard the sentence," the informant said.

Kazan-Komarek's attorney was expected to ask for a suspended sentence today. If granted by the special court, Kazan-Komarek would be free to leave Czechoslovakia immediately. The defendant has been in jail for three months.

ATTLEBORO M.D., FAMILY LEAVE FOR PERU

AN ATTLEBORO PHYSICIAN has departed with his wife and ten children for the slums of Peru where he will minister to the poor in the "ring of misery" surrounding the capital city of Lima.

Dr. Joseph E. Kerrins Jr., 40, resigned his post as chief of the obstetrics and gynecology department at Sturdy Memorial Hospital last October in order to prepare for the trip to Latin America. The physician said he decided that he should answer the call to "feed the hungry of the world."

LEDERLE MUM ON MICHIGAN UNIV. JOB

DR. JOHN W. LEDERLE, president of the University of Massachusetts, has declined comment on reports he was a candidate for the presidency of the University of Michigan, his alma mater. There were published reports that Lederle was in the running for the post.

However, some sources at the Ann Arbor, Mich. campus, said Lederle was not a front-running candidate. Lederle received his bachelor's, master's and doctoral degree from Michigan.

DE SALVO LOSES NEW TRIAL BID

SUPERIOR COURT Judge Cornelius J. Moynihan denied a new trial for confessed Boston Strangler Albert H. DeSalvo. Defense attorney F. Lee Bailey earlier appealed to the Massachusetts Supreme Court the conviction and life sentencing of the 35-year-old Malden handyman. No date has been set for the hearing.

During yesterday's court session, attorney Charles Burnim, appearing in the absence of Bailey, argued that in his charge to the jury, Judge Moynihan should have more closely followed the Model Penal Code. Burnim said the testimony of defense and prosecution psychiatrists was so confusing the "jury could not have found him (DeSalvo) insane beyond a reasonable doubt at the time the crimes were committed."

FINAL SENATE VOTE TODAY ON PAY RAISE

THE SENATE WAS expected to give final approval today to the bill calling for a pay raise for legislators from $5,200 to $10,000 and start the measure on its way to Governor Volpe. Yesterday, in a preliminary vote the Senate endorsed the raise by a 33 to 4 vote and the final vote will probably be as decisive.

War-Busy GI Thanks His Mayor For Gift

Another Newton serviceman who received a Christmas package as a result of the Graphic's campaign, has written Mayor Monte G. Basbas to thank him for his package.

SPA Michael A. Link apologizes for his delay in writing — his letter is dated Jan. 21.

But Graphic readers will probably be more impressed by the fact that Michael's base had been expecting a large scale surprise attack since Christmas. And that seems like a good reason for being too busy to write thank-you notes.

50 Doctors Donate Blood At Hospital

Doctors who depend upon blood for their patients in an adequate supply gave a good amount themselves yesterday morning (Wednesday, February 1) at Newton-Wellesley Hospital.

More than 50 physicians from the hospital's medical staff turned out for the first doctor's blood donor day to be held at the 250-bed hospital, a formal teaching affiliate of Tufts University School of Medicine.

The physicians reported to the hospital's Usen Auditorium, where a bloodmobile and volunteers from the Newton Chapter of the American Red CROSS accepted and processed the donations.

"To my knowledge, this is the first instance of an area hospital medical staff joining in a formal group donation program, certainly in recent years," said Mr. Henry Wilson, chairman of the Newton Red Cross Blood Program.

"The doctors thus join many industrial, fraternal, religious, civic and similar groups in western suburban communities who schedule regular donations, to guard against a depletion of blood stocks."

May Seek Local Funds In Model City Program

Mayor Monte G. Basbas probably will apply for federal funds to launch a Model Demonstration Cities Program in a section of Newton.

Exactly what kind of program would be proposed for Newton or in what part of the city it would be undertaken, has not yet been determined.

In fact, the Mayor has not yet made a final decision to apply for government funds, but present indications are that he will do so.

Mayor Basbas, with Planning Director James A. Miller and Administrative Assistant Thomas Hargadon, went to New York Monday to hear a briefing on the Model Cities program which was attended by several hundred municipal executives from all areas of the eastern United States.

Basbas, Miller and Hargadon will confer later this week to decide whether it would be worthwhile to spend the time and effort necessary to put together an application for federal funds before the May 1 deadline.

One of the factors they will consider will be Newton's chance of getting a federal grant if it does submit such an application. About 60 or 70 cities throughout the United States will be allocated funds during the first year of the program, and it is expected that several hundred will apply.

However, Mayor Basbas is disposed to invest the time and energy in an endeavor to seek funds for some section of Newton.

Generally speaking, the program is intended to help neighborhoods with problems of one kind or another. Theoretically at least, the neighborhoods with the most problems are the ones selected to benefit from the program.

Resources of the state, federal and local governments are focused on that area if the application wins approval.

Where a concentrated code enforcement program is undertaken, home-owners become eligible for government loans at 3 per cent interest to improve their properties.

Some funds for transportation subsidies and special school programs also are available under the Model Cities Program.

If the Mayor submits an application and it is approved, the likelihood is river and began his swim to the rescue.

Buffeted by the swirling current, Smilg made the 50 or more yards to the frantic scene. He grabbed for the sinking Burke lad and found himself clutching by the struggling boy, now on the verge of panic.

Smilg managed to calm the lad, instructing him how to hang on while he succeeded in making it to the shore.

In the meantime, the boat containing the Weiss boy remained afloat. It was carried to the opposite river bank by the current where it was beached. The boy was assisted to the shore, safe and sound.

Smilg, in recounting the incident, recalled that a number of people, including men, lined the river banks during the entire rescue; no one made any move to assist him in his dangerous mission.

The bronze medal was received from the Humane Society of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts last week, along with the lapel button.

The medal has the inscription "Honor Reward Of Merit" For Bravery In Saving A Life at Manomet; for Courage and Perseverance." It carries the name of David Smilg.

With the medal came a congratulatory note from Alexander Houston, Secretary of the Standing Committee, Massachusetts Humane Society.

Big Week For Newton High ...

Hoop Team Captures Two Ice Sextet Downs Brkl., 3-0

By JOE GORIN

Newton High School's athletic teams were very successful this week. Tuesday, the basketball team visited Arlington, and for the first time this athletic season Newton was victorious over an Arlington team.

Ron Cook, a Newton guard, was responsible for guarding the league high scorer, John Donovan. Cook held Donovan to 12 points which was a third of the points Donovan had gotten the week before in a game with Brockton. Cook's defensive work coupled with Warren Houston's 22 points, and fine 15 point performances from corner man Ron Howland and center Paul Colontonio sparked the victory.

The final score was Newton 72, Arlington 57.

Friday night at the Newton High gym Newton High and Newton South High met for the second time this season. Friday night's game, unlike the first encounter, was a runaway for Newton High and the final score was 80 to 56. Capt. Paul Ward hit for 21 points and collected 16 rebounds in a fine game for Ward who had been off in the Arlington game. Ron Howland, for the second time in the week, had 15 points as did Warren Houston.

Newton, which has won its last five out of six games, is currently in fifth place in the Suburban League with a 6-4 record in the league, 8-4 overall.

"By one Spirit are we all baptized into one body, whether we be Jews or Gentiles, whether we be bond or free; and have been all made to drink into one Spirit." This verse from I Corinthians is the Golden Text for a Lesson-Sermon on "Spirit" to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday.

Betsy L. Daniels, 96 Moffat Rd., Waban, a senior at the University of Wisconsin, will have her picture in the 500-page "Badger" yearbook to be distributed late next Spring. It will contain the pictures of all the 3,600 members of the senior class.

Refreshments during the social hour that will follow in the church hall will be served by the ladies of Corpus Christi Guild, Mrs. James D. Timoney, president.

The World Day of Prayer offering will be divided between the Swaziland Sebenta Society Adult Literacy Program in Africa, and the missionary endeavors of Rev. John C. Lyons of Parroquia De La Preciosissima Sangre de Lima, Peru, formerly of Corpus Christi Parish.

Mrs. Norman T. Ross will be in charge of the evening meeting.

Miss Turnbull, an Episcopalian and former staff member of the World Council of Churches Secretariat, has just concluded a globe-circling trip visiting and consulting with Orthodox churchwomen around the world.

Her speech at both afternoon and evening meetings will undoubtedly bring much insight into the Christian meaning of a worshipping universal church.

Currently a member of the Ecumenical Commission of the Archdiocese of Boston, Rev. John T. Feeney is a former Professor of Fundamental Dogmatic Theology at St. John's Seminary in Brighton as well as former Professor of Ecclesiology and Patrology at Little Rock Seminary in Arkansas.

Mrs. Helen Turnbull, director of Leadership Education of Churchwomen United, served her own Episcopal Church before her work with the World Council of Churches in Geneva. She was director of Windham House in New York City and executive secretary for college work in the New England area.

She has a B.A. in sociology and economics from Goucher, an M.A. in religious education.

Will We Pay The Bills?

Many people are becoming much more aware of the need for improving conditions at the State's mental hospitals, the schools for mentally retarded children, and at such institutions as the Bridgewater State Hospital.

A number of persons have expressed themselves as deeply moved by the pictures they have seen of retarded children in pathetic poses and by the articles they have read of inadequate facilities and insufficient personnel to care properly for these youngsters.

The big question, however, is whether they are moved enough and care enough to provide the money needed to do the things which should be done at these institutions, hospitals and schools.

Employees and officials at these schools and hospitals in almost all instances do the best job possible under the circumstances. In some cases they do an exceptional job in face of the handicaps under which they work.

But the circumstance are depressing and the handicaps heavy.

It comes down to the simple fact that not enough money has been provided to build, equip and staff these schools where children who never grow up are cared for at the hospitals where the mentally ill are treated.

Some of the people who wipe away a tear when they saw a forlorn little girl in a school for the mentally retarded would be among the first to protest if they had to pay more taxes to improve conditions at the school.

And the only way the money can be obtained to provide better care for the little girl is from taxes.

No matter how much money we spend, it always will be possible for a newspaper reporter to go into a school for the mentally retarded and come out with a story of pathos and tragedies. You couldn't visit one of these schools without being deeply moved.

But we should be able to do a lot better than we've been doing for these children who cannot know or live a normal life.

If we can spend billions to fight a war in Vietnam and more billions to put a man on the moon, we should be able to spend enough money to keep the Fernald School clean, install adequate toilet facilities in the Wrentham State School and employ enough personnel to review the cases of the inmates at the Bridgewater State Hospital.

These, of course, are extremes. Much more than that should be done. But the hard facts are that dirty conditions do exist at Fernald School that toilet facilities are inadequate at the Wrentham School, and that Bridgewater State Hospital, like virtually every school for mentally retarded children and every hospital for the mentally ill, does not have adequate personnel.

Our reason they don't incidentally, is that they don't offer enough pay to induce competent and qualified people to take the jobs.

The proposed transfer of unfilled positions in the mental health, public health and corrections department to the Bridgewater State Hospital at best is only a stopgap arrangement and not a solution to anything. Obviously, the unfilled positions in those departments should be filled.

Governor Volpe is moving to provide the money to do at least some of the things which should be done in these areas. Whether he can furnish enough money within the existing tax framework to do an even adequate job is uncertain. At least he is moving in the right direction.

Thanks Graphic

Editor of The Graphic:
On behalf of the Greater Boston Association for Retarded Children (GBARC), I would like to thank the editors and staff of your newspaper for their continuing support of this Association throughout 1966.

The people of this area have been enthusiastically loyal and generous to GBARC over the past year, and especially during Retarded Children's Week late last year when more than 20,000 mothers marched from door-to-door throughout Greater Boston. Their fund-raising efforts have enabled the Association to continue its rehabilitation and educational programs to the 45,000 mentally retarded in Greater Boston.

In a few cases, collection kits are still in the hands of volunteers. We would be deeply appreciative if anyone holding a GBARC collection kit would mail it to the office, 42 The Fenway, Boston, so that we can make a final accounting of all funds raised.

I would also like to thank your newspaper for its support of the recent Mental Health/Retardation Bill. We are very grateful for your continuing assistance.

Sincerely,

FRANK A. McDONALD JR.

Editor of The Graphic:

The citizens of Newton are fortunate in having the Graphic as a medium of communication.

In the last few years a mystery has grown up around the Newton schools that implies any questions are just not the affair of the average citizen.

The few times I have asked simple questions of School Committee Members I have been told these were not matters they were concerned with. Any question was a matter of administration in the hands of the Superintendent. I was told the Superintendent made up the agenda of the meetings and only matters of concern to him were brought before the Committee. When some interested people did get a hearing they were treated to ridicule and courtesy.

Up until recently there seemed very little involvement of the whole School Committee, but one spokesman who assured us the schools were in the best of all hands. Late, I am happy to read the meetings are more open and few other members are becoming articulate.

One thing many of us would like to know is why so many excellent young men teachers, who are making teaching a career, stay in Newton a few years, find they cannot stand the system and leave, many to nearby communities at no greater salary.

The problem of continuous education could be settled very quickly if the achievement tests of the Junior High Schools were compared. There are some bright youngsters in Newton, as there are in any such city, and they do well in any learning situation.

This is only one problem area, there are others, and there should be some adjustment other than private schools for so many Newton children.

On Split Session

Editor of The Graphic:

I should like to draw attention to an important consideration that seems to have been largely overlooked in the discussion concerning the proposed change from the present split session to a single session in our elementary schools.

While the possible effects of the change on our children, on their mothers, on the tax rate, and on the physical facilities have been amply discussed, very little account has been taken of the effects that the proposed change might have on the teachers of our schools.

Like many Newton parents though perhaps not all, judging by the recent spate of critical letters in your columns — I am well satisfied with the education that my children are receiving.

I believe that the teachers and headmaster at the Underwood school, which my children attend, are doing an admirable job, and I have had numerous occasions to convince myself that they are thoroughly competent professionals who have the best interests of the children at heart.

I am impressed by the personal attention which they give to every child and to the specific problems that the

Political Highlights

The mere presence of a state police cruiser on the highway would be a good thing even if the trooper driving it were off duty and on his way to a market to do the family shopping.

However, Governor Volpe's plan would have to accomplish more than just increasing the number of police cruisers on the highway to make the substantial investment of public funds worthwhile.

The Governor intends to abolish the existing outmoded system under which the state troopers are required to live in barracks during their duty tours.

Under the present arrangement, the troopers reside in the state police barracks for three days, get one day off and then return to the barracks for three days.

That practice has come down from less modern times, and only two of the other 49 States still follow it.

It not only is an archaic and expensive system, but it also discourages many young men from seeking service on the state police.

Savings in the cost of providing living quarters and maintenance for the troopers over a period of time would just about offset the expense of furnishing each trooper a cruiser.

Governor Volpe says his program "will increase the mobility of the entire force, and will serve to emphasize the supervision of highways in the minds of the motoring public."

The increased mobility of the state police force would be extremely worthwhile if it is utilized to full public advantage. A state trooper is subject to call in an emergency while off duty, and he obviously could respond to such a call more quickly and efficiently if he had a cruiser available for immediate use.

But a trooper also should be required to have the radio turned on and be listening to it whenever driving his cruiser on a personal errand or for any purpose.

In that way he would be able to respond if police were needed at a place only a short distance away.

It would accomplish little if the trooper turned off the radio under such circumstances on the assumption that because he was off duty what happened was of no concern to him.

Governor Volpe's plan, if carried out properly, could pay real dividends in the form of increased and improved police protection for the public.

The few times I have asked simple questions of School Committee Members I have been told these were not matters they were concerned with. Any question was a matter of administration in the hands of the Superintendent. I was told the Superintendent made up the agenda of the meetings and only matters of concern to him were brought before the Committee. On Split Session

Editor of The Graphic:

I should like to draw attention to an important consideration that seems to have been largely overlooked in the discussion concerning the proposed change from the present split session to a single session in our elementary schools.

One could justifiably disregard the views of teachers if one felt that they were not professionally competent, or if there were reason to doubt their objectivity. But surely this is not the case here.

I feel, therefore, that the school board and we, the parents, cannot but accept the recommendations of the teachers and headmasters.

Moreover, if the school board were to adopt the proposed change in the face of the overwhelming opposition of the teaching staff, this could not fail to be interpreted as a vote of no-confidence in the teachers.

It would be telling them, in effect, that we put scant store by their advice. It is hardly necessary to point out that few things are more deleterious to the morale of people genuinely committed to their work than being treated like hacks who are to do as they are told.

In sum, the advantages of the proposed single session of the teaching staff, this adverse effects of making a this shameful waste of a marvelous change now are quite specific potential medium of enlightenment and entertainment. I'd be happy to see the school budget and cause minor dislocations to after school organizations, schools and clubs, but they will also and inevitably place considerable strain on the morale of the teaching staffs.

The conclusion seems, therefore, inescapable: the school board should vote to retain the present split schedule in elementary schools.

Sincerely yours,

Morris Halle

New Law Will Attract Presidential Hopefuls

At this time next year Massachusetts will be starting to shape up as one of the political battlegrounds for the candidates hoping to achieve the Presidential nomination.

It will be ranked along with such states as Oregon, Wisconsin and New Hampshire where the top Presidential contenders will campaign for public support and convention delegate votes.

This will be a new experience for Bay State voters who in the past have been largely ignored and disregarded by the Presidential hopefuls.

The reason for this change is that a revision in the law provides that the delegates to the Democratic and Republican national conventions must cast their votes for the candidates who finish first in the popularity poll.

Ex-Representative Carl R. Johnson of Braintree was the sponsor of the new provision written into the pre-primary Presidential election laws, and it was a sound one.

While the State would have to bear the cost of operating and maintaining the cruisers, the maintenance bill for the troopers living in barracks now amounts to $350,000 annually.

Governor Volpe suggests that the additional cruisers be purchased over a three-year period. If the plan proves successful, it would seem that the timetable should be speeded up.

The result was that fewer and fewer people bothered to go to the polls for the Presidential primaries because their votes didn't mean anything.

Instead of being meaningless, the results of the Presidential popularity contests now will be binding upon the delegates who represent Massachusetts at the two national conventions.

This will cause the Presidential aspirants to come into the Bay State to campaign, and it should result in a far greater turnout of voters, particularly since the spotlight of national attention will be centered on this Commonwealth for a period.

It always has seemed ridiculous that the top Presidential candidates stumped across the country.

However, it is by no means impossible that Volpe might be

New Hampshire which has only a handful of convention votes but usually stayed away from Massachusetts.

But what could you expect under the circumstances when the delegates were free to wheel and deal and nothing was binding upon them?

The Office of Economic Opportunity has notified Western Metropolitan Boston Regional Opportunity Council, Inc., whose offices are at 313 Washington St., Newton, of the awarding of a full year Head Start grant amounting to approximately $300,000 on a calendar year basis.

The Head Start program for pre-school age children three to six years old will be conducted in Newton, Brookline, Waltham, Watertown and Arlington, the communities of the Western Regional Council.

Wallace J. Fletcher of 351 Otis St., Newtonville, president of Western Regional Council, points out that the award is the culmination of almost two years effort by the five communities.

"The frustrating, hard and tortuous task of regionalization has been completed, and Head Start is the first of a series of programs designed specifically for and by our communities," Fletcher explained.

The beginning date of Head Start will be announced as soon as minor adjustments are made and agreed to by the Office of Economic Opportunity and the West Regional staff.

Mayor Favors Home Rule On Billboards

President LeBlanc announced today that Attorney Paul S. Rich had been elected a director of the Newton National Bank at the annual shareholders' meeting.

Mr. Rich has been a long-time resident of Newton having been educated in the Newton Public Schools and Newton High School. He attended Suffolk University and Northeastern Law School and was admitted to practice law in Massachusetts and the Federal Courts in 1947.

A member of several Bar Associations, he maintains an office for the general practice of law at 430 Centre Street, Newton.

He supported one bill which would prohibit the Authority from granting permits for billboards which violate local zoning or building codes.

Basbas also backed another bill which would require the Authority to obtain the approval of cities and towns before issuing permits for the erection of signs.

In his statement to the legislative committee, Basbas declared: "I don't think this proposed legislation goes far enough, but I strongly support and have urged the support of our citizens of any bill which would uphold the effort of our cities and towns to maintain home rule."

The Mayor cited Newton's recent strenuous efforts before the Outdoor Advertising Authority to clear out several billboards in Auburndale and other villages, and requested that citizens of those villages take this opportunity to aid the city administration in its struggle by contacting their senators and representatives.

Ingham, is one of 200 volunteers trained by the Westinghouse Corporation at Key West, Fla., to take up Peace Corps work in Micronesia, a group of 2100 islands in the Western Pacific, 97 of which are inhabited.

The United States administers the area under a United Nations mandate.

During 12 weeks of training at Key West, the new volunteers studied one of Micronesia's eight major languages (which included Palauan, Yapese, Chamorro, Ulithian, Trukese, Ponapean, Marshallese, and Kusaie), Micronesian culture and American area studies. They also learned island skills such as fishing, boating and preparing of native foods and did practice teaching and community survey in the Miami area.

Community Center Holiday Trips Planned For Kiddies

The Newton Community Center has announced the second series of field trips planned for youngsters in Grades Kindergarten through 6 under its Holiday Enrichment Program. The program is designed to provide children with stimulating activities during their vacation days, and will feature half-day and full day trips.

Field trips are especially tailored to the age and understanding of the Elementary child and are aimed at satisfying the natural curiosity all children have for the world around them.

Half-day trips are devoted to "examining transportation and industry."

Two trips for Kindergarten and Grades 1-3 have been scheduled for Mon. and Tues. mornings (February 20 to 21) from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m.; they are excursions to Hanscom Field (with tour of operations area, fire station, parachute shops and weather station) and to Pepsi Cola Factory (with tour of syrup mixing process, washing, sterilization and checking of bottles and bottling process, movie and sample drinks).

Two afternoon trips are scheduled for Grades 3-6, Mon. and Tues. (February 20 and 21) from 1:30 p.m.; they are excursions to Logan Airport (including tour of inside of airplane, controls, emergency buildings, rescue trucks, etc.) and to Fanny Farmer Candy Factory (including entire process of candy manufacturing, with sample boxes, of course).

Full-day trips will feature "Enjoying Entertainment and Exhibitions" with a fun-packed day at Boston's Winterfest Children in Kindergarten through Grade 3 will visit the Winterfest on Friday, February 24 from 9:30 a.m. including Children's Concert, tours of exhibitions, crafts and demonstrations, lunch, Children's Theatre ("Pinocchio") and many others.

Children in Grades 3 through 6 will take their trip on Thursday, February 23, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and will take in a Puppet Show ("The Emperor's Nightingale"), exhibitions, crafts, demonstrations, lunch and Boston Steel Band Concert. It should be noted that all entertainment is subject to ticket availability.

Parents who are interested in having their children participate in the Newton Community Center at 429 Cherry st., West Newton (244-2680) before Feb. 15 when registration closes. Because of the popularity of these trips early registration is recommended.

The Holiday Enrichment Program is under the direction of Mrs. Murray Janower, experienced elementary teacher of Brookline. Mrs. Janower leads the field trips in addition to teaching Art and Enrichment at the Community Center.

Mrs. Janower explained that the assistance of several parents (with cars) is necessary for each trip, and that the parents who volunteers may have her child included without charge.

An ability to motivate successfully and direct young people is the important skill. We can quickly train a person to handle any other necessary details," Mr. Brines said.

"For more than two years we have advertised for this position and others like it. The sources of available persons seem to have dried up. Now we make an outright appeal to housewives alone at home and other responsible people to give us a hand, on the days and at the times they can."

Mr. Brines asked interested persons to telephone the hospital and to speak with John Donnelly, the project coordinator.

Hospital Needs Directors Of Meal Servers

People with free time who are capable of supervising teenaged workers are needed badly by Newton-Wellesley Hospital, Director William S. Brines said today.

Women and men are urgently sought from 3:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. to direct the serving of patient meals by teenaged kitchen assistants.

"The much talked-about nursing shortage tends to hide the acuteness of this type of problem. We sorely require, and have been unable to find, these supervisors. Here is an opportunity for a citizen to give substantial community service to his hospital, while receiving reimbursement," Mr. Brines explained.

More than a dozen people are required, he indicated, in order that supervision is assured on each afternoon of a week.

A supervisor of students would direct a group of girls who prepare food trays for patients, serve the meals, and clean up.

"An ability to motivate successfully and direct young people is the important skill. We can quickly train a person to handle any other necessary details," Mr. Brines said.

Newton Youth To Visit Greece
This Summer

Stephen B. Roy, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Roy, 36 Fairmont avenue, Newton, will visit Greece as a participant in the 1967 summer program of The Experiment in International Living.

He will be a member of an outbound Experiment group of from 10 to 12 men and women whose ages range from 16 to 30, under the guidance of a trained leader. Each will live as a "son" or "daughter" of a family abroad.

This firsthand opportunity to develop friendships, to learn the customs and traditions of another country, and to participate in the daily life of an "adopted" family is the heart of every Experiment program. During the second month the American Experimenters travel in the host country, usually accompanied by members of their new families, or engage in work or study projects.

Guild Of St. Francis To Show Irish Fashions Here

Miss Anne Tolan, voice of Irish International Airlines on radio, will present a showing of Irish fashions to members and friends of the Guild of St. Francis of Assisi, Sacred Heart Parish, Newton Centre on Tuesday evening, February 7th at 8:00 p.m. in the Bishop Mackenzie Parish Center.

Anne has returned from Ireland with a new collection of fashions by well-known Irish designers. Included are hand-woven Irish tweeds, Aran knitwear, linens and lace in style varying from the grace of a Georgia era to the leisure of modern Ireland.

In addition to travelling throughout North America presenting fashions, Anne has also been interviewed on radio and television. Her facility with words is not surprising.

She was born in Sligo—as was also the great Irish poet, William Butler Yeats.

Following study at University College, Galway, Anne lived for some time in France and Spain.

Two years ago, Anne was a hostess with the Irish airline in Europe. Then she was chosen to come on a special promotional tour to the United States. The Irish airline's New York ad men were so taken by her accent that they selected her to be the "Voice of Ireland" on the carrier's radio commercials. She has won many awards for amateur acting, is fluent in French, Spanish and, of course, Gaelic. Her abiding interest however, is Ireland and what it offers to the traveller.

Our Lady's Beats Cantabs As Sacred Heart Drops One

Our Lady's high school won one, while Sacred Heart high lost a game in Catholic Suburban League basketball play last Sunday in Newton and Revere.

It was the second straight league victory for Our Lady's when they whipped North Cambridge Catholic high school, 82 to 61, at Our Lady's gym.

Sacred Heart suffered its 11th defeat at the hands of Immaculate Conception high school in a game at Revere. The one-sided score was 89 to 53.

Our Lady's scored 46 points in the first 16 minutes to notch its win over North Cambridge. Our Lady's now boasts a 10-10 record.

Although the Newton school had been having its problems in the line this season, it was a different story Sunday.

The Newton group sank 28 of 37 foul line tosses, including 18 in a row. Capt. Pat Connaughton, who was high scorer for Newton with 25 points, tossed in nine of 10 charity throws.

Center Charlie Creeden tallied 16 points and had 20 rebounds and junior Tim Sullivan had 17 points.

Since Jay Feeley injured his ankle three weeks ago, Coach Tim Hurley has been going with an underclassmen unit. Connaughton and Creeden are the only seniors in the starting group.

Tom Giusti, and juniors Ed Cameron, Tim Sullivan and Richie Learned are the main players while sophomore Roy Boudreau has been worked into the lineup.

Four plays scored in double figures as Immaculate routed Sacred Heart.

Chance To Learn Two Trades At Local Office

Virtually all veterans benefits are tax-free and need not be reported on income tax returns. William P. Connors of the Boston VA office noted recently in reply to calls from taxpayers.

However, interest earned on deposit with the VA is not classed as a benefit, but earned income and must be reported on tax returns. Both proceeds of the GI policy and the dividends themselves are tax-free and need not be reported. Other VA benefits which are not taxable include:

Education and training allowances; subsistence payments to disabled veterans in vocational rehabilitation training; compensation and pension payments; grants to veterans for so-called "wheelchair" homes and motor vehicles, and all benefits to families of deceased veterans.

Information and assistance on VA benefits may be obtained at the VA Contact Division, Room E-116, John F. Kennedy Federal Building, Government Center, Boston, Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Saturdays, 9:00 to 1:00.

There are also several apprenticeships for the trade of resilient floor layer. The application period on this is from Feb. 1 to April 1. The requirements for this apprenticeship are: Not under 17 nor over 24 years of age. Physically capable of performing the work of the trade. High school graduate or its equivalent. The pay for this job corresponds to that of carpenter.

A high school graduate or the equivalent is desired. The applicant must also take the general aptitude test at the office. He will be accepted if his scores show that he has the potential to become a carpenter.

While in apprenticeship, the trainee will be paid $2.57½ per hour and will work a five-day week from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Member Trio Of Highlands Church Get Service Acclaim

The annual meeting of The Newton Highlands Congregational Church was held last evening in the Parish House of the church. The meeting was opened with prayer by the minister, Rev. Paul Pittman, followed by a Service of Remembrance for members who have passed away during the year.

The minister then spoke briefly thanking the members and officers for making the past year such a successful one for the church. The assistant minister, Rev. Judith Hjorth, gave her report and also spoke of the success of the week-day Church School which is in its second year and includes not only the young people from the church but is a joint venture with St. Paul's Episcopal Church of Newton Highlands and their young people. Other reports followed, ending with the vote of acceptance of the proposed budget for 1967.

At the conclusion, Testimonial Scroll was read and given to Edwin A. Terkelsen, in appreciation of his many years of devoted service to the church as its treasurer. Following this, Mr. and Mrs. Alston T. Budgell, were presented with a gift from their many friends in the church on the occasion of their retirement as officers.

Mr. Budgell has served as clerk of the church for twenty-nine years, and Mrs. Budgell as assistant to the treasurer and publicity secretary over a period of years; prior to this they had acted as advisors, to what was then known as the Young Peoples League, for a period of twenty years. Mr. and Mrs. Budgell will be leaving for Whittier, Calif. where they expect to make their home.

Report Meeting Of Jackson Home
Directors Held

The Board of Directors of the Friends of the Jackson Homestead met in the antique kitchen of the old Homestead at 527 Washington St., Newton on Tuesday evening. The meeting, presided over by Mrs. Albert E. Burgess of West Newton, president of the group, was attended by twenty-three directors and committee chairmen.

Following the reports of the committees and the transaction of business, Miss Betsy Allen presented a series of new slides showing some of the activities taking place recently at The Homestead.

Miss Lorraine Cotting of Newton Centre, hospitality chairman, then served refreshments to the group as they enjoyed a social hour before the fireplace of the old kitchen and browsed through the almost-completed rooms in the old ell.

An Open House is planned for the 16th of April when the new area will be completed and a fine collection of antique China will go on display.

The Woman's Association of Eliot Church will sponsor two programs next week. Mrs. Philip N. Horne, president, announces that on Tuesday, February 7, at 1:15 p.m. Mrs. Milton Sacks, in native costume, will show colored slides, and speak to the group about Saigon from "A Woman's Point of View."

Customs of the French Colonial Capitol will be explained, and she will relate experiences relative to running a household there with two very small children to care for. Sacred Heart Tops League

The girls' basketball team of Sacred Heart high school in Newton moved into sole possession of first place in the Catholic District League this week after they beat intra-city rival, St. Bernard's, 38 to 29.

Cynthia Bouzan's 21 points and Kathy Delaney's 13 markers were all the girls needed in a contest Monday at Bishop MacKenzie Center.

Sacred Heart trailed by two points at half-time, but Cynthia netted seven in the third period as the winners outscored St. Bernard's, 13-8. Mary Barry played a good defensive game for the winners, while Pat Chaisson was high for the losers with 13 points.

Sacred Heart now has a 6-1 slate. St. Bernard's is third at 4-3.

Rabbi Kieval To Lecture At Temple Tuesday

Rabbi Philip Kieval, spiritual leader of Temple Reymen, Newton, will lecture on "The Voice of the Book" on Tuesday morning, Feb. 7, at 9:30 a.m. at the Temple.

A native of Baltimore, Md., Rabbi Kieval graduated from Baltimore Hebrew College and received his B.A. Degree from Johns Hopkins University.

He was ordained from the Jewish Theological Seminary of America in 1947 and holds a Master of Hebrew Literature Degree from the Seminary. In 1963 he received his M.A. Degree from Brandeis University.

Recreation Comr. John C. Penney told police last week that the fence along Hull street was damaged by cars crashing into it, and that the gate at the Trade School ballfield was broken. He said the field will need "major reparation."

Rabbi Kieval served on the United Synagogue Commission on Jewish Education for several years and is a vice president of the New England Region — Rabbinical Assembly.

This lecture will be the fourth in Temple Reymen Sisterhood's exciting Adult Education Series, "Lift Up Thy Voice with Strength."

Non-members as well as Sisterhood members are invited. For further information call Nathan Seltzer, 90-8518.

Doctors

Mr. Wilson noted a heightened need for donors and for blood, owing to the Viet Nam conflict and to generally greater demands for blood in Boston-area hospitals.

He also noted a few wives had signed up and would donate with their doctor husbands.

Helping to provide volunteer coverage and assistance beyond the extensive volunteer service of Red Cross personnel, were members of the women's auxiliary of the Charles River Medical District Medical Society.

Advances continue in this area as earlier this week it was announced that scientists at the Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo had culminated 16 years of intensive research by determining the extremely complex structure of the enzyme ribonuclease.

Ribonuclease plays a key role in all living cells in that it breaks down ribonucleic acid, or RNA, whose task it is to carry a "blueprint" for manufacture of proteins by the cell.

The Massachusetts film was produced in an effort to bring more knowledge about cancer to Bay State residents while inspiring more students to turn to research in the field of science. It is currently being shown on request to advanced high school biology classes throughout the state.

His other civic activities include the Newton-Wellesley Hospital Board of Trustees, the Northeast Area Council of Boys Club and the Newton Boys Club. A graduate of Newton public schools, he also attended Northwestern University's School of Financial Public Relations.

Probably most important of all in split session versus single session is a point that we have not seen mentioned anywhere. On Monday, Wednesday, and Friday the child is academically overworked. On Tuesday and Thursday he is over-exercised in play. This problem must not be dodged. It should be faced and resolved in a uniform program for the best learning and living habits of the child. In this area an outside evaluator, unfeathered by the Newton image, could be expected to speak most authoritatively. We had hoped that the study group would have addressed itself to this consideration which should override all others.

(Ed. note: Ordinarily the Graphic does not publish unsigned letters to the Editor. However, the above letter was signed by a number of Newton parents who asked that their names not be published at this time. Since the Graphic has the names of the parents who sent in the letter, it is making an exception in this instance to the rule against unsigned letters.)

Today's teens are a part of the rebellious generation. They are searching for the "whys" rather than the "because." Yes, they have come to the realization that it is for them to impregnate the world with morality.

Truly it can be said that today's teenagers are not afraid to shake hands with truth — for themselves.

Many people are shocked at this attitude of morals. They without wearing gloves!

Officer Greeley Ends A Long Police Career

Officer Joseph Greeley retired yesterday in a ceremony held at Newton Police Headquarters conducted by Chief Philip Purcell and Newton Police Memorial Association President John Quinn.

Among relatives and friends Greeley was presented with a gold retirement badge by Chief Purcell and John Quinn presented a cash gift from the association, who also presented Mrs. Greeley with a bouquet of roses.

Greeley is widely known in Nonantum where he started his police career as skating officer at Boyd Park in the winter of 1928. Later, he was assigned as a patrolman in this area and was assigned in the first of the patrol cars which were introduced prior to the use of radio. He also worked in Chestnut Hill and West Newton districts before assuming charge of the signal and radio desk which he held for 15 years, nights.

After being re-assigned to the day platoon, Greeley was again assigned to Nonantum where he supervised the school crossings at Our Lady's Help of Christians Parochial School. It was here that Greeley supervised the safety education program and introduced a Driver Education program at High School level, the first such program in diocesan schools. He was a member of the Newton Police pistol team and had been for years small arms instructor for the department.

He has lectured throughout New England on gun safety and has conducted demonstrations for police, civil defense and private clubs for the past 25 years.

Greeley's career as a police officer has been one of activity on the street, in the station and in training. He has participated in committee work improving the working conditions, insurance and betterment programs and has many times been commended by past and present Mayors and Chiefs.

He pleaded innocent but admitted to a guilty finding on charges of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and driving after his right to operate had been suspended.

Zukor was arrested Jan. 24 near Newton South High school after a teacher reported a late model car was in effect only for that legislature session and want out of lot. Police said the car had existed at the end of last year, automatically cutting back the salaries of the were: his wife, Helena Cavannaugh Greeley; his brother, Sergeant Martin F. Greeley; Chief Philip Purcell, Captain William F. Quinn, Captain Richard F. Donahue, Captain John N. McMullen, Retired Captain Charles E. Walker, Lieutenant Albert Yanco, Lieutenant A. Charles Mascia, Sergeant James E. Halloran, Sergeant James Cox, Inspectors David Kerr, Joseph LaCroix, John Salemme, John Madden, Clerks Esta Hayes, Mrs. Catherine Butler and Miss Mildred Cronin.

Youth Fined, Second Freed In Auto Case

Melvin B. Zukor, 18, of 110 Longwood Avenue, Brookline, received a six-months suspended sentence and was fined $50 in Newton district court Monday after he was found guilty on motor vehicle charges.

At one time with a brother officer he was commanded for capturing a holdup man minutes after the crime and was also rewarded with time off for this effort which is the highest form of department recognition.

Officer Greeley intends to continue in Safety and Driver education at Our Lady's and also in small arms demonstrations and lectures.

A companion, Stephen R. Rutstein, 18, of 47 Great

Meadow road, Newton Centre, was found innocent of the charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and released. He told the court he believed the car belonged to Zukor's aunt and was being used with her permission.

Return Voter Quiz Promptly, Comm. Asks

Prompt return of voter registration questionnaires by Newton residents was urged today by Election Commission Secretary Alan Y. Licarie.

Police, who are compiling the listing to be used in November, reported that canvassing has been very good and they have completed Wards 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 8 except for callbacks in the evening from 6 to 10.

In Ward 6, police reported, they ran into an unusual number of "not-at-homes," both during the day and at night. Questionnaires to be mailed to City Hall were left.

So far, police have listed 50,133 names of persons 20 years and over. The expected count for a police listing is between 60-65,000 names.

Licarie said that prompt return of the forms left by police is necessary as the commission must check and validate all the questionnaires before making the voting list official.

Police officials wanted to stress to Newton residents that the six police officers making the night callbacks will be in uniform and when driving, will be in marked police cruisers.

LBJ SHARES POPE'S WISH FOR TRUCE EXTENSION

PRESIDENT JOHNSON told Pope Paul VI he devoutly shares the Pontiff's wish for a new year's truce extension which "may open the way to negotiations" for peace in Vietnam.

"The governments of the United States and the Republic of Vietnam together with others are devoting intensive efforts to this end," Johnson said in a message replying to the Pope's call for a truce extension.

The President said, however, that he knew the Pope "would not expect us to reduce military action unless the other side is willing to do likewise."

HOUSE PASSES $6 BILLION DEBT LIMIT BILL

THE HOUSE approved and sent to the Senate a bill to raise the temporary national debt limit by $6 billion to $336 billion. Passage of the measure came on a roll call vote after the House had rejected, 261 to 155, an effort by Republicans to write in amendments they said would assure "truth in budgeting."

The Republicans had sought to win House approval to return the bill to the House Ways and Means Committee with orders to write in their proposed provisions.

PENTHOUSE PATRONS IGNORED FIRE FATAL TO 25

A MONTGOMERY, ALA., penthouse restaurant fire that cost 25 persons their lives apparently was ignored by patrons until it was too late, fire investigators reported.

The blaze, possibly touched off by a cigarette in a cloakroom, raged through Dale's Restaurant Tuesday night, trapping about 40 persons and sending some of them leaping through plate glass windows onto a roof garden.

5 ELDERLY WOMAN KILLED IN N.H. BLAZE

FIRE RAGED through a nursing home in the isolated northern New Hampshire community of North Stratford last night, killing five elderly persons. A state police spokesman said the Daigneault Nursing Home on Route 3 was "burned flat."

Victims were identified as Jennie Crawford, 95, Catherine LaRochelle, 68, and Ida Graham, 70, all of Groveton; and Elizabeth Henson, 93, Guildhall, Vt., and John Nilan, 76, of Stratford.

$700 MILLION ASKED FOR POOR CHILDREN'S AID

CONGRESS WAS ASKED by President Johnson to provide $700 million in new benefits for poor children. They ranged from expansion of the Head Start program to playground construction.

Johnson submitted a 12-point program which he said was necessary to prevent current childhood disabilities from damaging the next generation. He proposed an attack on a wide front, including increased expenditures for health, education and recreation.

DAVID McCALLUM'S WIFE GETS DIVORCE

SCOTTISH ACTOR David McCallum, who plays Ilya in "The Man From U.N.C.L.E." television series, and his British-born wife, actress Jill Ireland, have been divorced in Santa Monica, Calif.

Superior Judge Kurts Kauffman granted Miss Ireland an interlocutory divorce and custody of the couple's three children, Paul, 8, Jason, 4, and Valentine, 3. Miss Ireland testified that McCallum inflicted mental cruelty which caused her to break out in a rash. She claimed he told telephone callers she was not at home; intercepted her mail; invited business friends to dinner and then failed to come home, and maintained a separate apartment during their marriage.

RED CHINA ON VERGE OF BREAK WITH SOVIET UNION

COMMUNIST CHINA is on the verge of severing all ties with the Soviet Union, Peking Radio indicated today. A broadcast reported the greatest anti-Russian demonstrations yet throughout the country.

NEW SNOW STORM THREATENS NEW ENGLAND

WEATHERMEN PROBED their charts today as a new snow threat to Greater Boston and New England started developing in the Gulf of Mexico and moving to the Southeastern coastal areas. Forecasters were saying that the new snowfall may reach here tomorrow.

Weary blizzard fighters, making progress on the huge snow piles deposited Tuesday, were hopeful that the new storm either veers away or drops only an inch or two of snow. Another substantial storm would set back the efforts of cities and towns to bring things back to normal.

B.U. MEDICAL CENTER GETS $2 MILLION GRANT

PRIEST PLEADS FOR BRINK'S ROBBERY PARTICIPANT

THE MASSACHUSETTS PAROLE Board today was considering a letter from the Catholic chaplain at Walpole State Prison urging release of James I. Faherty, serving a life term for participating in the $1.22 million Brink's robbery.

Rev. John J. Foley, chaplain at Walpole for two years, said that two years of almost daily contact and conversation with Faherty, convinced him that "this man is now ready for commutation of his life sentence which will make him eligible for immediate parole."

"Tight" Budget Faces More Mayoral Cutting

Mayor Monte G. Basbas is now in the process of trimming down the proposed 1967 municipal budget preliminary to submitting it to the Board of Aldermen.

The Mayor is striving to cut about $500,000 from the requests and recommendations of the city's department heads.

Even if he succeeds in achieving that objective, the combined city and school budget to be presented by the Mayor to the Aldermanic Board would still be $2.5 million greater than the amount appropriated last year.

That would be equivalent to a raise of close to $8 on the city's tax rate if all other factors which play a part in determining the rate were the same as last year.

Mayor Basbas declared last night that the suggested city departmental budgets submitted to him were "tight" and that his department heads already had cut proposed expenditures "to the bone."

But the Mayor added that he considered it necessary to make further reductions in the budget because of the slightly more than $3 million serious financial problems over last year's appropriations if the recommendations made by the municipal department heads are accepted.

Basbas said the total city and school budget would be

He asserted that he is hopeful of trimming $500,000 from the city budget.

Under the law neither the Mayor nor the Board of Aldermen has the power to cut the operating school budget.

The school budget will be $1,477,000 greater than that of last year if a tentative $100,000 item to cover the cost of a possible change to a single session in the elementary schools next September is left in the budget.

Pay raises granted to city employees account for an increase of approximately $700,000 in the municipal budget.

The wage hikes given to the police will cost $211,000, the fire department raises $203,000 and the increases for other city workers about $300,000.

No agreement yet has reached either with the nurses or the electrical wire inspectors, both of which groups are seeking substantially higher salary boosts than city officials last night that an increase will be necessary in the funds allocated for the maintenance of the city's plant and equipment.

If we don't maintain the plant and equipment properly, it will deteriorate rapidly and would have to be replaced earlier," remarked the Mayor, indicating that he considered it would be a false economy to provide an inadequate amount of money for maintenance purposes.

When the Mayor presents the school and municipal budgets to the Board of Aldermen next Wednesday, it will be referred automatically to the Aldermanic Finance Committee which will begin a series of meetings with various department heads on Saturday, Feb. 18.

The committee first will confer with Mayor Basbas on the overall budget and then will meet, in turn, with officials of the accounting, election, purchasing, treasury and police departments.

The conferences will continue into the night, with evening conferences sched-

The Burr School and the ad-

The Aldermen voted 20 to 2 to accept the Newton Housing Authority's offer of $96,117 for the land occupied by the buildings. The city will realize about $81,000 from the sale because it is estimated that costs of demolishing the buildings will be $15,000.

Finance Committee Chairman John P. Nixon and Aldermanic President Wendell R. Bauckman dissented in the vote. Nixon said $2 a foot could be obtained for the land if it were to be used for the erection of garden apartments, which he maintained, "the city needs badly."

The federal housing authority will not allow local authorities to spend any more than $1 a foot for land acquired for housing for

By JAMES G. COLBERT

Legislators Get Lambasted Whether Justified Or Not

Whatever the members of the Massachusetts Legislature do, they invariably seem to get lambasted, whether justified or not.

The criticism directed at the law-makers for the manner in which their pay raise bill was handled was picayune and largely unwarranted.

There were virtually no complaints about the size of the raise.

An imposing array of community, business and industrial leaders favored a base pay of $10,000 a year for legislators.

Their theory was that a good legislator earns $10,000 and that a law-maker who isn't worth that salary should be replaced by the voters of his district.

Blasts have been leveled at the legislators this time for voting the raise only for two years of their present session instead of making it permanent.

This means that the members of the Legislature will be obliged to vote the pay hike again in 1969. That is, of course, a time-wasting procedure.

School Readies Pupils For Life In A Changing World

By JAMES G. COLBERT, Jr.

"The object of teaching a child is to enable him to get along without his teacher," could be taken as the motto of Newton's Meadowbrook Junior High School. The phrase, tacked on the bulletin board of Meadowbrook curriculum coordinator Mrs. Ernestine R. McDonough, sums up a large part of the educational philosophy that guides Newton's recently heralded pilot junior high school.

Praise For Storm Handling In City

The storm-battered city of Newton was pretty well dug out today in the wake of the blizzard that dumped from 12 to 14 inches of snow in the area.

Residents of the city apparently appreciated the job accomplished by Acting Street Commr. Edward Boland and his force of over 400 men, because they called the Street Department to tell him so.

"It was kind of nice to receive the compliments," Boland said, "and I think it was a great tribute to the men who worked so hard."

The Street Department's battle against the "killer" blizzard, that claimed a total of 18 lives throughout New England, began at 8 a.m. Tuesday morning.

A report on the advisability of changing to a single session in Newton's elementary schools will be submitted to the School Committee next Monday night by a group which has been studying school schedules.

Questions from the public are not allowed at School Committee meetings.

Poet Allen Tate Lectures Feb. 14 At Local College

Allen Tate, American poet, author and critic, will speak on "Poetry: Modern and Unmodern," Tuesday (Feb. 14), at 7 p.m. in Chapel Hall on the Newton College of the Sacred Heart campus.

The Valentine's Day lecture, second of four in the College's 1966-67 David Reeves series, will be open to the public. No admission will be charged.

Mr. Tate, who has published sixteen volumes of verse, criticism, biography and fiction, is a past winner of both Yale University's Bollingen Prize for poetry, and the American Academy of Poets' prize—a $5,000 award.

Born in Winchester, Ky., and educated at Vanderbilt University, Mr. Tate once edited the notable literary magazine, The Sewanee Review, and subsequently won election to the National Institute of Arts and Letters.

A popular lecturer on poetry and criticism at colleges and universities in this country, England, France and Italy, he has been for many years a professor of English at the University of Minnesota.

The David Reeves series at Newton College was established last fall as a service to the Greater Boston community. Named for a longtime friend and benefactor of the College's library, the series will bring to the Chapel Hall forum each year distinguished scholars, artists and public servants.

Clergymen In Midst Of 3-Day Fast

Five Newton clergymen today are on the second day of a three-day fast for a "rebirth of compassion in ourselves and across this country."

The clergymen, who believe that "in this century of global conflict, we are losing our sensitivity to human misery and suffering," are:

The Rev. Harold Fray of the Eliot Congregational Church; the Rev. Ronald Prinn, St. John's Episcopal Church; the Rev. James Rafferty, St. Philip Neri Church; Rabbi David Weiss, Temple Emanuel; and the Rev. Roger Zimmerman of the United Methodist Church.

They wrote to rabbis, priests and ministers in the Newton religious community inviting them to participate also.

The letter was a response to a request by the National Committee of Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam which conducted a two-day vigil in Washington.

The five clergymen, representing the three major faiths, and others joining them, subsist on a meal of tea and rice each evening at 6 p.m. in St. John's Episcopal Church, Lowell ave., Newtonville.

Hyde School PTA Meeting Tonight At 8

The Hyde School PTA is planning a "Parents' Forum" for its open meeting tonight, Thursday, February 9th at 8 p.m. in the first floor auditorium of the old Hyde building.

This will provide parents with a unique opportunity to discuss in small groups some matters of common concern.

Following a brief general meeting, the parents will be able to join any one of four discussion groups, depending on their area of interest.

Certain members of the PTA will act as catalysts to stimulate discussion within the groups.

The topics and the "catalysts" are as follows: The Role of the School in Sex Education — Mr. Plank and Mr. and Mrs. Hartnett; Social Adjustment of Elementary School Children — Mr. Kramer and Mr. Oshima; Johnny Does It, Why Can't I? Mayor Firm On Offer Of Raise For Nurses

Mayor Monte G. Basbas stood firm yesterday on the offer of a 10 per cent pay raise to Newton's 18 public health nurses despite an ultimatum by the nurses that they will resign unless the recommendation by a state-appointed mediator is approved.

The nurses originally asked that their salaries be increased from the present $5115-$6015 range to $6500-$7800. A mediator recommended a $6000-$7250 range after five years.

Basbas, who turned down the mediator's proposal, said yesterday he felt a "very reasonable offer" had been made to the nurses consisting of a 10 per cent pay hike, four weeks of vacation after 15 years of service (four-week vacations are now allowed after 20 years of service) and more liberalized sick leave privileges.

Basbas also took exception to a finding by the mediator that the work of the public health nurses is comparable to that of the nurses at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital. He

School officials emphasized that a public hearing will take place within the next two weeks on the report, which has aroused great interest. At that time, the findings of Dr. Knowles' study group will be explained in full, and questions will be answered, it was assured.

The exact date and place of the public hearing are not yet known but it will take place before the Feb. 27 School Committee meeting at which the board will make a decision on school sessions in order to determine the final budget they will present to the Aldermen at their March 2 joint meeting.

The site of the public hearing will not be the regular School Committee room at the Stearns School, since the latter has a seating capacity for roughly thirty people.

A number of parents interested in single session have campaigned for the meeting and have requested the presence of Dr. Knowles, School Superintendent Charles E. Brown, and members of the School Committee to answer questions on the problem. These groups have urged attendance at both Monday's School Committee meeting and the open hearing.

The Draft Law

The Selective Service Law expires next June 30. Before that date Congress must take some action if conscription is to continue.

Within the next few weeks, President Johnson, who urged a change in the draft laws in his State of the Union message, is expected to make a series of recommendations to Congress.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the senior senator from Massachusetts, has already called on the Congress to overhaul the Selective Service system. He has attacked the system for what he calls its uncertainty, unfairness and inflexibility which, he claims, has led to a "tragic loss of confidence . . . around the country."

In a recent speech before the influential National Press Club in Washington, the Senator argued that the current system "lets 75 per cent of those wealthy enough or bright enough to go on to graduate school, escape military service completely."

He also said that the present system is one that allows professional athletes to join National Guard units "which neither train nor guard" and which permits local boards to apply widely different rules.

The Senator was denounced in Washington by the president of the National Guard Association, Maj. Gen. James F. Cantwell, who branded his remarks as "inaccurate, uninformed and insulting."

But Sen. Kennedy refused to back down. He told the General he was making no criticism of the service, the National Guard has performed, both in past and present crises. His only quarrel is "the fact that professional athletes have been given preferential treatment in assignment to both the Guard and other components of the reserve forces."

We applaud the Senator's position and his courageous attempt to right what many people have felt to be a wrong. We feel something has to be wrong with a system which permits, for instance, little Johnny Jones to slog through the mud and slime and danger of the Mekong Delta lugging a heavy pack and gun, while hulking, six-foot-one Billy Smith slips and slides on the verdant turf of a stadium carrying an inflated football.

As it was so aptly put at a recent public hearing in the State House: "If fullbacks, who should be carrying full packs, can run the length of a football field, they can make it up the gangplank of a ship."

How would Sen. Kennedy change the Selective Service system? He outlined five specifics he said are needed:

- Eliminate most of the present reasons for deferment—such as education, fatherhood and so-called "essential occupations."

- Further revise the system of mental and physical qualifications.

- Devise a system "which gives every eligible young man an equal chance to serve or be exempt."

- A Presidential order reversing the present policy of drafting the oldest eligibles first and, instead, looking first to the 18 and 19-year-olds.

- Eliminating the system of assigning each state a monthly quota of draftees, in favor of a national system of selection.

A report is due soon from a 20-member National Commission on Selective Service which was authorized last summer by President Johnson.

We hope the Commission recommends meaningful changes in the law which will restore confidence once again and uphold the traditions of American fair play.

Voter Booklet Revision Now Planned For Redistribution

The Voter Information on Hammond street deal leaflet compiled and distributed by the Newton Republican City Committee is going to be revised and brought up to date and its distribution will be continued as public service under committee auspices, William A. Lincoln, City Committee chairman, announced after the executive session held this week.

Response throughout the city has been so favorable, Lincoln declared, that the Executive Committee sanctioned the substantial expenditure needed to carry on the Voter Registration Program.

The program, initiated last Spring under the chairmanship of Mrs. Michael G. C. Bucuvales, won wide approval. More than six thousand residents received the leaflet. Revision will be undertaken at once and detailed plans for mailings will follow.

Hollywood—About 276 other items of the agenda trades, professions and crafts of the executive session held are needed in making motion in the home of the chairman pictures.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

On Budget Cuts

Your editorial on Feb. 2, will be framed and put in a place of honor in my home. Yes, it is true that Germany had its concentration camps and Massachusetts has its Fernald State School.

Men of steel with hearts of stone, do not cry or feel ashamed about these conditions. Sleep well. You are not guilty, even though ignorance of the law is no excuse. You are not responsible for budget cuts.

You did not make these horrible conditions possible . . . We the people, I a human being, a Professional Mother, I a voter, I am the guilty one. I allowed these conditions to exist. I went everywhere, I went to everyone, I worked so hard, but I failed.

Please G-d, know that I am sorry that I failed. My wonderful family, my many teachers that taught me not to be afraid to fight for what I believed in; I failed all of these people the day I stopped fighting. I even failed my religious leaders because I stopped hoping and praying for help.

My day of failure was the day I accepted and believed in our politicians. I have only one excuse and that is that I just got so tired, and sick of fighting these budget cuts. The easy way out was to accept unbelievable conditions. Long ago, that June day I picketed the State House, I made a mistake when I left, and stopped marching.

I never should have left until every man, woman, and child in this State had come to march with me. Together we could have marched to victory — a new world for those who would never know our world.

The facts have been told, now that the community understands, my job is done. Claire Arafe can go back to that pile of ironing waiting for me. Newton Representatives, you can run again and again. Do not worry about any competition from me.

We get what we deserve, we get what we ask for. All our four Representatives voted for their pay raise, thus they now can not qualify for any poverty program money.

One fact keeps me going—one thing keeps hope burning inside me—one little item keeps my heart full of happiness. Last summer our MDC got one million dollars to keep the Stoughton Zoo Serves nice and comfortable, and clean, and cool. VOTERS, remember this. Any state that can be so kind to animals can't be all bad. Human beings suffer from budget cuts, but let's all REMEMBER THE HAPPY SEAS...

Let School Board Alone

Editor of The Graphic: Regarding the elementary school schedule study: It is very disconcerting to me as a member of the electorate to see the School Committee almost abdicate its position as a policy-making group.

The School Committee and the school administration are charged with the responsibility of conducting the business of running Newton's schools.

Let the vocal members of the electorate make their views known at election time, and let our present School Committee move onto the business of running one of the best school systems in the country!

Likes Program

Editor of The Graphic: I was most grateful for your very full and excellent coverage of the possibility of a Newton Corner Community Programme.

If you consider it pertinent, I should like to add three small facts at this time, which may fill in for those who have been talking to me since. One, that Newton Corner does not have a Neighborhood Association. This seems an astonishing lack because it would be from such a group that we could find many more helpers.

Secondly we have most successfully started two small "hobby-groups" already . . . one in cooking and one in photography . . . and the student participation has been 100 per cent in both. This I feel shows that the children are not just "talking-it-up" as I was warned they might.

Thirdly, for those parents and adults who MIGHT want to contribute their time and skill in everything from carpentry to pottery-making; I think I should add that they would not be signing up for a life-time of service (though that would be very nice!).

Each course will only run about a month (4 to 6 meetings) and as in the case of the cooking, each mother is only being asked to contribute one single afternoon. Not much really, is it?

Thank you again,
Sincerely, Andy Marshall

Headlight And Highlights From Newton South High

BY JAMES SHULMAN

There is one major question in the minds of Newton South students these days, and that is "Where's Charley?" Only the drama club knows, but they will tell us all March 10, 11, and 12 when they present the musical comedy "Where's Charley" in the Newton South auditorium.

The cast and members of the play are working under the careful guidance of Mr. Ernest Chamberlain, dramatics director and Mr. David Kaplan, music director.

The leads for the production are Thomas Bruce as Jack Chesney, Terri Bryant, Amy Spettigue; Robert Carpenter, Sir Francis Chesney; Mark Cohen, Charley Wykeham; Nathan Jackson, Kitty Verdun; Richard Kenney, Spettigue, and Ruth MacCloskey, Donna Lucia.

The thirty-nine chorus members include Jerry Altman, Lisa Ayman, Lindy Beard, Stephen Belt, Rhonda Blair, Judy Bloom, Phyllis Bloom, Beverly Bruce, Michael Burkett, Lynn Caplan, Robin Dexter, Liz Edinberg, Peter Einstein, Leslie Filurin, Liz Gans, Joan Geltnan, Jerry Gladstone, David Gondelman, James Katz, Linda Klein, Jerry Levine, and Lynne Lourie.

Also: Jodi Maxner, Sue Merrian, Debbie Platt, Russ Platt, Marti Radio, Jeff Robbins, Stan Schertzer, Jim Shane, Jason Sobol, Richard Stich, Marvin Swartz, Ellen Waks, Roseli Weiss, Jane Woodley, and Laurie Zollen.

The choreographer for the play is Lois Levine. The talented piano players are Betsy Goldberg, Barbara Golden, and Beverly Stone. The behind-the-scenes work is directed by production managers Shelly Dworet and Judy Lazar with junior apprentice Linda Gershman and sophomore apprentice Lucy Solburg.

Goodwin House of Newton South is currently engaged in the passage of two constitutional amendments. The first is the equal representation amendment. Presently, each senior homeroom has two votes in the House Council as opposed to one vote for junior and sophomore homerooms. The new amendment provides that each homeroom receives one vote.

Stan Dolberg of Newton South set a new school record for the 600-yard run in the B.A.A. track meet at the Boston Garden. Stan's sparkling time of 1:16.5 squeezed by the old mark of 1:17.9 owned by Bill Collins, a 1965 Newton South graduate.

Political Highlights

ted States. This is true even if he becomes a Canadian citizen.

Those youths who think they can use Canada as a haven to sit out the war in Vietnam are in for a terrific shock if and when they decide to come back to this country.

Selective service officials are convinced that some American youths now living in Canada have no conception of the serious consequences of what they're doing.

GOP May Bar "Favorite Sons"

Senator Edward M. Brooke observed in a recent interview that the Republican party must decide very soon whether it will have "favorite son" candidates in next year's Presidential primaries.

Brooke indicated that a conference of top GOP leaders probably would be held to reach a decision on the matter.

How "favorite son" candidates for the Presidency could be prevented from entering the Presidential primaries in their own States is not clear to this observer.

It is true that "favorite son" aspirants can prevent a clear-cut test of strength between top Presidential contenders.

Michigan's Governor George Romney, for example, would be willing to test his strength against former Vice President Richard M. Nixon in a Massachusetts Presidential primary but would not be anxious to take on Governor John A. Volpe in similar popularity contest in Volpe's own State.

Yet, a move to prevent "favorite sons" from running in their home States would be highly unusual. It would be almost tantamount to telling them they couldn't try for the Presidency.

Good Shepherd Parish Calendar Coming Events

After the Lenten program of Holy Communion at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, Feb. 15, coffee will be served at 10 at the Parish of the Good Shepherd, and the Episcopal Church Women will devote the rest of the morning to filling boxes to send to missions and to Vietnam. Members are asked to bring sandwiches for luncheon, at which the dessert hostess will be Mrs. Elmer F. Ardell.

Following are some of the articles needed for the boxes, and which may be brought to the parish office prior to the 15th: crayons, pads of paper, puzzles for adults and children, note books, pencils, children's scissors, cards, ball point pens, soap, thin air-mail paper and envelopes, bandages, shoelaces, combs, life-savers and hard candies.

For the Vietnam boxes: tea, coffee, chocolate milk, Kool Aid, salt, pepper, mustard, ketchup, towlettes, rulers, games, books for small children, Bible stories and pictures, new Christmas cards.

Some of them apparently hope and expect to return to this country and their homes when the war in Vietnam ends.

It will not be that simple, however, for those who have been listed as delinquents or draft dodgers by their selective service boards.

Selective service officials declare that indictments eventually will be sought against all youths who ignore the notices sent them and are classified as draft dodgers, whether they are in this country or Canada.

Such indictments remain in force as long as an individual lives, making him subject to arrest if he returns to the United States.

Registrations Open For Teens Winterfest Trips

The Newton Community Center announced last week that registrations are now underway for Newton teenagers of junior high and senior high school interested in attending Winterfest performances during February vacation. Evening performances are as follows:

Monday, Feb. 20, Pops Orchestra Concert at Symphony Hall, Arthur Fiedler conducting. The feature attraction will be the "Winterfest Concerto for a Five Stringed Banjo and Orchestra," a commissioned work composed by Earl Robinson for Peter Eegeer who will play it for the first time at Winterfest.

Thursday, Feb. 23, Boston Symphony Orchestra at Symphony Hall, Erich Leinsdorf conducting. Special concert featuring Haydn's "Creation" Mass with four soloists and the Rutgers University Choir.

Teenagers who are interested in joining these groups for an evening or afternoon of fun should contact the Newton Community Center, 429 Cherry St., West Newton (244-2260).

The Community Center is located just off Washington St. near West Newton Square and is easily accessible by public transportation. Early registration is recommended.

Fun On Stage Or Back Stage For Circle Players

The Circle Players, a New-ton community theatre group, is welcoming new members to participate in its second production of the 1966-67 season — a three-act comedy.

The group meets at the Newton Community Center at 429 Cherry St., West Newton, and anyone interested in joining the players should contact Mrs. B. Berman, 15 Shuman Cir., Newton Center, 244-2994. She is president of the players.

Earlier this season, under the direction of Joel Dorfman, the Circle Players presented a widely acclaimed evening of one-act plays by Thornton Wilder. The production, as with all productions of the group, was designed, built, and acted by the nonprofessional members of the players.

Dorfman, a native of New-ton now living in Wollaston, has had a distinguished career in professional and community theatre and his training includes a BFS from Boston University's division of theatre arts.

The second production of the season will be a three-act comedy, the title of which will be announced soon. Membership is open to anyone interested in having fun on stage or back stage. Meetings are two evenings a week. No experience is necessary.

Caroline Mary Poplin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Poplin, 30 Voss Terr., Newton Centre, has been elected Copy Editor of College News, the student newspaper at Bryn Mawr College, Penn. A sophomore, she is a graduate of Newton South High School.

Schechter PTA Meets At Temple Next Wednesday

The Solomon Schechter Day School P.T.A. will meet next Wednesday night, Feb. 15, at the Temple Reym School building, 1860 Washington St., West Newton.

Parent-teacher conferences will be held from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m., followed by a panel discussion on "Science Instruction and Your Child."

Panelists will be Dr. Ernest Rabinowicz, Assoc. Prof. of Mechanical Engineering at M.I.T., and Dr. Allan Leitman, professor of education at Wheelock College and consultant to Educational Services Inc.

Rabbi Joseph Schultz, president of the P.T.A. will serve as moderator.

William Hibbard, 5 Channing Rd., Newton Centre, was awarded a Ph.D. at the University of Iowa's mid-winter commencement exercises.

Newton PTA Council Opposes Bill Aimed At School Board Autonomy

Members of Newton Council of P.T.A.'s unanimously voted opposition to House Bill 1190 which, if enacted, would repeal fiscal autonomy of school committees.

"Such fiscal autonomy," stated Legislative Chairman Joshua Guberman of 1066 Walnut St., Newton Highlands, "has been essentially the law in Massachusetts since Colonial times and the foundation upon which the educational systems have consistently excelled."

Lincoln-Eliot School was host to the February meeting, inaugurating a new procedure for monthly meetings to be held in various schools throughout the city. Co-Presidents Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lewandowski and Principal Robert Jackson of Lincoln-Eliot headed a committee of parents and faculty serving as hosts.

The Council also took a unanimous stand against particular bills before the Legislature that would weaken the racial imbalance law. Specifically mentioned were House Bills 188, 728, 729 and 2162.

Said Mr. Guberman, "While I recognize that the City of Newton does not have a problem of racial imbalance in the sense in which that term is used in the statute, nevertheless, I am of the opinion that we cannot in good conscience ignore this effort to have Mass. abandon any advances which it has made . . . It would be tragic if the legislature of Mass. were now to enact legislation which could be interpreted as a retreat from the principles established in the racial imbalance law."

The Council, however, voted favorably, with reservations, relative to House Bills 2362 and 2363, which deal with a Metropolitan solution for racial imbalance, and the members voted in favor of the creation of a legislative study of the feasibility of Metropolitan planning to solve problems of imbalance.

Council President Bernard Kaplan referred to the lengthy meetings resulting from appraisals of these far-reaching, but distinctly pertinent, appraisals of various areas of concern. He re-emphasized the role the Council has sought in the community as a vital body of concerned and informed citizens.

Herbert Regal, chairman of the Committee on Charter Review, presented background information and several proposals of his committee with respect to matters pertaining to the size and method of election of the School Committee. (This several month-long PTA study was solicited by the Board of Alderman and the League of Women Voters in response to considerable interest expressed throughout the city.) A Vote on this report was tabled until next month's meeting to enable members to become more fully informed and make assessments of their own and among their individual PTAs.

President Kaplan, reporting as a member of the Special Study Committee on the Elementary School Schedule, reported he had been in communication with School Committee Chairman Harold J. Berman. In response to Mr. Kaplan's inquiry with regard to a public forum for a discussion of the final recommendation.

the beginning of each nine week term.

These and other innovations are part of a series of measures designed to put into effect the philosophy that today's children will live in a changing world; and that these changes will force the children to make more decisions than their parents and grandparents had to make and also to evaluate much more information in making them.

THE CONTRACT

Children at the Meadowbrook School make out what they continue to call a "contract" every nine weeks.

"Contract" is a term which was devised to express the commitment of those taking the so-called "Continuous Learning Program" during the years in which the Meadowbrook system was being formulated.

At that time, the School was divided between pupils who remained in a more traditional system and pupils who had initiated the present pattern of instruction.

Some students at the Levi F. Warren Junior High School have started to fill in "contracts" since their school has partially adopted the nine-week system.

And meanwhile, at the Meadowbrook School, even though there is no longer any need to distinguish a special commitment on the part of some students to perform the work required in the courses they have chosen, a tradition has grown up and students continue to call their study plans "contracts".

In making up their contracts pupils do have guidance, although part of the spirit of Meadowbrook is that they should be allowed to do what they want in so far as is possible, especially if they can give reasons for their decisions, but that they must learn that their decisions can bring consequences not always agreeable.

Part of the decision process is living with the decision once it has been made.

Making a bad decision and sticking with it as is valuable as making the right decision to begin with", was the conclusion at a recent meeting of a team of teachers.

Students are instructed to discuss their course selection both with their house advisors and with their parents before signing up for their courses.

One girl recalled a case where a house advisor pointed out to her that a course she wanted to take was too easy for her; or a house advisor may direct a child toward a course that will strengthen basic skills, instead of a more advanced literature course that may catch the student's eye.

Probably a more representative case, however, is that of a boy who reported that he had never been prevented from taking what he wanted. He said that he had managed to guide himself by the explanations given for each course at the end of the preceding term, when the children receive explanations and brief mimeographed outlines of the next term's offerings.

They must distribute their choices over the electives to a certain extent so as to take something of everything during their three years of junior high school.

In the major subjects, or perhaps "academic subjects", would be a better way of describing them, the students attend two 45-minute and two 30-minute periods a week for a total of two-and-one half hours of classroom time.

They are supposed to take a total of three courses in English and social studies each term, one course in mathematics and one in science. They generally take a foreign language, and some take two.

Thus the total load for each Meadowbrook student each term is about seven or eight units counting electives.

UNSCHEDULED TIME

The scheduling of such varied time blocks is complicated, and this has led Meadowbrook to another innovation, the abolition of bells.

With overlapping classes bells would be a constant distraction.

Scheduling is helped by data processing. The children learn to use IBM cards from the start, thereby entering into another facet of contemporary life.

Meadowbrook Principal Bettina King confesses that she looks upon Newton Junior College's IBM machine as almost a person. "I don't know what we would do without data-processing", she says.

The IBM machine in particular acts as a quiet and efficient truant officer in making sure that everyone uses his unscheduled time correctly.

Unscheduled time is an hour a day which pupils can use for whatever they need most. They may go to any of the subject centers in math, English, social science, languages or science. Or they may ask to see a specific teacher. They may also request use of the language laboratory, or the library or audio-visual material if they are working on a project.

The youngsters pull their IBM cards each day and indicate how they wish to spend their free time the following day. The IBM machine processes the data and sends back lists to each subject center and to each teacher so they will know whom to expect. Other lists are sent to each house advisor so he will know where all his advisees are.

A number of factors may influence a decision to ask for a given center or teacher. Teachers can call pupils to talk with them. In fact, they try to give examinations during unscheduled time so they can devote as much class time as possible to teaching.

A pupil may simply need help with a mathematics problem, a translation, or a composition. The possibility of solving these difficulties which often are of interest to only one pupil in unscheduled time, is another factor that permits teachers to get tent of his courses, would require that he make a child repeat a math course which he or she has not mastered.

Despite the great amount of choice given in selecting all courses in Meadowbrook, some courses are called "electives". These courses—in areas such as physical education, music, art, home economics, industrial arts and typing—meet twice a week for an hour and students take one or two each term.

Board Backs Income Tax Share Plan

Newton would receive $900,000 under the terms of a "Share the Income Tax" plan urged by the National Association of Mayors; it was revealed to the Board of Aldermen Monday night.

The Aldermen voted unanimously to adopt a resolution supporting Mayor Monte G. Basbas in his desire to go along with other members of the National Association of Mayors in seeking "an automatic return to local communities of a certain portion of Federal income taxes for use by individual city governments in a manner they deem best."

The "Share the Income Tax" plan would be somewhat similar to the annual distribution to cities and towns of state income and corporation tax monies.

Under the plan, the return to a city would be at the rate of $10 per person. Thus, Newton with its population of some 90,000 persons would receive approximately $900,000.

Alderman Melvin J. Dangel presented the resolution.

Martin Urges Early Mailing Of Valentines

Postmaster Ephraim Martin urges the public to mail valentines as early as possible, pointing out that their volume is second to that of Christmas cards.

Special valentine boxes have been placed in the lobby of all Newton post offices. The deposit of local cards in these boxes will enable the valentines to be postmarked and turned over to carriers for delivery.

Postmaster Martin said that there is an expanded use of special delivery on valentines for cards, flowers, candy and other gift items.

The use of first class postage and Zip Codes in return and mail addresses will facilitate the movement of this mail and assure return or forwarding where necessary.

Air mails deposited this week should provide delivery anywhere in the United States by Valentine Day, Feb. 14.

As one postal official said, "If love is the spirit of valentine, mail them on time so as not to break a heart."

Newton Public Health Nurses Accept Fact Finder Decision

The Massachusetts Nurses Association, representatives of the Newton Public Health Nurses, has accepted the Fact Finding decision handed down on February 1 by William J. Fallon, Esq., who was appointed by the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration to help break the deadlock in negotiations between the M.N.A. and the City of Newton.

Mrs. Susan Levin, assistant director of M.N.A., stated that "Although the decision still leaves the Newton Public Health Nurses at a lower rate of salary than public health nurses employed by the city of Boston or Springfield, it is the general policy of the M.N.A. to accept the Fact Finder's decision. We expect that the city of Newton will comply with the decision."

In his decision, arbitrator William J. Fallon states that "On the basis of the Association's presentation in this case, a reasonable person should be persuaded that a substantial wage inequity exists for Public Health Nurses in Newton."

He also stated that "The City is not only justified, but it has a moral obligation to correct the existing wage inequity for Public Health Nurses in Newton."

Newton Man Is Appointed At Longwood

Joseph A. Barry, 211 Highland Ave., Newtonville, has been named chairman of the United States National Doubles Father and Son Tennis Tournament to be held at the Longwood Cricket Club, Chestnut Hill, this summer, according to an announcement by Walter E. Elcock, president of Longwood.

The Spy Ponders were led by Steve Donnelly who put the puck into the net four times and Glen Hale who did it twice. Both of Hale's goals came in the first period.

League leading scorer Bob Havner was held to just one goal.

The Newton Cagers first loss was a 68-51 drubbing by Weymouth. It was the Mauroon's 11th victory of the year against no defeats.

The telling factor of the game was the third quarter in which Newton suffered through their worst offensive period of the year. They could only manage to chalk up 3 points whereas Weymouth netted 19.

At halftime, however, things were fairly even as Newton trailed by only two points, 28-26. In the final quarter, the Tigers outscored their hosts 22-21.

The Weymouth effort was spearheaded by Jim Hassan with 17 points and Jim Duray with 14. Reliable Paul Ward again led all Newton scorers with 14 points.

Ron Harris and Walt Collins led Rindge Tech to a decisive 90-63 defeat of Newton High. They each got 22 points and 21 points respectively. On the Newton side of the ledger there isn't much to rave about.

A key point of encouragement was the play of Sandy Winslow who, in his first varsity game, scored 11 points and was Newton's second leading scorer. Coach Fortune also got closer look at juniors Phil Nelson and Paul

Hoop, Ice Teams Drubbed Despite Valiant Battles

By JOE GORIN

Newton high's athletic teams went through their most disastrous week of the season last week. The basketball team was trampled over twice and the hockey squad was also romped upon.

The two losses dropped the hoopsters' league record to 6-6 and their overall to 8-6. Cambridge Latin's win, combined with Newton's loss, put those two teams in a second place tie in the GBI hockey league.

The Newton Cagers first loss was a 68-51 drubbing by Weymouth. It was the Mauroon's 11th victory of the year against no defeats.

Former Indian Social Worker To Speak Here

Mrs. Loy Long of Auburndale who worked in India for twenty years directing social welfare projects in economically depressed areas, will give an illustrated lecture at the Newton Centre Woman's Club on Friday, February 10, at 2:30 o'clock. She will show pictures which she took on a recent journey around the world.

The title of her talk is, "Minarets and Marigolds."

Mrs. Long devotes much of her time today working with international students, intercultural committees and peace organizations. She has contributed articles and poetry to numerous magazines and newspapers. She recently completed her fourth trip around the world.

In India, Mrs. Long worked with her husband, the Rev. Loy L. Long, one of the first social welfare workers in that country, in social settlements in Bombay, Ahmednagar, and Sholapur, organizing baby welfare centers, family planning clinics, educational, recreational and arts and crafts programs. Mr. Long is now a personnel secretary for the United Church Board for World Ministries.

Mrs. Long is best known in India for the development of a sisal fiber industry in the city of Ahmednagar for the benefit of famine victims. Founded in 1937, the industrial center has provided jobs for hundreds of men and women, teaching them to utilize sisal fiber for making carpets, belts, bags, sandals and hats.

On her most recent trip to the Orient she visited the mission center where she and Mr. Long worked. At the sisal industrial center she created several new designs aimed at increasing sales in this self-supporting enterprise.

Troop's Display Commemorates Scout Week

The window display in the Newton Corner branch of the Newton Savings Bank was prepared by Boy Scout Troop 311 in commemoration of National Boy Scout Week, Feb. 7 to 13.

A Scouting-in-action display, it includes a campsite mock-up, rope work, and pioneer models created to exemplify the Scout movement.

The central theme, "Scout-Spirit," is an exhibit of actual training devices made by the Webelos Den of Cub Scout Pack 348.

To climax this festive week, the troop will have on display Feb. 11 a camping arrangement complete with tents, campfires, cooking and axeman ship, at Farloe Park, corner of Centre and Vernon Sts., Newton.

Troop 311 is now in its 54th year of continuous active service and one of the oldest in the country, and the members are proud to be affiliated with the Boy Scouts of America.

Elden Marks, 11 George St., is scoutmaster, and John Jarnis, 64 Nonantum St., chairman.

A time construction clerk, Shea had been adjudged incapacitated and entitled to an annual pension of $4100.

The other Retirement Board request asked for $4254, covering the pension of Frederick L. Young, a Public Bldg. Dept. employee for over 24 years. That sum covers November and December of 1965, and all of 1966. Also requested was $958 in advance of the budget to cover the first three months of this year. Young, too, is a World War I veteran.

Also approved was the Workmen's Compensation Agent's request for $2337 to pay hospital and doctor's bills of William Stump, a city employee for 16 years. He suffered a severe leg injury in the line of duty in 1959.

Zone Change For Oak Hill Is Protested

A vigorous disapproval by nearly 100 Oak Hill District residents was expressed last week at a request for a zone change near the New England Peabody Home for Crippled Children.

The request was made to change a single residence district to a district that would allow garden type apartments to be constructed.

The meeting was held by the Oak Hill District Improvement Association Board of Directors to permit residents to hear a presentation to change the zoning.

It was held Wednesday, February 1, at 30 Jacobs Terr., Newton Centre, home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd J. Wilkins.

Seeking the change in zoning and a vote of approval by the Improvement Association was the Old Farm Realty Trust Co. owned by Alvin Slotnick, Waban, and Murray J. Sloane of Boston.

The presentation made to the OHIDA directors unanimously to oppose the changing of the zoning regulations.

The consensus of the citizens at the meeting was also unanimously opposed to changing the zoning. Not one of the area residents at the meeting supported the change.

The site in question is located directly in front of the Peabody Home at the foot of the hill fronting on Dedham St. It is opposite the fire station and at the corner of Dedham and Brookline Streets.

At present the site is zoned for single family houses and no homes can be accommodated on the location.

The proposal, which will go before Newton's aldermen at a public hearing in City Hall Monday evening, February 13, is asking to construct four separate buildings with three levels each. A total of 31 "houses" would be in the four units. The "houses" would not be individually owned. Old Farm Realty Trust would be the owner. A total of 31 garages would be included.

The developers are also proposing a 30' wide driveway running in front of all four buildings parallel to Dedham St. There would be one entrance and one exit to Dedham St., they said, which would tend to control traffic and help eliminate congestion in the area.

Mr. Freedman, speaking for the company, said the multiple units would produce more tax revenue for the city. Another spokesman pointed out that neither the nine single units as now allowed or the multiple units would change the tax rate a dollar either way.

The subdivision of the Peabody Home land was approved by the Newton Planning Board in 1963. It calls for a total of 53 single homes, many of which have now been built. The remaining parcel of land now in question allows for nine single houses.

Edward M. Hallett, Jr., Newton Centre, president of the Oak Hill District Improvement Associations, presided at both the public meeting and the Board of Directors meeting.

South's Historic Effort . . .

Fails To Down Marian But Defeats Bedford

By RAY KWASNICK

The Newton South hockey team came up with two of the finest efforts of its history as it blanked Bedford, 4-0, and was nipped 1-0 by a Marian team which has gone undefeated in the Dual County League for the past two years. Saturday, the Lions face last place Westwood in a 5:15 p.m. game at Loring Arena, Framingham.

South will be keeping an eye on the final result of the Lynnfield-Wayland game at 1:30. If Lynnfield wins, the Lions could conceivably move into a second place tie with Wayland. South completely dominated the Bedford contest. In fact 14-0 would be more appropriate to the game than the actual score of 4-0. The Lions outshot Bedford 35-8 during the game.

A tight Bedford defense held South scoreless in the first period, although the team unloaded 14 shots on goal. However, in the second period, the Lions wilted their foes with a withering attack. South chalked up two goals in both the second and third periods. Tom Rezzuti netted two of the goals and Jim Spinks and defenseman Mark Holland bagged one each.

On Spinks' goal Brad Graham fed Spinks as he cut into the Bedford zone. Spinks then put a rising shot past the Bedford goalie. Holland scored on a rink-length rush. He carried the puck in, faked the enemy netminder to the near corner, rushed around behind the goal, and then stuffed the puck into the open corner of the net. Forechecking paid off again as the Lions applied constant pressure in the Bedford end of the rink. Goalie Dave Roberts notched his fourth shut-out of the year.

Against Marian, South came extremely close to achieving the upset of the hockey season. The only Mustang goal came on the rebound of a George Allen shot. The puck came ten feet out. With Robert's effectively screened by a scramble in front of the net, Walter Rossini took a swipe at the puck and put it in, the goal came at 3:16 of the second period.

South had its chances, too.

In the second stanza Ronnie Nelson had the disc just outside the Marian crease. Mustang goalie John Craycroft was down and almost completely out of the play. Only his arm separated Nelson and the inviting open net. However, Nelson couldn't capitalize on the opportunity. His shot hit Craycroft's arm.

With Frank Rezzuti still out, Coach Jesdale set up these line formations: Bill Hunt, Chet Robart, and Mark Sheehan constitute one line while Nelson, Bill Wisner, Newton Republicans will turn out with unprecedented enthusiasm for their annual get-together at the Lincoln Day Dinner on Wednesday evening, Feb. 15 at the Sidney Hill Country Club in Newton.

Word is that guest speaker Lt. Gov. Francis W. Sargent is expected to reveal his blueprint for election victories in '68 and '70, pointing up the lessons of the recent campaigns and outlining the challenge facing the GOP and offering means of meeting them. Newton Peace Group Sees Officials In Washington

Officials in Washington generously granted interviews and attended conferences last week with Newton delegates who went to the nation's capitol as part of the Mobilization of clergy and laymen called by the National Committee of Clergy Concerned About Vietnam.

The Committee of Religious Concern for Peace reported that the Newton representatives not only visited Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and Sen. Edward W. Brooke, but spent over two hours with Under Secretary of State Leonard Unger, former Ambassador to Laos.

Mrs. Paul Deats, of West Newton, reported Sec. Unger listened attentively to the group's "pleas for ending the war and their statements of moral concern about the war."

She said that Sec. Unger emphasized that "the United States has only one condition that must be met — that the South Vietnamese must be free to choose their own future."

Mrs. Deats said the Secretary indicated "considerable hope in the possible adoption of the new (Vietnamese) Constitution, and the coming election of a head of state, as scheduled within the next 10 months."

Accompanying Mrs. Deats at the interview was Rabbi Albert Lewis, of California; Bishop David Butterfield from Vermont, Rev. Gerard Grant of Chicago, and Rev. Edward Dearks, of the West Virginia Council of Churches.

Rev. Harold R. Fray, chairman of the local Committee of Religious Concern for Peace, spent another half hour with Robert S. MacNamara, Secretary of Defense. Rev. Fray was accompanied by Rabbi Abraham Heschel, of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, Rev. William Sloane Coffin, chaplain of Yale University; Rev. Robert MacAfee Brown, Professor of Religion, Stanford University; Rev. George Doherty of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, Washington; Rev. Richard Neuhaus, Editor of Una Sancta; Michael Novak; and the Reverend William Spurrier, a former Newton resident and member of the Eliot Church of Newton now serving as Chaplain of Wesleyan University.

Speaker John W. McCormack was visited by the Rev. James T. Rafferty, of Saint Philip of Neri Church in Waban, and the Rev. Robert Cunnane of the Espousal Retreat House in Waltham, Speaker McCormack was at Auburndale.

Empty Boylston St. House Claimed As Safety Hazard

More than 90 abutters and neighbors of a vacant house on Boylston St. in Newton Upper Falls have petitioned Public Building Commissioner Vincent Burns to order the house torn down. The petitioners say that they regard the house as a fire and safety hazard.

They also declared that uninhabited men have been seen loitering in the house during day and at night and that this has increased the neighbor's uneasiness about it.

The house and its extensive lot of land have been a subject of controversy for some time. In December, abutters and neighbors urged the Board of Aldermen to deny the owners' petition to permit construction of an apartment house on the property.

Since the area is zoned for private residences, the petition would have required a spot zoning change. CANDOR's opposition to this and other spot zoning petitions was the subject of demonstration in front of Mayor Bashas' house in December. The Board of Aldermen subsequently denied the petition.

The petitioners declare that a barn which stood near the house burned down last May. They assert that embers from the fire set a neighbor's house afire and that only prompt action by the Newton Fire Department prevented further damage in the neighborhood.

The wide-open doors of the house invite children to wander in, do mischief and injure themselves, they state, adding that neighbors have often seen children playing in the house.

As I write this column, in the midst of our blizzard, I will be happy to stay home Wednesday night for the colorcast of "Guys and Dolls." It is fortunate to have the best of TV on an evening when most people are stuck indoors and rely on TV for their entertainment. In the portion that Sylvana sponsored, you may have noticed the announcement of their Spring Styling Pageant contest, with a first prize of a $20,000 room decorated by Yale Burge, who redecorated the White House for Jackie Kennedy. By the time you read this, I should have entry blanks for this, so come on in and get yours and also see some marvelous new furniture styling that Sylvana now boasts. For my part I can only say that they have the finest furniture I have ever seen in home entertainment instruments.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Hodge of 12 Kenneth street, West Roxbury. Mr. and Mrs. John A. Gardner of 188 Commonwealth avenue, Chestnut Hill, are the groom's parents.

The Rev. John J. Philbin celebrated the two o'clock afternoon nuptial mass at which the bride and groom exchanged rings. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a traditional white gown fashioned of peau de soie. The A-line skirt was enhanced with an empire bodice which had a bateau neckline and elbow-length sleeves.

Her original crown, styled of pearls, held in place a Ward St.

The airmen are members of Boston Information Flight, an Air Force unit that acts as liaison between the Air Force and the public. The flight, a unit of the 926th Air Reserve Squadron at Newburg, N.Y., provides speakers on a wide variety of topics for social, civic, fraternal, educational and youth groups throughout Eastern Massachusetts.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hopwood of 1330 Commonwealth Avenue, West Newton. The groom's parents are Mrs. Henri Lahaise of 81 Carroll Street, West Roxbury, and the late Mr. Lahaise.

The Rev. John Zeller officiated at the 3 o'clock afternoon ceremony. The Rome restaurant in North Attleboro was the setting for the reception.

The bride wore gown made of ivory English net richly appliqued with beaded Alencon lace. The portrait empire bodice was made with a scalloped neckline and sabrina-length sleeves. The slim cage skirt, made with a scalloped hemline, had a cathedral-length train.

The imported bouffant silk illusion veil was fastened to a Dior rose edged with beaded lace. She carried a cascade arrangement of miniature white carnations, stephanotis and pale pink roses.

Mrs. John Stedman of Manchester-by-the-sea, was her sister's matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Edna Nelson of Weymouth, Miss Eileen Monahan of Attleboro and Miss Joyce Barron of Waltham.

Young Janet Martin was her maid of honor.

The bride and groom will make their home in West Roxbury.

Newton Letters K.O. Billboard

Assistant City Solicitor Charles A. Morang told the legislative mercantile affairs committee at the State House last week that a letter writing campaign by Newton neighbors caused a major automobile manufacturer to eliminate a billboard in the Garden City.

"But someone in the advertising agency has a sense of humor," Morang reported. "The next message on the billboard read: 'Write your next letter to our boys in Vietnam'."

Storm-

It had just begun to snow and the Department's sanders were sent out immediately to begin work on the city's main arteries, bridge approaches and traffic areas.

The snow came down so fast — three-quarters of an inch an hour — that 80 plows were sent into action at 10 a.m.

As the storm increased in fury, Bolduc sent out a call for more equipment and by 11:30 a.m. 170 plows were in action all over the city.

While the blizzard raged, the plows concentrated on just keeping the roads open. As it waned, they began to widen thoroughfares, and after it stopped, they began the job of "cleaning up." The clean-up job continued today.

Surprisingly, the Department didn't have too much trouble with abandoned or illegally parked autos. Police reported they had to tow only 18 or 19 cars that were impeding plows.

Bolduc said that car owners in residential areas cooperated well, too, with not very many people parking their cars with the rear ends sticking into the gutter. He said because of the cooperation, plow drivers were able to do a good job widening the streets.

The storm surprised School Department officials with its intensity and elementary school pupils were sent home at 11:20 a.m. Tuesday. The high schools and junior high schools were let out an hour later.

Naturally, all evening classes at the schools and at the junior college were cancelled.

Business and industrial firms followed the example of the schools and sent their workers home early, as did municipal departments.

Only the work force fighting the storm, policemen, firemen and those persons needed for vital public services continued "out."

Police said no emergencies arose during the storm. "We didn't even have any calls to rush an expectant mother to the hospital," they said. "Usually, you know, that's just the time babies pick to arrive. But we were lucky Tuesday."

The Street Department's main work force toiled all day and until 6:30 a.m. Wednesday before they called it quits on the streets. Then began the task of cleaning up the business areas and the plowing of sidewalks and parking ways. The snow removal gangs were expected to be kept busy until the end of the week taking the snow away and dumping it in four areas — at the Beacon st. dump, the Pine st. dump in West Newton, in back of Newton Centre and into the Charles River at Bridge st.

It won't be known for several days just how much the battle against the storm cost the city. It is expected to be high because of the overtime and the extra cost of hiring additional equipment.

But whatever the cost, most Newtonites recognize it is worth it for a job well done.

Phillips Andover Alumni Given Fuess Award

Two Newton residents who are members of the alumni of Phillips Academy at Andover, have received the Claude Moore Fuess Award for their distinguished contribution to public service.

They are Dr. Charles A. Schwartz, '76 McCarthy Rd., Newton Centre, Class of '54, and Whitney P. Foster, 84 Valentine St., West Newton, Class of '60.

They are two of 65 alumni who are serving, or have served, with the Peace Corps to have received this award.

Sargent Shriver, director of the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity and the first director of the Peace Corps, came to Phillips Academy to speak at the award ceremony where 22 of the alumni group were on hand to personally receive their awards.

The Fuess Award was conceived by a group of close friends of the late Dr. Fuess, who served Phillips Academy as Headmaster from 1933 to 1948. Shortly after his death in September, 1963, these men decided to establish an alumnus award which they hoped would "commemorate the life and service of Claude Moore Fuess" and would help to "stimulate in the students of Phillips Academy greater interest in careers in public service and a greater concern for public affairs."

This is the first year that the Award has been given. A committee of Andover faculty and two seniors reviewed a list of over 200 alumni names before deciding to present the first annual Fuess Award to the Andover Alumnus in the Peace Corps.

current shortage of medical surgical accommodations at 250-bed hospital.

Mrs. Mary A. Foster of Wellesley. In tendering the bequest to the hospital's expansion drive, the Aid Association expressed a wish that it provide an appropriate memorial to Mrs. Foster, in a patient service area of the new wing.

The Aid Association gift, combined with gifts received from the annual December appeal of the hospital, pushed the drive to the goal.

President Farley also lauded two men who were responsible for the ultimate fund designated for the practice of medicine in the future," Mr. Farley commented.

Mr. Farley commended the Hospital Aid Association for helping make the public subscription drive a success. Earlier, the 2,000-member Association had been named beneficiary of a $58,000 bequest, from the estate of the late until his death in 1965. He was president of the Newton-Waltham Bank and Trust Company until he retired in 1964.

Mr. Farley indicated it is too soon to have precise information about the hospital's present eligibility for federal funds and about the exact cost of the construction and renovation program. Both will be determined when a architectural drawings are completed and bids are received.

When the hospital kicked off its public subscription program in 1965, it was eligible for federal assistance funds. Plans will have to be resubmitted in 1967 to determine its present eligibility for funds, Mr. Farley noted.

The hospital will continue to look for philanthropy, grants and assistance from other sources to help in the expansion program and in its various long range capital programs.

The trustee-management team, the medical staff, community leaders and hospital department heads have been closely involved in the preliminary planning. We know what must be built in answer to documented needs and to update the hospital. We know where we must build. Completion of the detailed drawings and their submission to contractors for bidding will better tell us when we can start building," Mr. Farley said.

Newton-Wellesley Hospital was founded in 1881 and is observing the 85th year of its establishment and the 80th year since the admission of the first patient.

Assistant To Mayor Voted To New Post

A request by the Redevelopment Authority for an appropriation of $8694.14 for the employment of a full-time coordinator was approved Monday night by the Board of Aldermen on a vote of 15 to 6, with three members absent.

It was brought out in discussion of the matter that the man chosen by the Authority to take the coordinator's post is Thomas J. Hargadon, who has been serving as administrative assistant to the Mayor. In that capacity, he had been assigned by the Mayor to handle matters in connection with redevelopment in Newton Lower Falls and Newton Corner. Thus, according to John P. Nixon, Finance Committee Chairman, he is familiar with those areas.

A motion by Alderman Joseph M. McDonnell to refer the matter to the Aldermanic Planning Committee for a report was rejected by vote of 21 to 0.

Those voting against the appropriation were: Aldermen Alan S. Barkin, Paul J. Burke, Ernest F. Dietz, Andrew J. Magni, William P. Matthews and H. James Shear Jr. The absenteest were Melvin J. Dangel, Charles F. Hovey and Edward C. Uehlein.

Mayor Urges Broader Study Of Watershed

Mayor Monte G. Basbas has endorsed a proposed five-year comprehensive survey of the Charles River Watershed to be undertaken by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers but at the same time declared that the study as contemplated would not be broad enough.

In a letter to Col. Remi O. Reiner of the Army Engineers, the Mayor stated:

"As Mayor of the City of Newton," Basbas declared, "I take this opportunity to endorse the concept of the Corps' five-year comprehensive survey of the Charles River Watershed. The Charles River forms a municipal boundary line of over 14 miles in the City of Newton, and we have, therefore, a major interest in planning for its future development."

"After a preliminary review of the Corps' 'Plan of Survey,' several observations appear to be in order with respect to the plan's applicability to the City of Newton.

"The plan of survey seems to lack a truly comprehensive basis for analyzing the needs of the watershed. The extensive use of existing statistical data and the development of only minimal new data will tend to restate the general scope of problems often articulated by local communities. This study represents a singular opportunity to prepare a comprehensive analysis, plan and program for watershed development. To undertake this study from a limited base and with a limited scope seems an inefficient investment of effort. A truly comprehensive study must inventory all existing data, develop new data, define needs, establish goals and outline programs consistent with a rational appraisal of ability to achieve them."

"I am concerned that little or no cognizance was given to the correlation of community comprehensive or master plans or other studies where they relate to effective, imaginative watershed planning. I hope that the land use and other recommendations of our reports such as: 'General Plan, 1965'; 'Community Renewal Program'; 'Open Space Analysis'; '1966-1971 Capital Improvement Program'; and other recommendations of our Public Works and Planning Departments will be included in your inventory surveys."

"I am also concerned that the plans of neighboring communities with whom we share the Charles River are similarly catalogued and coordinated."

"I feel that the Corps' survey should provide for the presentation of 'interim' or 'phased' recommendations for the use of individual communities during the course of the study. The natural inclination of the community decision making process is to withhold judgment pending the release of study data. Obviously, such decisions cannot await a five-year study, while at the same time information vital to the process might be forthcoming from the Corps' study. A procedure should be established by which communities can receive this interim survey information for their use in reaching decisions requiring immediate answers."

"The availability of study data in a central 'clearing house' would also seem to be a most useful by-product of the Corps' survey, and could be a desirable follow-up of the 'interim report' concept."

"Finally, most of the specific planning, public works, recreation, land and water use projects affecting the watershed in the City of Newton have been detailed by the City, the Metropolitan District Commission, Metropolitan Area Planning Council or other official agencies, and presumably will have been placed in the public record or incorporated in the Corps' study. These plans are rightfully within the jurisdiction of the agency proposing

Newton Youth To Be Honored By Engineers

Robert A. Gladstone, of 9 Glen road, Newton Centre, will be among 39 persons honored at the second annual Construction's Man of the Year Award dinner, sponsored by Engineering News-Record magazine, to be held next Wednesday in New York.

Gladstone, a sophomore in civil engineering at M.I.T., will be honored for his experimental work with lasers to weaken rock in tunneling research done at M.I.T. Gladstone was also named by Engineering News-Records as one of the "Men Who Made Marks in 1966."

At the dinner, plaques will be presented to government, education and labor leaders who have served the construction industry for the past four years. Among those to be honored are Alan S. Boyd, head of the new Department of Transportation; Senators Abraham Ribicoff of Conn. and Edmund Muskie of Maine, and contractors Louis Perini and Robert Tishman.

It is my feeling, however, that the Corps' study should be in a position to objectively analyze each of these major projects to assure that they are consistent with the long-range goals of the watershed as these goals are and must be developed by the study," Basbas concluded.

Speaker Here Points Out Area Of Fear For Whites

A Boston Negro community leader, mother of five, warned a West Newton congregation Sunday, Feb. 5, that they had more to fear from white people in urban and suburban communities than from the "Black Power" movement.

"The bigotry, prejudice, ignorance in South Boston, Mattapan, West Roxbury and the Cicero's of America have to be dealt with swiftly. That is a job for white Americans," Mrs. Ellen Jackson said at the First Unitarian Society in Newton.

Founder and chairman of Boston's "Operation Exodus" program of busing school children to less crowded schools, Mrs. Jackson spoke on "The Frontiers of Concerted Black - White Power" as a lay person during a shared pulpit program.

She pointed out that it is the products of white communities who are perpetuating the social climate that works against change and against progress.

"While we in Roxbury certainly need many of the things our white friends have to offer, your own people need them more. Do not forget them. Do not leave them to wreck the country," she said.

Mrs. Jackson said that during the last decade the rallying call among black people was "Freedom Now!"

"In 1967, the rallying call has become 'Black Power!'" she said.

Continuing, the speaker pointed out that the mood of millions of black Americans is away from dependency on the white conscience.

"This country is entering a second period of betrayal that will come with federal cutbacks in anti-poverty and is best symbolized by the election of Ronald Reagan in California, Lester Maddox in Georgia, and the defeat of the Civilian Review Board in New York."

"As a people today, Negroes are perhaps wiser and more cynical than we were 50 years ago. So we are acting more swiftly to this new betrayal. We are joining forces with others of our kind in a movement of national scope that is, at its roots, nationalistic, to concert our strength and protect ourselves," the Roxbury mother said.

Concerning "Operation Exodus" Mrs. Jackson said that it now has a budget of $125,000 and that its busing program is being overshadowed by new programs.

"We will begin to exert power to bring about educational change right within our own community and in its public schools. This is already beginning to happen. Within the next few weeks you will learn of our efforts in this regard concerning a specific school in Roxbury," she said.

Dr. Leslie T. Pennington, minister, directed the discussion period which followed. He announced that the next speaker for the 1967 series of "New Frontiers in Religion" on Sunday, March 5, will be Dr. Hans Lucas Teuber, head of the section of psychology at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

A general "Open House" for all interested residents of Newton will take place next Sunday (February 12) at the newly-formed Newman House, directly across Walnut Street from the main entrance to Newton High School.

Purpose of the 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. event is to acquaint as many residents of the Garden City as possible with the aims and programs of the parent-directed religious education center.

Newman House, located in a 12-room house at 442 Walnut Street, Newtonville, has as its primary goal making religion significant and relevant to the lives of Catholic students in Newton junior and senior high schools. In charge of the arrangements for the city-wide "Open House" are Mr. and Mrs. Gary Brazier.

Newton Hosts Sought For Students

The Newton Chapter of the American Field Service is now actively seeking host families in Newton for the foreign students who will come to our community for the next year. Our visitors will arrive about July first, attend one of our high schools and leave approximately a year later.

The A.F.S. program strives to further international peace and understanding by bringing students here to live as members of American families and similarly sending American youth abroad.

It hopes that outstanding youngsters living in each other's lands as actual members of families will serve as ambassadors of good will for their own countries, and also develop for themselves and later transmit to their host countries.

Offering a home for an A.F.S. student is a rich and rewarding experience as previous hosts will attest. Your foster child may hail from one or more than fifty foreign countries where he has survived a stern competitive selection process. To be eligible you must have a youngster of high school age.

Your prime financial responsibility is to provide your A.F.S. child with food and shelter. His overseas transportation, school costs, medical care, and a modest allowance are provided through A.F.S.

Interested families may contact Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jarrell, BI 4-3197, for full details.

REALLY HOT COPY — Fire, which officials said was probably caused by the careless disposal of a cigarette in a waste basket, flared in the "press room" of the Newton High School school paper "Newtonite" last week. Thorough investigation squashed rumors that the small blaze was caused by faulty electrical wiring in the old structure. Photo shows actual fire damage, although some water damage was also sustained.

FIRE MARSHAL PROBING NEWTON HIGH BLAZES

Officials at Newton High School said today that an extensive investigation into the two fires at the school within two weeks is being conducted by the state fire marshal's office.

Some 1,000 students fled yesterday as a fire of "human origin" broke out in the building. "We can't say the fires were deliberate, but an investigation is in progress," Dr. Charles E. Brown, superintendent of schools, said.

He said it is up to the fire marshall to determine if yesterday's blaze and the one last week were set by an arsonist or arsonists.

MASS. CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICTS MALAPPORTIONED

A THREE-JUDGE federal panel has ruled in Boston that Massachusetts' congressional districts are malapportioned and unconstitutional under the U. S. Supreme Court's "one man, one vote" principle.

The panel said it would not at this time order reapportionment but instead would allow the Massachusetts Legislature to take appropriate action.

The panel was acting on a civil suit filed by Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis of Bristol County which contended the populations of the state's congressional districts were so unequal that some voters were being denied equal representation in the U. S. House of Representatives.

KAZAN ADMITS SMUGGLING OUT CZECHS

CAMBRIDGE TRAVEL agent Vladimir J. Kazan-Komar said he had secretly smuggled persons out of Czechoslovakia after the Communist takeover in 1948.

The Czech-born American citizen, who was tried on spy charges, sentenced and then expelled by the Prague government, declined to disclose how many persons he aided. He said he believed he was working for French intelligence at that time, about 16 years ago, but that he had no connection with U. S. intelligence services.

TEACHERS ASK SANCTIONS ON LOWELL SCHOOLS

THE LOWELL TEACHERS Organization has voted to ask the Massachusetts Teachers Association to impose immediate sanctions on the Lowell school system.

Should the sanctions be imposed, teachers throughout the country would be requested not to accept jobs in Lowell. The teachers group claimed the Lowell School Committee had created a "crisis" in Lowell's educational system by failing to bargain in good faith about teachers' requests for a pay raise.

KEVIN WHITE ENTERS RACE FOR HUB MAYOR

SECRETARY OF STATE Kevin White has announced his candidacy for mayor of Boston. In making the long-expected announcement, White, a Democrat, said he would focus his campaign on the city's dwindling population "because it is central to all the questions about Boston's future."

The leading vote-getter in Nov. 8th's state election, the 37-year-old White said 108,000 persons had left the city for suburbs in the last ten years.

GREATER BOSTON DUCKS MIDWEST BLIZZARDS

GREATER BOSTON can expect some snow today, probably only a few flurries, but the area can be thankful that the premature touch of Spring yesterday has kept wild blizzards far away in the Midwest.

The giant storm rode bitter, gale-force winds across the Northern Plains and upper Midwest yesterday. Severe cold also plowed across the nation's midsection and cold wave warnings today were up as far south as Oklahoma, Arkansas and Southern Illinois.

LBJ SEEKS 7-POINT CIVIL RIGHTS PACKAGE

PRESIDENT JOHNSON asked to enact a seven-point civil rights package, including a controversial open housing law which stymied the legislation last session.

Of last year's failure, Johnson in his message to the House and Senate said "The summer riots in our cities did as much damage to the chances of passing that legislation as the unfounded fears of many Americans and the opposition of special interest groups."

ABSENTEE RESERVISTS TO PUT ON UNIFORMS

DEFENSE SECRETARY Robert S. McNamara extended the draft Wednesday to put in uniform about 30,000 men who enlisted in civilian reserve units but have not continued to serve in them.

McNamara told a news conference that these men will be transferred to the active forces to serve for the balance of two years, subtracting whatever period of time they spent in satisfactory reserve duty. The new rules are effective immediately but McNamara said the first individuals affected probably will not have to report for active duty for about five months.

APOLLO FIRE LOW-GRADE BLAZE AT FIRST

THE FIRE that killed three astronauts in their Apollo 1 moonship Jan. 29 may have started as a low-grade blaze before flaring into a 1,400-degree inferno, a top Space Agency official reported Wednesday.

But Dr. Robert C. Seamans, deputy director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said the cause of the fire that killed Virgil Grissom, Edward White and Roger Chaffee remains unknown. But he said in a report to NASA administrator James E. Webb in Washington that the investigation by a board of inquiry into the disaster is "far from complete."

PRAVADA SAYS MAO PLOTS RUSSIA REVOLUTION

THE OFFICIAL SOVIET Communist party newspaper Pravda has accused Mao Tse-tung and his followers of plotting a pro-Mao revolution in Russia aimed at hoisting Mao's banner in Moscow's Red Square.

Pravda denounced Mao, his "personality cult," his so-called cultural revolution and his followers in one of its most bitter attacks against the leader of a fellow Communist nation. It followed by a few days Premier Alexei Kosygin's London attack on Mao's "dictatorship."

U. S. DENIES JETS FLEW OVER HANOI

THE VIETNAM WAR's bloodiest 1967 combat erupted Wednesday with U. S. troops fighting Communist forces in two battles and South Korean marines storming through flame thrower fire to kill 246 Viet Cong.

As American jets quickened their North Vietnam raiding to pre-truce tempo, the Soviets accused U. S. fliers of violating orders by flying over Hanoi. In Washington, the Defense Department said its reports from Saigon showed U. S. targets no closer than 35 miles to Hanoi.

Early News, Ad Copy Requested

Earlier deadlines for news and advertising copy have been established for next week's paper due to the Washington's Birthday holiday on Wednesday.

The paper will go to press Monday night, February 20 and be delivered Tuesday morning the 21st.

We must request early copy, as much as possible not later than Saturday. Final deadline is Monday noon.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas yesterday submitted a record-high $33,569,166 municipal and school budget to the Board of Aldermen.

It is $2,849,123 greater than the budget presented by Basbas to the Aldermanic Board a year ago and $3,097,164 larger than the budget finally approved by the Aldermanic Board in 1966.

Newton's tax rate would rise about $9 this year if the budget were adopted by the Board of Aldermen as submitted and if all other factors which will figure in the tax rate were the same as last year.

However, the Aldermen are expected to make moderate budget cuts, as they did a year ago, and some of the factors which will determine the rate will be different than in 1966.

The final tax rate hike should be substantially less than $9 although it is impossible to make any accurate forecast at this time as to what it will be.

Mayor Basbas used a heavy hand in cutting the municipal budget and left little room for further slashes by the Board of Aldermen.

The Mayor pruned $1,469,792 from the requests and recommendations made to him by city department heads.

Proposals were made to Mayor Basbas that $19,161,269 be spent for the operation of the municipal government, apart from the school department. He cut that amount down to $18,446,477.

Of the $33,569,166 school and municipal budget which the Mayor sent to the Board of Aldermen yesterday, $15,122,689 is for the operation of the school system and $18,446,477 is proposed for the maintenance of the municipal departments.

The school department budget is $1,549,515 greater than a year ago. Neither the Mayor nor the Aldermanic Board has the authority to cut operating school expenditures.

However, the School Committee members will request a reduction of close to $100,000 in their budget if they follow the recommendation of a study group and continue the present split session schedule in most of the city's elementary schools instead of changing to a single session. That question will be decided next month.

The courses offered are the same for pupils in the seventh, eighth and ninth grades.

Pupils are required to discuss their decisions with their parents before filling in their study plans which are known as "contracts."

Subsequently, the house advisors oversee how the Meadowbrook students utilize their time and fulfill their "contracts."

Meadowbrook is divided into four units of about 250 pupils each. The units have been called "Alpha," "Beta," "Gamma" and "Sigma."

The Greek letters have no particular significance. In fact, Miss Bettina King, principal of the school, points out that each unit contains a mixture of seventh, eighth and ninth grade pupils who normally remain in the same nine-week term.

The answer is that this responsibility rests on the house advisors.

As outlined last week in the first of two articles in the Women Tells School Board Of Lack Of Communication

In a somewhat unusual appearance before the School Committee Monday night, a Newton resident expressed concern about lack of communication between the School Board and citizens on a number of topics.

After thanking School Committee Chairman Harold J. Berman for permission to address the School Committee, Mrs. Sanford Latner, suggested that periodic open hearings be held in each of the villages comprising the City of Newton and that a 15- to 30-minute question period be established at School Committee meetings, to insure communication between parents and committee members.

A number of Newton students are privately tutored, she declared, and indicated that the need for tutoring has apparently been especially felt by the parents of some Meadowbrook Junior High School students.

She suggested that polls be taken in the high schools and in the junior high schools in which children would check off whether they have tutors or not and return the poll slips unsigned to their home room teacher.

This, she thought, would give some information about the prevalence of tutoring and about the so-called "continuous learning method."

In a different vein she suggested that savings might be effected in school construction by building more classical two- or three-story structures, rather than ranch-type school buildings.

School Committee Chairman Berman thanked Mrs. Latner for her suggestions and added that they would be given due consideration, although as matters not on the agenda, would not be taken up at the meeting. Berman commented, however, that on the question of economy in school buildings, there was no disagreement.

Newton MD Hurt In Roslindale Auto Accident

A Newton physician was injured in an auto accident in Roslindale last Saturday at the same location where a West Roxbury resident was killed in a similar crash a week previously.

Dr. Leo V. Levins, 56, of 33 High Rock ter., Newton, suffered head injuries in the collision of his Mustang and a delivery van at the corner of Fletcher and Centre sts., Roslindale. He was taken to Faulkner Hospital and held for treatment.

The driver of the van, Vincent J. Bisconti, 25, of 55 Dustin st., Brighton, was treated for head and knee injuries and released.

On Friday, Feb. 3, Vincent Polo, 51, of 49 Patricia st., West Roxbury, was killed in the collision of his auto and another delivery van. The van driver suffered a fractured back.

Legion Post To View A Film Of Viet Nam

A film depicting aspects of the Viet Nam conflict will be the drawing card for the meeting of Newton Post 48, American Legion, this (Thursday) evening in the War Memorial Auditorium, City Hall. Francis B. Daly, senior vice commander, obtained the film, and will preside at the meeting.

Members are looking forward to "Old Timers Night," April 20, when a reception is planned for former Sen. Leverett Saltonstall.

There will be a catered dinner at 7 o'clock, and very little speaking, according to the current issue of the post's publication, "The Newton Serviceman."

Bowen Students Musical Play To Be Held Friday

Bowen School's fifth and sixth grade drama workshop has written and will present a musical "Parade for George Washington" at the school on February 17th.

The group, under the guidance of Drama Teacher Mrs. Richard Shader, developed the production as a series of five sketches in the life of George Washington. Mrs. Shader wrote the lyrics and music for the show and P.T.A. volunteer Mrs. Edwin Taylor has been the musical advisor and will provide the accompaniment.

Teacher, Mrs. Tod Endo has rehearsed a 25-voice chorus to appear with the 24 author-actors. The show will be presented in two performances, at 10:30 for grades 1 through 3 and at 2:30 for grades 4 through 6 in the school auditorium.

Parents and interested persons are invited to come to either performance.

Hand-Wrought Treasures At Club Meeting

Treasures made by members will be the major feature of the Newton Centre Garden Club meeting Tuesday, Feb. 21, in the club house.

Mrs. Benjamin T. Fawcett, program chairman, assisted by Mrs. Robert S. Mullen, has enlisted the fine talents of several members to stage an unusual production of flower arrangements keyed to the background and beauty of members' handwrought treasures.

Club members doing the flower arrangements and the treasures which inspired these vignettes are Mrs. Thomas T. Barstow, using Mrs. Wilbur S. Roberts Jr.'s crewel upholstered chair; Mrs. William H. Brine featuring her decoupage lamb, and Mrs. George W. Dean, who had chosen a needlepoint pillow done by Mrs. Louis E. Phaneuf.

Mrs. William S. Duncklee will work with Mrs. William S. Duncklee's ceramic vase, Mrs. Richard V. Ewer will highlight one of her painted trays, and Mrs. Philip A. Ingwersen will use an unusual child's ski sweater.

Mrs. Robert S. Mullen will feature a modern painting by Mrs. Chester C. Vaughan, and Mrs. Otis E. Stephenson will work with a hooked rug done by Mrs. James C. McDonough.

Assisting the Newton Community Peace Center in arranging for this meeting will have been the State Office of Selective Service in Boston, the Office of Assistant Secretary of Defense (manpower) in Washington, and the American Friends Service Committee.

The speaker for a literary event at Congregation Beth El-Ateret Israel, 561 Ward St., Newton Centre, Sunday evening, Feb. 19, at 8 o'clock, will be Dr. Naftali G. Brandwein, associate professor of Modern Hebrew Literature at Brandeis University.

Mrs. William S. Duncklee will work with Mrs. William S. Duncklee's ceramic vase, Mrs. Richard V. Ewer will highlight one of her painted trays, and Mrs. Philip A. Ingwersen will use an unusual child's ski sweater.

Assisting Carmen in arrangements for this public meeting is the executive committee of the Peace Center, of which Leonard Salter is chairman.

For further information, call the Peace Center office, 332-9110, between 9 and 11 o'clock Monday through Friday morning.

Hosts for the evening will be Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ginsberg.

Professor Brandwein has published several volumes of short stories, poems and literary criticism, and is now translating some of the Agnon stories.

The mid-year conference is attended by past and present commanders and adjutants of the D.A.V., from throughout the United States.

PDC John E. Bouchard is a life member of Chaplain William J. Farrell Chapter No. 23 of Newton. He will be accompanied by a large group of Mass. Dept. D.A.V. members, led by Commander J. Edward Theriault, of Newton, the present State Commander.

Also in the party will be National Senior Vice Commander, George A. Wells, of Worcester, who is a candidate for National Commander for 1967-68.

Volpe Appoints Mayor To Comm.

The Newton Masonic Club will hold its first annual Washington's Birthday Ball at the Masonic Temple, 460 Newtonville Ave., Newtonville, starting at 8 p.m. next Wednesday (Feb. 22).

Ruby Newman will furnish the music for dancing and the Massachusetts consistory will provide surprise entertainment. Admission is by ticket only and tickets may be purchased by contacting club members or the ticket committee.

The win put Rindge into second place over idle Waltham. The loss set South's record at 4-10.

It was Cooper's best game as he scored 16 baskets and four foul shots. By periods, he had four, 14, 13 and five. Junior center Ken Isaacs had 10 points for South.

The Lions out-rebounded the hosts, 33-28, and connected on nine of 18 from the line.

High scorer for Rindge was former student manager Livingston Jones with 28 points. The 5-foot-6 guard, who failed to make the team last year, hit exclusively from the outside to register all his points. Cooper and Jones kept their respective clubs in the contest as South struck with the fast-moving Technicians through three periods, trailing, 56-57, going into the fourth period.

Lloyd Merriman and Wilfred Cox came through for Rindge in the last stanza to ice the decision for the hosts.

Lunches -

Risen to about $60,000 or roughly 10 cents a meal. The boost in lunch prices will thus wipe out about half the deficit.

A five-cent increase is the most the State School Lunch Office usually authorizes.

Declining federal and state subsidies were given by Hawkrige as the reason for the increased deficit. School Committeewoman Grace C. Whitmore commented that the 25 cent rate had been in existence since 1948. "Prices have changed considerably in everything since then," she asserted.

Figures provided by School Department of Business Services John E. Gilleland backed up both contentions. The value of government commodities received dropped by over $16,000 last year. And labor costs have more than tripled, while food costs have almost doubled since 1948.

In answer to a query made by School Committeeman Vincent P. Stanton, Gilleland explained that up to now, a token dessert has been included in the school lunch.

The State School Lunch Office has authorized the Newton school cafeterias to discontinue this dessert and to begin to charge for a more substantial dessert.

Psychology Of Fear

Remember the old days? Remember, and it might take a lot of remembering, when everyone living in South Boston walked to work downtown no matter the weather? When everyone walked to Forest Hills to get the old "El," no matter what the weather? Remember hiking to and from school, no matter what the weather?

And remember talking about it the next day. When you picked up the morning paper, remember the shock and thrill to discover that you had been out in a hurricane, a blizzard, the year's worst storm, the year's hottest or coldest day?

You didn't worry too much about the weather in those days. It was either a nice day or it wasn't in those dear departed days of long ago — and they keep getting farther and farther away.

There was no fear of the weather in those by-gone days. It was an accepted part of life. Weather is still part of life. But, today, there is a difference. Oh, the weather hasn't changed too much. We have.

A psychology of fear pervades the atmosphere today at the first sign of stormy weather.

It is fed and nurtured by the weathermen of the electronic media who seem to be in constant competition with each other, and the official U.S. Weather Bureau, to come up with the direst predictions and forecasts of gloom and doom.

And they are at it constantly. Radio and television programs are interrupted every half-hour, every hour so that these commercial weathermen can update, revise, downgrade their reports.

Consequently, their hysteria seeps insidiously into the minds of their audience and plants germs of fear that only the cessation of the stormy weather can dispel.

Now, don't misunderstand! The electronic, instant weathermen perform a needed function. In a storm such as we experienced last week, their warnings, albeit a little late, got the kids home from school early, closed factories and mercantile establishments so that roads and highways weren't clogged with traffic.

And, because the roads and highways were relatively free of vehicles, the Public Works Departments of the cities, towns and state were able to keep the roads open and ensure free movement of traffic vital to the well-being of the communities. The head start gained by the snow fighters enabled them to restore the streets in the area to near normalcy the following day.

So, we admit in this instance at least, the instant weathermen performed a public service.

But, gentlemen, we plead restraint. Don't overdo it, please!

Remember, sometimes what we poor, ignorant people don't know won't hurt us.

School Board Favors More Sales Tax Education Help

Approval was voiced by the School Committee this week in favor of bills which would increase Newton's educational share in sales tax receipts and re-establish a subsidy for Newton Junior College. The School Board went on record as opposing measures to take away the fiscal autonomy of School Committees.

The sales tax legislation would require that the sum taken from sales tax proceeds for education be boosted for 1966 by a minimum of 15 per cent over the 1965 figure. "As it is now, we stand to receive less for 1966 than we did in 1965," Superintendent Charles E. Brown remarked.

Another bill would divert all sales tax receipts to school aid. Still another would restore a special category for programs in technical education and in care for emotionally disturbed children.

In reply to a question by School Committeeman Edwin Hawkridge, Dr. Brown explained that Newton was formerly reimbursed by the State for 50 per cent of its expenditures in these fields. With the advent of the sales tax, these special categories in technical education or in the program for the emotionally disturbed received no special subsidy.

School Committee member Hawkridge also urged support for a bill which would require the State of Massachusetts to pay for the deficit at Newton Junior College.

Named To Board

Mrs. Hazel L. Ferguson, R.N., of Newton has been appointed to the State Board of Registration in Nursing. John A. Volpe announced this week.

Penguins Pleased

Editor of The Graphic:
Please apologize to all the penguin lovers that reprimanded me for calling the Stoneham Zoo Penguins, seals.

Really have learned my lesson and never again will make such a terrible mistake. Many seals end up as fur coats—and penguins always go formal and wear tuxedos.

Maybe instead of going to Newton Junior College for a "Psychology" course to help me understand people, I should go instead to local zoos and take a good look at the animals.

Editor of The Graphic:

Bad Service Well Paid

It must be obvious by now, even to the waxed ears of the Massachusetts Legislature, that our citizens do not wish to reward years of generally bad public service by doubling that body's pay. The public has been bitten too many times with acts that seem to cater to every lobby and power interest except that of the majority. Let us take one sordid example in a veritable encyclopedia.

About four years ago, the Legislature was faced with making a decision on the Massachusetts Turnpike extension. The road could either be free by using 90 percent federal funds supplied by gasoline taxes already paid by citizens, or it could be built by the late Massachusetts Turnpike baron William Callahan, in which case the using public would be forced to pay 50 cents a ride until some time into the 21st century.

The choice should have been ridiculously simple, since no state legislature had ever decided to build an enormously expensive road when federal money was available. However, our vainglorious Legislature broke all precedent and succumbed to the wishes of the turnpike baron, in spite of almost unanimous public media opposition. Was the Legislature then serving the public interest?

Perhaps that august body believed that the Turnpike Authority was more efficient, but how could they know since their records are not subject to state audit? Perhaps, in the interest of public employment, the job was given to the Authority, since the Authority is noted for its service of personally handing out tickets instead of using machines.

Perhaps (in the interest of reducing unemployment of course), each Legislator had a friend well suited for this job — the Authority is not covered by burdensome civil service restrictions. Whatever the reason, the using public will forever be in debt to that body.

It is any wonder that the citizens are unwilling to reward such private service? The recent use of the Legislature in using an "emergency" Act to double their salaries shows exactly how private the service it provides is.

Political Highlights

Commission probes. Such, it develops, is not the fact. The small loans trial in the spring will be the first case resulting from the Crime Commission investigation to be prosecuted by members of the staff of Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson.

Ironically, one of the men slated to have his day in court at that time is Charles Gibbons, former Republican leader and Speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, former chairman of the Republican State Committee, the GOP nominee for Governor in 1958 and former State Commissioner of Administration and Finance. Gibbons now makes his home in Florida.

State Bank Commissioner John B. Hynes is still deliberating on what action to take against the finance companies found guilty in the recent loans case.

Hynes is moving slowly and carefully since whatever action he takes probably will be appealed to the Supreme Court and must be substantiated by him before the state's highest tribunal if his findings are to be upheld.

He also is weighing arguments that many persons might be driven into the arms of loan sharks if three big finance companies are put out of business in Massachusetts.

Hynes' ruling could have far-reaching effects since a number of other states in which the finance companies operate may take the same action against the companies.

Droney Points Up Need For More State Police

Middlesex County District Attorney John J. Droney's protest that he can't get enough state troopers and detectives to help fight crime points up the need for expanding the state police force. Governor Volpe, of course, is seeking to enlarge it.

Droney levelled a sharp blast at State Public Safety Commissioner Leo Laughlin, former head of the Boston FBI Bureau, for failing to supply investigators when they are requested.

In fairness to Laughlin, however, he cannot furnish manpower he doesn't have, and his force is responsible for covering the entire state.

Governor Volpe now has a bill pending in the Legislature calling for the appropriation of funds for the employment of an additional 140 state troopers and 20 state detectives, including five detective sergeants.

On the basis of Droney's argument, it would seem that an even larger increase is needed in the state police setup.

Volpe's proposal, however, would make possible a substantial expansion in state police manpower and obviously would provide greater police protection for the public.

But at this time there's no definite assurance that Volpe's measure will be adopted by the Legislature.

Top state police officials concede candidly that their men are spread thin — too thin.

Their problem is how to make the best use of their available manpower, and they feel they are obliged to spread it thin.

Thirty-three state troopers are assigned to make investigations for the District Attorneys throughout the Commonwealth. Three of them are regularly attached to Droney's office.

Droney's complaint is that three state troopers aren't enough to handle the investigation work for his office in big, sprawling Middlesex County.

Laughlin's problem is that if he assigns more than three men to Droney, he must shift them from other duties, presumably from patrolling highways, where patrols already are inadequate.

A competent and conscientious District Attorney, Droney has every right to protest long and loudly when he can't get the manpower he wants to battle crime. But he is in the same predicament as every other District Attorney in the Commonwealth.

Applicants should check for details with their guidance counselor or principal.

Newman House Plans Fund Drive For Its Religious Programs

A fund raising campaign to finance the initial religious education programs of Newman House, a parent-operated center across Walnut St. from Newton High School, gets underway Sunday, Feb. 19.

Chairmen of the campaign are Mr. and Mrs. Pasquarosa of 34 Park St., Newton. Mr. Pasquarosa asks anyone interested in helping to solicit funds for the program to get in touch with him at CE 2-9857.

A meeting of solicitors will be held this (Thursday) evening, at Newman House, 442 Walnut St., Newtonville, when streets will be assigned.

Plans call for the solicitation Sunday among parents of Catholic students in Newton's two public high schools will take place next Thursday, Feb. 23, at Newman House.

High school students are being offered the opportunity to attend daily Mass at 7:30 a.m. at Newman House. These Masses were scheduled to start Ash Wednesday, but the snowstorm and the ensuing cancellation of classes forced postponement until this week.

Newman House was the scene of another "Open House" this past Sunday, when more than a hundred Newton parents and young people braved blustery winds and near-zero temperatures to visit the center.

More than 30 boys indicate their interest in the program, which will include confession, Mass and discussion groups. Mr. Barry said that a waiting list will be maintained for another Day of Christian Renewal.

Mr. Barry also announced that planning is under way for a similar program for ninth and tenth graders during the April school vacation.

Newman House has as its goal making religion significant and relevant to the lives of young people. It is believed to be unique in this country in that it is owned and directed by parents of Catholic students in Newton public schools, organized as a non-profit organization.

While aimed primarily at Catholic students, Newman House hopes to operate many ecumenical programs through interfaith dialogues, meetings with youth groups from local churches and synagogues, and programs emphasizing Christian brotherhood.

A boy's "Day of Christian Renewal" for Catholic juniors and seniors in Newton's two public high schools will take place next Thursday, Feb. 23, at Newman House.

Boys interested in participating should contact Henry G. Barry at 65 Oxford Rd., Newton Centre. Mr. Barry requested letter applications including the name, address, telephone number, parish, school and class.

Participation will be limited to 30 boys, Mr. Barry stated, and the deadline for applications is Monday, Feb. 20.

Leader of the 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. conference will be the Rev. John Corcoran of Sacred Heart Church, Newton Centre.

If more than 30 boys indicate their interest in the program, which will include confession, Mass and discussion groups, Mr. Barry said that a waiting list will be maintained for another Day of Christian Renewal.

Mr. Barry also announced that planning is under way for a similar program for ninth and tenth graders during the April school vacation.

Antique inkwells, elegant and anachronistic mementos of an era when education was for the few, are on display this month at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre Street.

The inkwells are part of a collection of Mrs. Edmund Brooks Patterson of West Newton, and are made of such varied materials as brass, basalt and milk glass.

Natural companions to the inkwells are an antique pearl-handled pen used by a Victorian lady when she went travelling; two seals of ivory and brass used to make an impression in sealing wax on the envelope, and two implements known as sanders.

These held sand, which was used to blot up excess ink before the invention of blotting paper.

The library staff has assembled a group of books dealing with small antique collecting and care. The exhibit will be on display through February.

Community Center Sets Trips Deadline Friday

Registrations for field trips for Elementary, Junior High School and High School students will close Friday in the Newton Community Center's second series of their Holiday Enrichment Program. The program which will take place over the February vacation period is designed to provide youngsters with stimulating activities during their days away from school.

Some program changes have been made, due to changes in scheduled performances and parents are asked to make note of them as they are listed below.

For Elementary school children the program is divided into half-day and full day trips, especially tailored to the age and understanding of the child. The aim of the program, as related to the Graphic by its director, Mrs. Murray Janower, is to "satisfy the natural curiosity all children have for the world around them."

Half-day trips are devoted to "Examining Transportation and Industry" with two trips for Kindergarten and Grades 1-2 on Monday and Tuesday morning (Feb. 20 and 21) from 10:00 to 12:00 p.m. and two trips for Grades 3-6 from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. on the same days.

The former groups will include an excursion to Hanscom Field (with tour of operations area, fire station, parachute shop and weather station), and a trip to the Pepsi Cola factory (with tour of syrup mixing process, washing, sterilization and checking of the bottling process, sample drinks, etc.).

The latter groups will include excursions to Logan Airport (including tour of inside of airplane, controls, emergency buildings, rescue trucks, etc.) and a trip to Fanny Farmer Candy Factory (with tour of entire process of candy manufacturing, sample boxes etc.)

Full-day trips for Elementary children are centered around "Enjoying Entertainment and Exhibitions" with a full day at Boston's Winterfest. Children in Kindergarten through Grade 3 will visit the Winterfest on Friday, Feb. 24, from 9:00 to 3:00 and will include in their trip performances of the "Snow Queen" and "The Princess and the Pea" as well as tours of exhibitions, crafts, and demonstrations, lunch, (bring your own or lunch money), etc.

Children in Grades 3-6 will take their trip on Thursday, February 23, from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. and will be entertained with a Puppet show and a performance of "Gulliver's Travels."

Teenagers in Junior and Senior High School will also attend Winterfest on Saturday and Sunday afternoon.

Their trips will be centered around the Folkfest held at the War Memorial Auditorium on Feb. 25 and The Gilbert and Sullivan Showcase on Feb. 26.

The Folkfest will feature an all-star cast of nationally prominent folk singers and instrumentalists; Gilbert and Sullivan production will star of "Trial by Jury." Attendance at evening performances to the Boston Pops and Boston Symphony have been canceled due to lack of tickets.

Martyn Green in a production

All groups from the Community Center will be led by Mrs. Murray Janower, an experienced teacher of Brookline. Mrs. Janower directs the Holiday Enrichment Program for the Center and also teaches Art and Enrichment there during the year.

Mrs. Janower explained to the Graphic that parents who are interested in having their children join any of these groups should contact the Center immediately at 429 Cherry street, West Newton, Mass. (244-2260). The Community Center is located just off Washington street near West Newton Square and is easily accessible by public transportation.

Registrations will close at noon tomorrow Friday, February 17.

Law Student To Prosecute In District Court

Merek Rubin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Rubin, 4 Maple St., Auburndale, is one of the participating law students in a unique program that gets under way today (Thursday) in West Roxbury District Court.

A law school student-prosecutor program, it has been announced jointly by Dean Paul M. Siskind of Boston University Law School and Garrett H. Byrne, Suffolk County district attorney. The project, financed by Federal funds, will see 20 top senior B.U. law students prosecuting cases at the district court level. According to Dist. Atty. Byrne, it is an apprentice training program with hope that some of the trainees will continue in the field of criminal prosecution after graduation.

Merek Rubin said that he and his classmates "want to bridge the gap between classroom teaching and actual courtroom experience."

He explained that he chose prosecution experience over defending for several reasons, including a need on the part of the public and commonwealth to have someone represent their rights. "Another advantage," he said, "is that the cases are there, while in the defending program, you have to wait for the indigents to represent."

B.U. was among the first in the country to institute a student defender program. It has worked out well on the basis of evaluation, according to Dean Siskind. The B.U. students defend cases in Roxbury District Court.

Merek Rubin is married to the former Barbara Berman of Longmeadow, who is a teacher in the Bedford school system.

She is now on tour as a member of the Board of Lectureship of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

JANE O. ROBBINS

Science Church Lecture To Be Given Feb. 23rd

Jane O. Robbins, C.S., of Boulder, Colorado, a Christian Science lecturer, will speak at the Christian Science church auditorium, 391 Walnut st., Newtonville, at 8 p.m. on next Thursday, February 23rd.

She will discuss today's "identity crisis" and how a deepened understanding of a man's relationship to God can help. Her lecture will be titled "Freedom To Be Yourself."

Admission is free and the lecture is open to the general public.

Miss Robbins is a native of Ontario, Canada. During World War II, she was a service pilot with the Army Air Force.

After the war, she spent some time in Alaska and flew as a bush-pilot in the Nome-Point Barrow area. Later, she became a representative for an aircraft corporation in Illinois.

In 1955, she moved to Colorado and began devoting her full time to the public practice of Christian Science healing.

She is now on tour as a member of the Board of Lectureship of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

Marlene Sockol

Marlene Sockol, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Sockol, 69 Morse Rd., Newtonville, was named to the Dean's List at the University of Rhode Island, where she is a freshman, as a result of her scholastic standing in the first semester.

elementary school schedule recommendations at its regular Feb. 27 meeting.

Difficulties occasioned by the absence of Prof. Knowles during the week of Feb. 20 and the fact that it is a school vacation week have led school officials to recommend a later hearing date.

Discussion at Monday night's meeting centered on the format for the public discussion. School Committee Chairman Harold J. Berman stressed that the report had just reached the members of the School Board and that discussion of its content would be postponed.

School Superintendent Charles E. Brown recommended the March 6 hearing date and was backed by committee member Mrs. Grace C. Whitmore who stressed the importance of allowing School Committeewoman Norma W. Mintz, the School Board's representative in the study group, to attend the hearing.

Mrs. Mintz was unable to attend this week's School Committee meeting.

Chairman Berman added: "The longer we delay, the more people will have a chance to prepare themselves for the meeting.

In reply to a question by School Committeeman Vincent P. Stanton, Supt.

Brown replied that the absolute time limit to which a decision on all parts of the school budget can be prolonged is March 25, when the Aldermanic Finance Committee will present the budget to the full board.

Chairman Berman and School Committee member Francis P. Frazier emphasized the need to make sufficient copies of the Knowles report available to the public. School Committeeman Edwin Hawkridge suggested discussing ways of publicizing the report with the PTA council.

School Committeemen Frazier and Manuel Beckwith urged that the format adopted for the hearing be such that those assisting could state their views and ask questions freely.

Beckwith commented: "I hope the format for the hearing will be such that the parents will be there and present their questions, and that even though they present them through representatives, that they will do so without restriction."

"I am certainly in favor of order at any public hearing," Frazier added. "But I hope we will not try for so much order that it will detract from simplicity. We should avoid a meeting where the public has to go through too much red tape to speak. This is just a word of caution."

Dr. Knowles had suggested in a letter accompanying the report that holding the meeting in the cafeteria would permit people to be arranged in groups of about eight and use spokesmen. He said that he had conducted meetings attended by several thousand people in this manner.

School Committeeman Stanton recommended that the public "come to the meeting with some prior effort to pool like opinion."

The propriety of inviting the Elementary School Schedule Study Group to the meeting was questioned by School Committeeman Frazier. "In my estimation it is up to the School Committee and the School Committee alone to make all arrangements from now on," said Frazier.

He pointed out that some criticism had been leveled at other branches of Newton Government for delegating authority to committees. Chairman Berman stressed that Dr. Knowles will be available as a consultant only.

The motion presented by School Committee member Dr. Way Dong Woo to hold a March 6 hearing leaves Chairman Berman the authority to set up the structure of the meeting as he sees fit.

The report made by the Knowles group apparently assumes that permission would be granted by the State Board of Education to continue the present system of three long and two short elementary school days.

The State Board has no authority to regulate single or split school sessions but under recommendations made in the Harrington-Willis education report and later enacted into law, the Board of Education does set a minimum school day.

The present minimum is five hours a day and exemptions from this ruling must be obtained on a yearly basis. The State Secondary and Elementary Education Office refused this week to disclose which Massachusetts school systems have such a dispensation at present.

Newton elementary school children now go to school five hours and 40 minutes on Monday, Wednesday and Friday and three hours and 40 minutes on Tuesday and Thursday. This totals 24 hours and 20 minutes, slightly less than the time spent if a five hour school day is used.

A petition signed by 2435 parents organized as the "Single Session Committee" was presented to the School Committee last summer requesting uniform hours every day, a lunch and play period of 45 minutes, and a school day ending at 2 p.m.

School Committee Chairman Berman appointed a 34 member committee headed by Dr. Knowles last August 9 to study school schedules. Other members of the group include School Committeewoman Mintz; Arthur Laughland, principal of the Hyde

Supt. Brown withdrew from the study group before its conclusions were drafted. The committee submitted a voluminous report consisting of 12 pages of texts and 42 pages of appendices, which includes the report of various sub-committees which were set up to examine partial aspects of the issue. The conclusions of the study group follow:

"The unanimous conclusion of the committee is that the available evidence does not warrant the introduction of any new schedule arrangement universally among the Newton elementary schools; but the sentiment among parents for a schedule change is strong enough to warrant experimentation with different arrangements in pilot schools.

"The committee, therefore, unanimously recommends that the School Committee:

"1. Authorize and instruct the administration to experiment with various

Basketball, Hockey Teams In Three-Game Win Sweep

Rebounding from a combined won-lost record of 0-3 last week, Newton High's ice and hoop teams combined to win all three of their contests this week. The basketball men beat Brockton and Cambridge Latin while their hockey counterparts bombed Rindge Tech.

It was Sandy Winslow's 20-foot pop shot with just fifteen seconds remaining that enabled Newton to squeak by Brockton, 77-75.

This was only Winslow's second varsity assignment. He only scored two points, but he made them count.

Leading through the first three quarters, often by as much as 10 points, Newton continually kept losing ground during the fourth period and fell behind by three points. This final period slump was due to three starters fouling out: Peter Hicks, Paul Ward and Paul Colantonio.

It was Sandy Winslow's 20-foot pop shot with just fifteen seconds remaining that enabled Newton to squeak by Brockton, 77-75.

Throughout the hectic fourth, Newton kept battling from behind to tie the score. Going into the final minute, the good guys were trailing by two, but Warren Houston tied the score with a 23 foot jumper with 49 seconds left to play.

About 25 seconds later, Brockton regained possession of a jump ball. Steve Bernard started dribbling looking for one shot. However, Sandy Winslow had different plans. He stole the ball from Bernard, sped downcourt with a defender hot in pursuit, stopped and popped. The ball bounced four times on the rim and a hundred years later went through the hoop.

Warren Houston had a hot hand throughout the entire game and led all scorers with 27. For him, it was one less than his career high of 28 against Andover.

The game against Cambridge Latin was uneventful. Newton was in command all the way and outclassed the Latins by 76-54. At one time, the Cats led by as many as 30 points.

The bulk of Newton's scoring was done by Paul Colantonio with 21. Paul Ward with 13, Warren Houston with 9 and Peter Hicks with 7.

The hockey team swamped Rindge Tech in the final three periods with a 23 foot jumper with 49 seconds left to play.

Don Gallagher led the team with a hat trick (three goals). Charlie Donovan and Bob Cotter score two apiece. Other goals were scored by Hank Kennedy, Steve Tooney, Ralph Murphy and Jackie Droz.

Newton moved into second place in the GBI hockey league by the victory.

"The voters knew last November that the Republican Party was the party of fiscal responsibility . . . that we advocated programs after we figured how to pay for them, not before . . . that we insisted on a tax program that made sense . . . solid, fiscal sense."

"Now, we have to make sure the people know the kind of future we stand for, and the kind of programs that will build that future, programs like Mental Health-Making our Streets Safe to Walk On—Cleaning our Air and Water—Improving our State Service."

At the 11:00 a.m. Worship Service next Sunday, February 19, Rev. Walter E. Dobler, Secretary of the Division of Christian Education, United Church of Christ, will be the guest preacher at the morning Service. His sermon will be "Consultation On Church Union." Dr. Hazelton has been member of the United Church of Christ delegation to the COCU from the beginning in 1961.

The public is cordially invited to join the congregation in any or all of the Services.

Lauding the election efforts of 1966 which gave the GOP sensational victories in the state, Sargent, nevertheless, pointed up the need to do much better in the Legislature where the Republicans had a net gain of three seats. He called on the party to field candidates in every contest saying:

"In 107 contests, the Republican Party lost by default because there was no Republican on the ticket and thus no contest."

Telling the gathering that as loyal Republicans theirs is the task of so organizing as to win greater strength in the Legislature, Sargent said:

"The real, the only hope for the party in this state is not in the fact that Republicans hold the four major offices won in the last election. The real and only hope is that the people who made possible that victory expand their efforts and aim them at every available office in every possible election race."

"We must enlist young and willing workers. We must make room for new talent, willing to do the hard work required."

The Lieutenant Governor closed his down to earth talk with the admonition:

"Unless we begin now, unless each of us dedicates himself to the proposition that Republican victory means Republican effort, Republican work, Republican dedication . . . then we will miss our golden opportunity. We will then fail our bright promise. The future of our party, as never before, is in your hands."

Hon. Theodore D. Mann, president of the Newton Republican Club, and general chairman of the event, acted as Master of Ceremonies and introduced the head table.

The invocation was given by Rabbi Israel J. Kazis of Temple Mishkan Tefila. The Benediction was given by Rev. William E. Foley, minister of the Church of the Good Shepherd in Waban. The dinner opened with the Signing of the National Anthem by Walter C. Lee.

Greetings were brought by Mayor Monte G. Basbas of Newton, and by Hon. Margaret M. Heckler, U.S. Representative from the Tenth District.

The traditional Lincoln Day Oration was delivered by Senator John M. Quinlan, Second Norfolk District. He was presented by Anthony J. Medaglia, Jr., dinner co-chairman with Donald Quinn and Mrs. Whelan Vinnicombe.

A highlight of the evening was the citation of two Newton Republicans in recognition of their long and effective service to the party.

The Newton GOP has made it a practice in recent years to honor two workers annually at the dinner. Those cited last night are: Mrs. Whelan Vinnicombe, Edward C. Uehlein.

Both are widely known in the Newton community and are active in Republican and Members of the Board of Aldermen last year cut $24,040 from the 1966 municipal budget presented to them by Basbas even though they conceded at the time that the Mayor's budget was an extremely "tight" one.

It is assumed that the city fathers will do some budget-pruning again this year although they may have difficulty finding items they can trim without curtailing essential public services.

Mayor Basbas is planning to submit a message to the Aldermanic Board next week, explaining and reporting on the sharp increase in the municipal and school budget.

The Aldermanic Finance Committee will shortly begin a series of conferences on the budget, meeting with various city officials, including the Mayor himself as they scrutinize the suggested expenditures.

Newton High School Fire Apparently Set

A small fire at Newton High School yesterday caused the school to be closed and students sent home for the day.

It was the second time in about two weeks that a blaze in building 1, the largest and oldest building at the high school, has forced the closing of the school.

The fire occurred in a pile of papers in a small teachers' office on the third floor of the school building.

Investigators attached to the State Fire Marshal's office declared that the fire either was set or was caused by carelessness.

They emphasized that the blaze had no relation whatever to the age of the building or to the wiring in the structure and was of human origin.

Someone either deliberately set fire to the papers or set them ablaze through carelessness, it was stated.

School Superintendent Charles E. Brown said the damage from the fire was negligible and that classes were dismissed for the day because of the water in the Catholic League End Hoop Play

Our Lady's High School of Newton wound up play in the Catholic Suburban Basketball League last week with a losing 5-11 record. In non-league play, their record was 8-12.

In the final league game, Xavier High School of Concord defeated the Lancers, 80-63, to capture the league championship with a 15-1 record. St. Columbkille's with a 14-2 slate was second in the league.

The last game of the season for the Lancers was a non-league tilt with Newman High School last Sunday at Our Lady's gym. The Lancers won, 68-28, with Senior Jay Feeley back in the lineup. He had missed nine previous games because of a leg injury.

Meanwhile, Our Lady's staff team is tied with St. Mary's of Waltham for the Suburban League lead with a 5-1 record. They gained the tie by virtue of a 27-18 victory over St. Joseph's High of Somerville last Thursday.

Customers who use the post offices in Newton are being advised by Postmaster Ephraim Martin of the Boston district, which includes this city, that the offices here will make every effort to help attain the objectives of the new "Postal Customers' Bill of Rights," President Johnson's nation-wide improvement program for improving the quality of federal services to the public.

Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien has ordered the Customers' Bill of Rights to be implemented by two immediate steps in this city:

1—Posters will be displayed in the post office lobbies and service counters containing 10 points which specify the kind of treatment customers have a right to expect.

2—Instructions that call for careful observance of all points in the Customers' Bill of Rights. The instructions also give directions for the most efficient management of window services.

The posters tell customers they are entitled to:

1. A neat, clean counter on which to transact business.

2. Service by a well-groomed, neat window employee.

3. A friendly greeting that expresses a desire to assist.

4. Knowledgeable, well-informed, interested window personnel to help with postal needs.

5. Prompt, alert and efficient service.

6. Competent and correct information on inquiries.

7. An attitude that reflects helpfulness, patience and congeniality.

8. The courtesy and tact that would be expected from a friend.

9. Polite referral to another window or individual, when necessary, to give the appropriate service.

In addition to improving relations with customers, Postmaster Martin said, the "Customer's Bill of Rights" can expedite handling of transactions at the windows and make the service more efficient.

He urged Newton residents to assist in this effort, by stating their needs clearly, and having money and any necessary filled-out forms ready for transactions.

The Postmaster explained that demands on window personnel, who must deal with a wide variety of information, forms and varying services, are usually very heavy, and postal customers can assist them in meeting the new service goals by being as brief and business-like as possible.

Improved Postal Service Promised For This City

10. A feeling upon leaving, that the post office is glad to serve and help at all times.

Instructions for fulfilling "The Postal Customer's Bill of Rights" are being distributed to all window personnel by Postmaster Martin.

Mr. O'Brien stated in connection with the new postal service improvement effort:

"President Johnson insisted that every federal employee give added attention to providing the American people with the very best service possible . . . Since your daily duties bring you in direct and continuous contact with our customers, I would like to tell you what I consider the type of service the American people have a right to expect when dealing with the largest business operation in the world."

Annual Round Table Meeting

The annual Bowen School Round Table Discussion with Edward M. Clarke presiding, was held on February 9th in the School Auditorium.

Mr. Clarke answered the many questions which had been sent in by interested parents. The questions showed parental concern on such matters as the teaching of reading in the first grade, the uses of aptitude and achievement test results, the determination of need for repeating a school year, and the methods used in teaching arithmetic. The growing classroom needs of Bowen School were discussed, and the attending parents posed additional questions.

Tom Hagen, Bowen P.T.A. president, gave a short outline of the groups activities in which importance is placed on a study of the space conditions at the school.

Refreshments were served after the meeting by Mrs. Steven Sussman and her committee.

Maybe Mr. Washington had Cherry Pie for lunch, but he loved English Muffins for breakfast.

Miss Alice R. Schutter Bride of David Jude Falcone

St. Bernard's Church, West Newton, recently was the setting for the marriage of Miss Alice Raymer Schutter to David Jude Falcone.

Mr. and Mrs. George Matthew Schutter 2nd, of 23 Prince street, West Newton, and Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Marion Falcone of Durham, North Carolina, are the couple's parents.

Arrangements of mixed white flowers decorated the altar, while the pews were marked with miniature white mums, ribbons and greens, for the 11 o'clock nuptial mass at which the Rev. George J. Fraher was celebrant. A reception was held at the Algonquin Club in Boston.

Escorted by her father, the bride's pale ivory silk organza gown over peau de soie had a fitted bodice, short sleeves, scoop neckline, full skirt appliqued with re-embroidered Alencon lace and a rounded chapel-length train.

Similar lace fashioned the Chanel bow which held in place her bouffant elbow-length illusion veil. Her flowers were Eucharis lilies and stephanotis.

Miss Marion Schutter of West Newton was her sister's maid of honor. Another sister, Miss Judith Schutter of West Newton was bridesmaid.

Joseph Falcone of Durham, North Carolina, served as best man for his brother. Ushering were John Lucas of Richmond, Va., George M. Schutter 3rd, of West Newton, brother of the bride, as well as two brothers of the groom, Edward Falcone and Carmen M. Falcone Jr., both of Durham, North Carolina.

For her going-away costume, the bride topped her navy silk dress with red coat and her flowers were white orchids.

After trip to Phoenix, Arizona, the couple will live in Tempe, Arizona.

The bride attended Hiram College and Duke University.

Mr. Falcone attended Duke University, where his fraternity was Sigma Chi, and Arizona State University. He is a candidate for his master's degree in Political Science at Arizona State University.

unit during their three years at Meadowbrook.

Eleven teachers of major subjects and one guidance counselor are assigned to each 250-pupil unit. Teachers of elective courses give them for the students in all four units whereas teachers of major subjects give them for pupils in only one unit.

The Meadowbrook staff is predominantly youthful. The school has a total of 74 teachers, almost equally divided between men and women. Twenty-seven of the teachers have their master's degree. Some 15 others have gone further and have done at least a year's work toward their doctorate.

The team of teachers in charge of each unit divides the members of Alpha, Beta, Gamma or Sigma into 24 houses. An average house consists of 12 students and each teacher takes care of two houses, which are named for the teacher.

The house advisors meet with each house four times a week. These periods can be employed for group discussions or individual counseling.

The house advisor's role is to a certain extent analogous to that of the home room teacher in a traditional school organization. However, the stress is placed more on counseling and perhaps less on discipline.

Meadowbrook officials maintain that they have lessened disciplinary problems by making children interested and responsible for what they are doing. They hasten to add that they have by no means eliminated them. The school maintains many traditional rules such as prohibitions of gum-chewing and of indoor hat-wearing.

The problems and crises in a child's development can be examined in the unit teacher-team meetings held each week. The role of the team is especially important since the nine-week term limits the amount that a teacher may have a pupil.

It is, nevertheless, probable that a teacher may encounter pupils more than once in their stay at Meadowbrook, if the pupil remains in his initial unit as he is supposed to.

One youngster divulged that he thought one of the advantages of course offerings given by a number of teachers was that one could avoid teachers he or she disliked.

EVALUATION

Meadowbrook differs from other Newton junior high schools in not giving letter grades on report cards. A constant effort is made, however, to evaluate the work of each child.

"We think that giving an 'A' to a bright child, who is lazy, may be a disservice," says Meadowbrook's principal.

A great deal of material is still made available so that parents can form a balanced idea of what their child is doing. And a minimum of two parent conferences are scheduled by the house advisor each year.

To give parents and the students themselves an idea of whether they have accomplished what they should, a profile is drawn up showing the pupil's record on a number of different standard tests for measuring basic verbal and quantitative skills, as well as some achievement tests. Parents are also shown where the child stands in relation to his class.

This data helps to provide an idea of what a student may be expected to do. Both mastery of content and the quality of work done are rated with regard to pupil profiles. These two factors tend to give a fairer picture than letter grades, according to Meadowbrook authorities, of cases formerly blurred, such as that of the extremely bright child who remembers material without really trying or the child with less native intelligence who works at full capacity.

Other factors taken into account are the progress the child achieves with respect to goals set by himself and his teachers and also the progress a child makes in imaginative and flexible thinking and in taking an interest in using his potential to achieve goals that he establishes.

Some parents have expressed consternation over lack of report cards and expressed doubts as to whether their children were being shown compared to compete with children accustomed to report cards when they reach high school.

Assistant Principal Maurice Blum points out that the boys and girls are being shown where they stand in respect to their classmates. "They will have to compete when they get out of school, in industry, in business. They ought to get used to competition now," he says.

Perhaps, the answer to some worried parents is that Meadowbrook shifts the emphasis back from the rating of performance to motivating its students to perform well. Pupils are made to be conscious first of measuring up to their own possibilities.

It should be added that Meadowbrook pupils do take standardized city and national tests. They also get a report card at the end of their junior high school career.

For many junior high school students, however, the struggle is to see some point in their daily routine. Assistant Principal Blum observes that in this group will be the late bloomers, pupils who eventually begin to study when they are faced with some reason for it, such as the need to get into college in the near future.

It may be said that Meadowbrook students are gently nudged along in the direction of making their study plans with eventual goals in mind.

Some pupils, including one boy with whom we talked, began to take interest in vocational subjects. Another girl had started to think about what college she wanted to attend.

For most junior high school students, college and careers seem somewhat remote. These youngsters are sustained by an interest in the courses at hand, an interest partly based on the fact that they have been able to choose what seemed a little more important or attractive than the other possibilities.

Meadowbrook guidance counselor Charles Goff explained in a speech last year: "Traditionally, motivation for student movement from one point to another in learning has been largely external; marks, tracks, teacher and parent pressure, etc."

"Our belief is that if the choice pattern in which the pupil is engaged is selected by the student, motivation will be largely intrinsic. We believe this because the student will be attempting to fulfill his own purpose rather than a purpose set exclusively by others."

Goff went on to tell his listeners on that occasion of a study made in the Newton South High School classes of 1966 and 1967 (at that time the junior class). Year-end grade point averages for the high school careers of 52 students from Meadowbrook's continuous learning program and 52 students from the conventional program were compared and no appreciable differences were noted.

"In summary," Goff remarked, "we can find no differences which are significant in terms of achievement between students from the continuous learning program and our more traditional program."

Similarly, Principal King reports that when a group of 248 foreign language students who went from Meadowbrook to Newton South High School, were checked, 93 per cent had continued at the same level at which they finished at Meadowbrook.

Thus, what differentiates the results of the Meadowbrook approach from those obtained by other methods, is not so much quantity of knowledge retained, for this has been found about the same, but rather the meaningfulness of this knowledge and the self-reliance of the pupils.

It is this self-reliance, Miss King believes, that makes the difference on a college level. The frequency with which intellectually qualified students drop out would be slashed, she thinks, if students were used to making their own decisions and thus not only budgeting their time but also seeing problems and crises in terms of the goals they themselves desire.

INDIVIDUAL ATTENTION

Likewise, it is not the accessibility of modern educational material that really sets Meadowbrook apart. This material does exist and not only in the form of filmstrips or tapes. It may also take the form of bundles of course material neatly arranged in the office of curriculum coordinator Mrs. Ernestine McDonough. Some special preparation was virtually forced on the teachers by the nine-weeks format of course units.

A Ford grant for a month's work by 33 teachers one summer helped to gather part of this material. More of it has been assembled in the spare time of teachers already carrying full academic loads.

But whatever the worth of the material to supplement the new curriculum, the greatest boast of the Meadowbrook School is the individual attention it gives to its pupils.

This attention comes in two ways. In the first place, students are supposed to see their house advisors regularly. The house advisors and the rest of the four-unit teams have detailed information at their disposal which they study in common. Also, teachers are at the children's disposal in the subject centers during unscheduled time.

But one teacher of many years' experience pointed out another way in which students get individual attention.

She observed that the fact that youngsters seek their natural levels in courses of varying difficulties, makes it possible to deal with more homogeneous groups. Groups are never completely homogeneous, she said, but gearing the group to the difficulty of the subject, permits a presentation which is much more meaningful to all, than when a group united only by age but with wide differences in academic talent is assembled.

She added that the system is particularly beneficial to the slow learner, who under a traditional set-up is sometimes dragged along with failing marks until he or she simply accepts defeat.

Thus, individual attention for each pupil and at the same time a gradual training in personal responsibility are the two sides of the Meadowbrook coin.

The Meadowbrook program is by no means fully consolidated. It is now in its fifth year and the first pupils who went through three years of what was then referred to as "continuous learning" are

Cub Scout Pack Enjoys Winter Hike In Woods

Taking a hike in cold and snowy winter woods can be an exciting adventure, it was discovered on a recent Saturday by Cub Scouts of Pack 208 - 27 hardy youngsters accompanied by seven enthusiastic fathers.

The trek was into the Nobsco Reservation in Sudbury, Norumbega Council's camp-ground.

The fathers were Cubmaster Robert Foster, Ruben Dawkins, Stanley Epstein, Richard Galvin, Eugene Hirshberg, Ken McDonald and Joseph Ress.

The hikers used the cabin of Troop 9, Waban Scouts, as headquarters. Assistant Patrol Leader Mike Milgroom of Troop 9 was Scout Guide for the group.

After short side trips, boot skating and hill sliding the Cubs reported they had a marvelous day and all are eagerly looking forward to the time they will become Scouts and be allowed to camp out at Nobsco.

Custodian At Music School Here "Jack Of All Trades"

"You wouldn't think music was closely related to keeping up a building, would you?" asked Mrs. Anne Gombosi, director of All Newton Music School. "Well, it is. It's essential to our school and we don't know what we'd do without Chris Dabreo. And we wish he could find a place to live in Newton for our sakes and his family's."

The Chris Dabreo to whom Mrs. Gombosi was referring is the new custodian for the All Newton Music School on Chestnut St. In his mid thirties, he is an answer to prayer for the school. A jack of all trades, he mends music stands and makes minor repairs on pianos, hemms rugs and paints walls in addition to keeping the school in running order.

Mr. Dabreo brought his wife and five children ranging in age from 7 to 13 from Grenada for our chilly shores. It seems that two of his sisters are in Boston and they encouraged him to come so that his children could have a good education and better opportunities in their lives.

One of the sisters knew of the job opening at the Music School.

At present the Dabreos are living in a three bedroom apartment in Boston and the children are in a Boston school.

"We wish we could help Chris Dabreo find a place to live in Newton which would be close for him and enable his children to be in schools here," said Mrs. Gombosi.

"Perhaps someone who reads the Graphic would know of an apartment they could rent? They'd like three or four bedrooms and of course the closer to the school the better, but at any rate somewhere in Newton. The children are beautifully brought up. I can't imagine nicer, more thoughtful tenants than the Dabreos. When Chris is doing so much for us and is so important behind the scenes here, I would be so glad if our community could somehow find them a place to live here."

SCHLESINGER RAPS 'DUMP LBJ' CLAIM

THE FINAL INSTALLMENT of the serialization of "The Death of a President" has drawn the ire of Arthur Schlesinger Jr., former presidential assistant.

Schlesinger disputed a claim in William Manchester's book which says Schlesinger wanted to dump President Johnson in 1964.

"A melodramatic distortion of a wholly academic discussion," Schlesinger said. He also said the incident "was unaccompanied by any urging that President Johnson be replaced."

GARRISON TELLS WHY HE STARTED JFK PROBE

DIST. ATTY. JIM GARRISON of New Orleans said yesterday he first began to have doubts about the assassination of President Kennedy after discussing with Sen. Russell Long (D-La.) the incongruity of the sequence in the firing of the rifle shots which killed Kennedy.

"Long wondered about the probability of getting all shots out of an inexpensive gun in a few seconds," Garrison said.

After he began looking into the matter, "all of a sudden the leads were coming in faster than we could handle them," Garrison said.

ILLINOIS TO ASK DEATH FOR SPECK

THE CHIEF PROSECUTOR in the mass murder trial at Peoria, Ill., of Richard Franklin Speck told prospective jurors that the state would demand that the defendant pay with his life for the dormitory massacre of eight young nurses.

Asst. state's atty. William Martin announced the State of Illinois' plan to exact the death penalty as attorneys began the tedious task of selecting a jury to hear evidence against the 25-year-old Dallas drifter.

A Peoria housewife, the mother of seven children and stepmother of two, was chosen the first juror after five men and one woman were excused.

HUMPHREY SHAKEN BY WILD DEMONSTRATIONS

VICE PRESIDENT Hubert H. Humphrey was still shaken today after a mob of 300 anti-Vietnam war demonstrators tried to manhandle him yesterday at Stanford University.

Some of the demonstrators called the Vice President a "war criminal" and others screamed "Shame! Shame!" as they rushed at Humphrey as he went to his limousine after participating in a student forum. None of the students managed to get to Humphrey. Several grappled with officers who locked arms to prevent the youths from reaching the Vice President.

HOUSE PASSES BILL ON RESERVES

THE HOUSE APPROVED, 234 to 13, and sent to the Senate a bill to block any merger of the Army Reserve and the National Guard.

The so-called "Reserve Bill of Rights" would establish a minimum Army reserve strength of 260,000 men and the guard at 380,000 men over the objections of Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara. The measure was similar to a House bill passed late in the 89th Congress which failed to get Senate consideration.

BUDDINER, CAR CRASH IN CHELSEA, 2 DEAD

TWO PERSONS were killed and three others reported injured last night in a Chelsea collision between an automobile and a Boston & Maine Railroad self-propelled Diesel passenger train. The accident occurred at the 6th and Arlington sts. crossing.

All of the car's passengers were women. The two dead women were not immediately identified, but the seriously injured woman whose names were on the danger list were identified at Mass. General Hospital as Arlene Eastman, Mary Fox and Isabel Townsend. Their home addresses were not given. An eyewitness said the driver and a passenger in the front seat were thrown clear of the car.

LEGISLATURE OPENS REDIRECTING PANEL

THE LEGISLATURE yesterday adopted an order calling for a special commission to redistrict Massachusetts' 12 congressional seats in line with the U.S. Supreme Court's one-man one-vote decision. Both the House and Senate acted swiftly on the order filed by House Speaker John F. X. Davoren, calling for the commission consisting of six senators and 15 representatives required to report by June 7.

Governor Volpe, anxious to avoid a political donnybrook, met with legislative leaders to "set the tone" for the forthcoming congressional redistricting. Volpe said he hoped the issue could be resolved without resorting to the court.

BATES BLASTS NAVY MOVE TO NEW YORK

ENABLING PERSONNEL to see the latest Broadway shows is hardly sufficient reason for moving the 1st Naval headquarters from the birthplace of the American Navy in Massachusetts to New York, Rep. William H. Bates, R-Mass., charged yesterday in Washington. Bates, senior Republican on the House Armed Services Committee, said the proposed consolidation of the 1st and 3rd Naval districts "would be too expensive and by placing the Commandant's headquarters far from the center of Naval activity on the Northeast coast."

PATRIOTS' JIM FRASER RETIRES

FORMER THREE-TIME American Football League punting champion and all-star linebacker Jim Fraser has announced his retirement from the Boston Patriots. Fraser, who split Boston's punting duties and was a nearly fulltime backer last season, has accepted a post as the first fulltime director of athletics at Middessex School, a private boys' prep school, in Concord. Fraser, 30, played six seasons in the AFL for Denver, Kansas City and the Patriots following a collegiate career at the University of Wisconsin.

U. S. ENVOYS WALK OUT ON SOVIET GENERAL

U. S. EMBASSY military attaches marched out of a Moscow news conference when a top Soviet general accused America of waging "criminal and barbaric war" in Vietnam. Russian bystanders snickered. The three attaches walked out when Gen. Pavel Kurochkin, commander of the Soviet War College, accused U.S. troops of violating international law by "brutally killing civilians."

Top U.S. diplomats avoid Moscow public meetings just so they will not have to take a walk, but lesser embassy officials often attend such conferences. The attaches heard Kurochkin hint that the Soviets have anti-missile-missile bases in operation around Moscow.

WEST HOPEFUL OF DISARMAMENT ACCORD

THE WEST WAS REPORTEDLY hopeful on the eve of today's new session of the 17-nation Geneva disarmament conference, that agreement will be reached with the Soviet Union on prevention of further spread of nuclear weapons.

Lord Chalfont, chief British negotiator, said the United States and Russia have resolved "the most important problems" and were "almost in full agreement." But conference sources cautioned that negotiations will still take some time and that no treaty should be expected before late summer or early fall.

U. S. MARINES CLOSE IN ON TRAPPED REDS

AMERICAN MARINES were closing in today on 90 North Vietnam regulars surrounded on the coastal plains drenched with the blood of about 1000 Communists killed by the combined drive of U.S. and South Vietnamese in one of the Vietnam war's greatest victories. The latest drive has raised the Cong death toll to more than 2000 in the last eight days, Allied spokesmen said.

Suspect Students For Fires At High School

A student at Newton High School, who has been questioned at length by police, is suspected of setting three fires at the school.

However, Police Captain William F. Quinn, who is directing the investigation, declared that two other students also are "suspects."

The student whom police have been interrogating closely is described as "a spark," who follows fires and knows the location of every fire box in the city.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas has offered a reward of $200 for information leading to the arrest of the "sick person" responsible for the fires.

Basbas said the information could be transmitted either to his office or to Captain Quinn at police headquarters (244-1212) and would be kept confidential in either event.

Meanwhile, it was learned that three teachers at Newton High School have urged students to demonstrate for the demolition and replacement of Building 1 at the school.

Two teachers were said to have devoted an entire classroom period each to agitating their students to demonstrate instead of teaching the scheduled subjects.

For instance: During the past year 274 lost dogs were returned safely to their owners; another 137 pups who insisted on gamboling in school play areas were removed gently, and 77 unclaimed strays were given homes.

The friends who have put a little sunshine in the dog-eat-dog world of the canines are Dog Officers Charles Rivers and Roy McLaughlin, who man the Newton

The students reportedly pressed indignation upon City Hall and school headquarters.

Municipal officials expressed indignation upon learning of the actions of the two teachers.

They declared that Building 1 is completely safe and pointed out that construction of the new Newton High School is scheduled to start in 1969 and to be completed in 1971.

It would be impossible to demolish Building 1 at this time, they added.

Although Newton schools are closed this week because of the Washington's Birthday vacation, four members of the police force were at the high school yesterday continuing their investigation of the setting of the three fires.

They are Sergeants Thomas M. Gargan and John Regan, Detective Frank Turner and Safety Officer Charles Feeley, all working under the direction of Captain Quinn and Chief Philip Purcell.

Police indicated that their investigation has pretty much narrowed down to three students, with one regarded as a prime suspect.

State Fire Marshall Ralph Garrett, a resident of West Newton, has visited the school and participated in the investigation.

A number of students, teachers and other employees at the school have been questioned during the probe. No teacher is suspected of setting any of the fires.

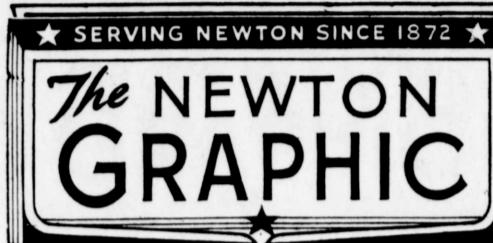

The first fire occurred at 12:31 on the afternoon of Feb. 2 in a small room on the fourth floor of Building 1 which at the time was being used by the staff of "Newtonite," the student paper.

The second fire broke out at 10:38 a.m. on Feb. 15 in a third-floor guidance coun-

By JAMES G. COLBERT

Court Ruling Could Cause Big Turnover in Congress

An order by a three-judge federal court for a revamping of the State's 12 congressional districts to make them more equal from a population standpoint has staggering and far-reaching political implications.

Senate President Maurice A. Donahue has predicted that the Democratic party may pick up two and possibly three seats in the national House as a result of the mandatory redistricting.

Republican John A. Volpe understandably is hoping that the GOP can retain its present five seats on Capitol Hill when the new districts are created.

That points to an almost inevitable political tug-of-war between the Democratic-controlled Legislature and the Republican Governor.

It's possible they may reach an agreement on how the State should be divided into 12 congressional districts, but it's not probable. They couldn't in 1962

If the Governor and Legislature are unable to produce a mutually acceptable plan, the three federal judges apparently will set up the 12 districts.

In such a turn of events, the jurists are likely to discover that they have assumed a problem of enormous proportions.

Psychologist Featured In Pulpit Here Mar. 5

An eminent psychologist will share the pulpit at the First Unitarian Society in Newton on Sunday morning, March 5th, as the second speaker in the 1967 series, "New Frontiers in Religion."

Hans-Lucas Teuber, chairman of the Psychology Department at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will present an address entitled: "Determinism and Freedom — The Behavioral Sciences and the Problems of Voluntary Action."

A native of Berlin, Germany, Dr. Teuber is a graduate of French College, Berlin; the University of Basel, Switzerland, and received his Ph.D. in Psychology at Harvard University in 1947.

Dr. Teuber is the author of many scientific publications relating to brain research and has been a leader in this field since the post World War II period. Most recently he was awarded the Karl Spencer Lashley Award for Research in Neurobiology.

At M.I.T., Dr. Teuber heads the Psychophysiological Department, where a brain research unit, undertaking a program as part of the broad study of brain function, seeks to develop methods for measuring sensory and motor functions after injuries to the nervous system, whether sustained early or late in life, and to detect those factors which hasten or retard recovery.

Among the aims of the program is the hope that new techniques will make possible early diagnosis and better management of brain injury in children and adults.

Newton Firms Are Sued By Labor Dept.

Happiness is being the new product of a growing Ford dealership.

Ed Ehrenberg smiles a lot lately as he sees his ideas and policies on sales and service making a big difference in comparative sales over the past year.

Ehrenberg just recently took over West Ford, Inc., at 773 Washington St., Newton, and buckled down to hard work. By no means a novice in the automotive field, Ed Ehrenberg brings to West Ford, 10 impressive years of experience with the Ford Motor Company.

During this time, he served not only as a manager of service operation in charge of national warranties on all Ford division vehicles, but he also headed Ford Motor's 37 mechanic training schools throughout the country.

West Ford boasts a full line of 1967 Fords, Mustangs, English Fords and a tremendous selection of A-1 used cars.

With Ed Ehrenberg's past experience, it is only logical that the West Ford Service Department is one of the most complete that can be found, staffed with highly trained men and the latest equipment.

A year-round welcome is extended to everyone to visit the facility on Washington's Birthday. There will be refreshments and a warm welcome for everyone.

The third fire occurred at 9:26 a.m. last Thursday (Feb. 16) in a science room in Building 2 at the high school.

Police theorize that it is highly improbable that a stranger walked in off the street and started any of the fires.

Little Guy Shows The Way

Give — so more will live!

These five little words, the slogan of the Heart Fund, don't look like much in cold, black print but they contain a wealth of meaning.

They mean just what they say: More will live if you support the Heart Fund. More like the thousands of children born with heart defects who, because of heart research and medical advances, have been restored to happy living.

We know of one such youngster who wasn't lucky enough to be restored to the happy, laughing, wide-eyed world of youth. He died at the age of six, just when the business of living starts to get interesting.

His name was Guy Poirier and he lived in Montreal, Canada. A mercy flight by a U.S. Marine Corps jet from California arrived 45 minutes too late in April, 1964, to help little Guy.

The plane carried a special plastic heart valve which would have been inserted in an operation.

The boy's mother felt the youngster knew he was dying. He had been saving his money to buy a pair of roller skates. But, shortly before he died, he told his mother that he felt he wouldn't be able to use the skates.

He instructed his mother to use the money to aid a little girl he knew in his hospital ward who also had heart trouble.

Thus, a piggy bank containing $3.24 in laboriously saved pennies, nickels and dimes was sent to the Heart Fund with a "will" directing the money be used to help others suffering heart disease.

Next Sunday, Feb. 26, is Heart Sunday in Massachusetts. In the Greater Boston area 35,000 volunteers will collect door-to-door for the Heart Fund.

In addition to vital heart research, Heart Fund dollars are used to inform hospitals, doctors, nurses and the general public about the latest discoveries and treatments in heart and circulatory diseases. They are also used for community services, such as rheumatic fever prevention programs, stroke rehabilitation programs and information services.

In our state alone, more than 800,000 Heart Fund dollars are spent annually on research in the continuing battle against the nation's number one health enemy.

Statistics show that 54 percent of all death in Massachusetts and the nation are from heart and blood vessel diseases.

So, when the Heart Fund volunteer rings your doorbell, remember little Guy and others like him and . . .

"Give—so more will live!"

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Read With Concern

Editor of the Graphic:
I read the recent article "School Readies Pupils for Life in a Changing World" (Feb. 9) with utter amazement and concern. I have no children in the Meadowbrook Junior High School so that there is no personal axe to grind.

My objections are not so much in the general implementation of pilot programs in the school system. I realize that in education, as in other fields striving for progress, some experimentation must take place. My objections concern some of the features in this program as part of our educational process.

It seems to me that experimentation presents greater hazards in the field of education than in other fields where our children are the subjects of the experiment. Thus, a great deal of care, thought, and preplanning must enter the process; the aims, purposes, and sites of the program must be clearly defined.

It is evident that many of the above requirements have not been met in the "Continuous Learning Program."

A direct quote from the article says, "The object of teaching a child is to get along without his teacher." Is this the great goal in education for the youth of our great society today? Is it not the teacher who instructs, guides, and molds the emerging intellect while loosely holding the reins for the flexibility of the mind?

The abrupt turning away from teacher teaching to student teaching must be demeaning to the teacher truly dedicated to his profession; it is the alternative to poor teaching.

But of greater importance is the impact of this program on student learning. First, the Marshall, who apparently have nothing to do and nowhere to go once school is over for the day. The fact that she has started, successfully, two small "hobby groups" is, indeed, laudable, and as an association we indeed wish her luck in this venture.

Our concern, however, is with her evident ignorance as to the associations and agencies already available in the Newton Corner area.

First of all, Newton Corner does have a Neighborhood Association, the association mentioned above. Our interest in this area of the city has been fairly well known, and we are quite proud of the fact we were able to obtain, through the efforts of our elected officials and His Honor, Mayor Basbas, an attractive Tot Lot on Nonantum Place.

Many people residing on streets around Waterson Rd. are members, and we were amazed Mrs. Marshall had not been aware of our existence.

We might also point out that they are learning at all in sudden chaos of "contracts," freedom of subject choices, 2½ hours per week of classroom time, overlapping classes, unscheduled teaching time, IBM punch cards as daily guides for both pupil and teacher.

It is only the exceptionally motivated student who can fare well in the program. I strongly suspect the others are probably either falling by the wayside or spending a great deal of time with parental help or tutors to overcome the inefficiencies of the program.

A program of this kind can only succeed if it is placed on a continuum of gradual conditioned learning leading to independent study from the elementary grades through graduate school.

Placing an independent study program in the middle of the educational process coming from nowhere and going nowhere is by itself a meaningless effort leading only to frustration on the part of its victims — the students and faculty.

The philosophy behind the program is good. It is true that today's children will live in a changing world where independence of thought and action are imperative. But the means must justify the ends. It is not through permissiveness in education nor helter-skelter learning by "contracts" that make for student maturity. Independence and maturity must first have a chance to become digested and internalized.

The road cannot be circumvented around the goals; it must be a straight line leading directly and inexorably toward independence and maturity. It is only through purposeful and well balanced disciplines and instruction, taking in as much as possible the individual needs of the students, that the emerging intellect and self-discipline can implement student responsibility and independence of thought and action.

I firmly believe that it will be well worthwhile to discontinue the "Continuous Learning Program" at the junior high school level in favor of a more direct approach toward student independence in a changing world where, through group guidance classes, the first changing world of work can be realized and made meaningful to the individual.

Specialists in the vocational field reveal that vocations are part of a development career planning process from childhood through and beyond the actual entrance into the world of work. The income tax is the

Two Billion Less

Editor of The Graphic:

In the February ninth edition you report that Mayor Monte G. Basbas desires that the Federal Government return to the municipalities of the United States from the income taxes collected an amount equal to $10 for each of its inhabitants. This would amount to a reduction in federal income of about $2,000,000,000 per year.

I think that in honesty the Mayor should tell the people of Newton what he proposes that the federal government should do about this loss of revenue, for either the federal government must reduce services by $2,000,000,000 or impose new taxes, and if the Mayor favors new taxes I think he should tell us what kind of taxes he proposes. Since the income tax is the greatest source of revenue for the federal government may I ask whether Mayor Basbas proposes to increase the rate at which income is taxed now.

It is true that the government may borrow $2,000,000,000 per year, in addition to what it now borrows, but how much inflation would this cause, and what you borrow you must eventually repay.

Tired Driver In Danger Of Death On Road

The following article from "This Week in Public Health," publication of the Massachusetts State Department of Public Health, is reprinted as a public service by The Graphic at the suggestion of Dr. Hale H. Cook, Newton Commissioner of Health:

"Falling asleep at the wheel, known more prestigiously as hypnagogus exhaustion, is considered a major factor in the mounting accident death toll. Doctor Clifford Johnson, medical director of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, describes the hypnagogus as the sleep center of the brain and says that scores of studies indicate clearly that the susceptibility to careless driving increases significantly as hypnagogus exhaustion approaches."

The Accident Prevention Section of the North Carolina Board of Health reports Doctor Johnson as believing it is necessary to enlist the help of car passengers if accident rates are to be reduced.

"He lists symptoms for which passengers and drivers should watch: muscle spasms and jerking and straightening of the legs; sudden talking in a louder than normal voice; sudden jerking of the wheel or stabbing at the brake pedals with no apparent reason, indicating that the driver may be 'seeing things'; nodding, yawning, or blinking; fiddling with the car radio controls; nervous tapping on the steering wheel or dashboard; driving up close to the car ahead, then braking suddenly."

"When signs of fatigue are noticed, he recommends, the driver should stop, slowly roll his head in a complete circle, three times in one direction and three times in the reverse direction. He also suggests taking several deep breaths, exhaling by short bursts through tightly drawn lips. This forces fresh air and oxygen into inner air sacs of the lungs and aids in restoring energy."

Segal At Safe Driving Tests In Wisconsin

Murray D. Segal of 3 Ashton Ave., Newton Centre, has taken a leading role in the annual winter driving tests conducted by the National Safety Council at Stevens Point, Wis.

Segal heads the transportation consulting firm bearing his name in Brookline. He has served on the Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards for eight years.

Pat Roche enthusiastically stated that the people of Newton, West Roxbury and Dedham will now have an opportunity to discover the real meaning of the Roche Bros. slogan, "The Economy of Excellence."

The new store is unique in every way. The interior decor is unlike any other supermarket in the Greater Boston area. Each department has been designed with shopper convenience in mind.

The produce department has been appropriately named "The Farmer's Basket," and features an authentic farm motif.

The meat department is titled "The Butcher Shop" and resembles an old time butcher shop.

The Roche brothers are sure that they have created West Roxbury's most exciting supermarket.

Customers are again reminded that the store will be open all day tomorrow, Washington's Birthday.

Early Promotion For Newton Lad At Fort Dix

William J. Wellford, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Wellford, 15 Beech St., Newton, was promoted to Army private pay grade E-2 upon completion of basic combat training at Ft. Dix, N. J.

The promotion was awarded two months earlier than is customary under an Army policy providing incentive for outstanding trainees.

As many as half the trainees in each training cycle are eligible for the early promotion, based on scores attained during range firing, high score on the physical combat proficiency test, military bearing and leadership potential.

During advanced individual training, also of eight weeks duration, those who received early advancement to E-2 may be eligible for another "accelerated" promotion, to E-3 (private first class).

Young Newton Players with many delightful tunes in the past.

This production boasts ten lively numbers by Mr. Ernst, and such titles as "Be An Opposite," "Friends for a Minute" and "What Can I Do," promise a delightful afternoon.

Eleanor Boylan, director of the Young Newton Players is realizing a hope that she has had for many years, namely to combine live youngsters and puppets in the same performance. "Gulliver's Travels" proves the perfect vehicle.

This great classic has been adopted for the musical stage by Mrs. Boylan and given a tune score by Karl Ernest of Newton who has provided the Featured with the children are the Ruth Brand Puppets which have been seen in many programs in the Newton elementary schools. These puppets were made especially for "Gulliver's Travels" and will be manipulated by the youngsters themselves.

Performances will be given at the Countryside School in Newton Highlands on two successive week-ends, Saturday and Sunday, March 4 and 5th, and Saturday and Sunday, March 11th and 12th at 2:30 p.m. Tickets may be reserved by calling 332-6571.

He said that Rivers and McLaughlin had special training in handling dogs, cats, horses, and even monkeys and birds. Their "training, interest, experience and adaptability have equipped them to accommodate the needs of almost any member of the animal world found in this section of the country," the Captain said.

Quinn said McLaughlin and Rivers were picked to become Animal Control officers "because of their demonstrated courage and humaneness."

"It takes a lot of guts to go after a snarling, vicious German shepherd in bushes," Quinn said. "I know I wouldn't like to do it."

And he told of an incident in 1965, shortly after the Animal Control Department was established, when Charlie Rivers went into a house where a dog had attacked his 70-year-old mistress.

"The woman was slashed and bleeding and almost unconscious on the floor when Charlie went into that house and dragged her out to a waiting ambulance. All the while he was fighting off the dog with one hand, trying to keep the maddened brute away from his throat."

"Then," the Captain said, "after the elderly woman was safely in the ambulance, he went back into the house and managed to knock out the dog with a tranquilizer."

Another incident related by the Captain was when a "Dingo" dog, a canine favored by Australian aborigines and rare in the United States, got loose and bedded down on a sofa in a Centre st. hotel.

"The dog bit Charlie right through his heavy glove when he tried to get it. So Roy moved in and captured the dog by getting a loop of rope around its neck."

He explained that the dog officers have a special instrument, a pole with a loop on the end, which can be tightened or released by the officer. Their other equipment consists of tranquilizer guns, special gloves and protective masks.

The Captain didn't have to point out that the best piece of equipment is their own courage.

Since the establishment of the Control Department, only 45 dogs in the Garden City have been placed under restraint—confined to its owner's enclosed property and leashed while off it.

Capt. Quinn said that only seven owners violated the restraint order. The seven were prosecuted in court and fined and "not one appealed the verdict to the Superior Court."

Quinn said the Department, which was established to implement dog control laws, has "gone beyond control only, and has provided an atmosphere of protection and contributed greatly to a healthy dog population."

He also lauded Buddy-Dogs Inc. The organization finds homes for unclaimed dogs and takes all of Newton's homeless dogs. He said that under state law homeless dogs must be sold for $3 and that is the price charged Buddy Dogs Inc. He said that none of the strays picked up by the Animal Control Department have been sold for vivisection purposes.

Lost dogs found by the Animal Control officers are held in the pound operated by Dr. Richard Schofield, a veterinarian, at 1100 Beacon St., Newton Highlands.

Police Animal Control Department under the direction of Capt. William F. Quinn.

Another indication that life is just a little bit better in Newton for dogs is the fact that the licensed dog population has increased almost 400 since the ordinance creating the Department of Animal Control was passed in 1964.

At that time, 4874 dog licenses were issued. In 1965, licenses mounted to 5111 and last year they added up to 5244.

The increase came at a time when many cities and towns in the Metropolitan Boston area were passing "leash laws" and, in general, making it tough on man's best-friend.

The success of the Animal Control Department has elicited Capt. Quinn, but he gives credit to Rivers and McLaughlin.

"They have done a fine job. The city couldn't ask for a better one," Capt. Quinn said as he revealed he is requesting City Solicitor Matt Jones to draw up an amendment to the dog ordinance.

"Our program has worked so well, that I think the Animal Control Department should have jurisdiction over all animal pets in the city," Capt. Quinn stated.

"In fact, the program has been so successful we've received inquiries from as far away as communities in New Hampshire asking how we operate," he said.

He said that Rivers and McLaughlin had special training in handling dogs, cats, horses, and even monkeys and birds. Their "training, interest, experience and adaptability have equipped them to accommodate the needs of almost any member of the animal world found in this section of the country," the Captain said.

Quinn said McLaughlin and Rivers were picked to become Animal Control officers "because of their demonstrated courage and humaneness."

"It takes a lot of guts to go after a snarling, vicious German shepherd in bushes," Quinn said. "I know I wouldn't like to do it."

And he told of an incident in 1965, shortly after the Animal Control Department was established, when Charlie Rivers went into a house where a dog had attacked his 70-year-old mistress.

"The woman was slashed and bleeding and almost unconscious on the floor when Charlie went into that house and dragged her out to a waiting ambulance. All the while he was fighting off the dog with one hand, trying to keep the maddened brute away from his throat."

"Then," the Captain said, "after the elderly woman was safely in the ambulance, he went back into the house and managed to knock out the dog with a tranquilizer."

Another incident related by the Captain was when a "Dingo" dog, a canine favored by Australian aborigines and rare in the United States, got loose and bedded down on a sofa in a Centre st. hotel.

"The dog bit Charlie right through his heavy glove when he tried to get it. So Roy moved in and captured the dog by getting a loop of rope around its neck."

He explained that the dog officers have a special instrument, a pole with a loop on the end, which can be tightened or released by the officer. Their other equipment consists of tranquilizer guns, special gloves and protective masks.

The Captain didn't have to point out that the best piece of equipment is their own courage.

Since the establishment of the Control Department, only 45 dogs in the Garden City have been placed under restraint—confined to its owner's enclosed property and leashed while off it.

Capt. Quinn said that only seven owners violated the restraint order. The seven were prosecuted in court and fined and "not one appealed the verdict to the Superior Court."

He also lauded Buddy-Dogs Inc. The organization finds homes for unclaimed dogs and takes all of Newton's homeless dogs. He said that under state law homeless dogs must be sold for $3 and that is the price charged Buddy Dogs Inc. Form Israel Industry Group N.E. Chapter Formation of a New England Chapter of the American-Israel Chamber of Commerce and Industry was announced in Boston by Roger P. Sonnabend of Newton, president of Hotel Corporation of America.

The announcement followed a meeting of business leaders at the Somerset Hotel which was addressed by Mr. Nathan Strauss III, National Chairman of the Chamber and Yohanan Cohen, Consul of Israel in Boston.

Mr. Sonnabend, who is a director of the Chamber, and the other speakers pointed out that New England firms have played pioneering roles in developing various imports from Israel as well as in establishing and operating hotels in Israel, such as the Sheraton-Tel Aviv and the Caesarea Hotel which is managed by the Boston-based Hotel Corporation of America.

It was pointed out that Israel is gearing its future development to science-based industries and this opens up new opportunities for ties with the New England area.

Mr. Roger P. Sonnabend was named President of the Chapter.

day is charged for dog until the owner is located.

Just recently, Captain Quinn revealed, he received a letter from the Chairman of the Dog Leash and Study Commission in Lexington asking for operational details of the Animal Control Department. He said the letter contained the information that the "Newton Department is well thought of throughout the state," and that was the prime reason the Chairman was writing for information which might aid Lexington with a dog program.

Well, the pet pup population of Newton can be thankful they've got men of the calibre of Capt. Quinn, Charlie Rivers and Roy McLaughlin looking out for their welfare.

Here are three good things about Volvo:

1. Volvos are fast. They run away from every other compact in their class.
2. Volvos are economical. They get over 25 miles to the gallon just like the little economy cars (even with automatic transmission).
3. Volvos are virtually indestructible. They're driven an average of eleven years in Sweden.

If you can't think of three good things about your car, come in. Let's talk.

Opinions -

In addition to the conclusions reached by the Knowles study group, its report contains appendices on Tuesday and Thursday activities at the elementary schools, the results of a poll of parents, including their written comments, a declaration made by the staff of the Memorial School, a letter from the elementary school principals, report on the implications of a school lunch program and finally a report of a task force on educational philosophy.

PARENT OPINIONS

The parents poll made in December showed 2,110 in favor of single session and 1,477 in favor of split session, with 174 giving no preference. Only one questionnaire was sent to each family having a child in the elementary schools regardless of how many children from that family were in the elementary schools.

The most frequent reasons given by parents in favor of single session concerned safety in traffic, and dangers occasioned by snow plows, dogs and so forth, as well as heavy hazards in bad weather and hardship in distance traveled. Another frequent reason was that there would be more opportunity and better scheduling for afternoon activities of various kinds.

In this sense, the study made of children who return for Tuesday and Thursday activities, such as sports, music instruction, glee club, as well as individual help, did not indicate clearly whether these activities would be notably increased by a single session.

The percentage of pupils returning after lunch on Tuesdays and Thursdays ranged from 19 per cent at the Countryside and 20 at the Hamilton to 64 per cent at the Carr, 62 per cent at the Spaulding, and 60 per cent at the Lincoln Elliot. In most cases none of the children who returned lived more than a mile from the school.

Reasons given most frequently by parents favoring retention of the split session included bad lunch conditions at school from a sanitary and disciplinary standpoint; the need for rest, relaxation and exercise provided by the break for the pupil; the objection to expenditures for a single session lunch program.

One letter favoring adoption of single session stated: "The split session makes it exceedingly difficult for working mothers who constitute an important fraction of the total, or prevents many mothers from working despite pressing financial necessities. I believe that this hardship to an important fraction of the Newton community should constitute an important consideration for the committee. Clearly, a single session would not, by contrast, be a hardship to ANY group."

"The split session makes it necessary for many children to cross streets with heavy traffic and which are not patrolled two extra times a day. (This is true over a long extent of Walnut street, to cite only one example), a situation which constitutes a significant safety hazard.

"Abolition of the split session would remove this hazard. In addition there could be a considerable savings, since the patrolmen and crossing guards now employed at noon would no longer be required. I would suspect that if this savings were taken into account as it should be, the estimated cost of $250,000 to $300,000 would be found too high," the letter said.

A defender of the present split session declared, however: "The midday observation by mother of a child's behavior, both physical and mental, serves to better detect any deviations and allows for more immediate corrective action, whether it be a shoulder to cry on, bed rest, confidence restoration or private handling of whatever appears to the child as a monstrous personal problem.

"I feel that mothers who desire single session are abdicating this responsibility in exchange for more personal freedom. In cases where the family cannot make arrangements for lunch, (and we certainly make suitable arrangements for our METCO students) special efforts should be made as a special service; but I do not believe that the whole Newton system should be compromised to accommodate this special service," the letter concluded.

Another mother added in her letter: "I have spoken with my children concerning the lunch program and they have unequivocally stated how much they enjoy coming home for lunch and how much they would dislike eating in school."

TEACHER POSITION

The Memorial School staff prepared a consensus statement which argued: "Every parent expects and deserves the best education for his child. As teachers, we encourage each child to work toward his maximum potential by providing for individual growth according to his ability and rate of learning.

"Both parents and teachers realize that physical and emotional patterns vary from child to child, and these needs must be met individually. We must take into account the child who is the slow eater, the child who requires a quiet period after eating, and the child whose physical needs must be attended to at this time. The child of today is bound by rigid scheduling. The noon hour reprieve is of prime importance as a time for him to be himself, a child.

The Memorial School teachers also asserted that empty classrooms at lunch time improve their own efficiency. "The split session enables the teachers to plan cooperatively, as well as individually; to provide special help; to prepare for, schedule and conduct parent conferences; to attend important in-service workshops which ultimately benefit the child; to plan, revise and create new curriculum; to seek out, examine and procure suitable material for implementation of their programs.

"If we are excluded from our classrooms during the noon hour, there will be no time to set up materials for the afternoon classes. We feel that we cannot afford to use valuable instruction time to set up projectors, mix paints, gather material from files and shelves, rearrange furniture for the afternoon groups, etc," the teachers maintained.

LUNCH PROGRAM

The memoranda on a school lunch program prepared by a subcommittee headed by Richard S. Fellows of 4 Bellingham street,

SALON GIGI &
WIG SALON
765 BEACON STREET
NEWTON CENTRE

Newton Highlands, estimated that a program would cost about $250,000 per year.

The major part of this cost, or about $200,000, would be for supervisors. The committee estimated that one adult supervisor would be needed for each class during the lunch and room recess periods.

Custodial costs including extra work in mopping floors and collecting trash as well as materials used to line wastebaskets, would amount to a little over $40,000.

The remaining expenditures would be for refrigeration.

The Falls subcommittee stated: "After reviewing the physical facilities for the various Newton elementary schools, it is recommended, initially at least, that any school lunch program be planned in terms of eating in the classroom.

"A number of schools (more than half of the 24) would require serious encroachment on the physical education or library programs to set up tables and chairs prior to lunch and remove them afterwards. Several schools could not permit even this undesirable sharing of facilities, since there is no unused space available to store the tables and chairs other than in the gym itself.

"In the matter of the lunch itself, Dr. Cook (Director of Public Health, City of Newton) suggested that initially we think in terms of a bag lunch from home. In addition, Dr. Cook suggested that some provision be made for reduced-temperature storage to inhibit food spoilage. It was also suggested that some sandwich materials be provided by the school to cover the lost or forgotten lunch," the report said.

SAFETY

The subcommittee on educational implications and policy reported: "According to Charles Feeley, Safety Officer with the Newton Police Department, traffic is heaviest in the early morning. There is a slackening off toward noon, and the volume remains the same during the afternoon until rush-hour when it picks up again. During the noon hour there are some areas of heavy, but slow-moving traffic in business areas.

"The statistics would bear this out. Of the 10 school-age children injured while enroute to or from school in 1966, nine of these accidents occurred before 8:40 a.m. and one at 12:17 p.m.

"In itself, an extra trip to school adds an extra safety hazard. However, children play, walk to activities, or to friends' houses after school, and are thus exposed to these hazards regardless of the school schedule. Walks to and from school have the protection of police ladies, safety patrols and generally of large numbers of children to alert traffic to their presence.

"None of the school schedules under consideration would either begin or end at a time when the lack of daylight would add to the safety hazard. In 1966, the earliest sunset was at 4:14 p.m., with darkness somewhat later than that," the report observed.

HEALTH

The subcommittee on educational implications and policy found that there was no clear cut indication of whether split or single sessions are more beneficial to children's health.

"A single session could provide part of five afternoons for physical exercise. The present schedule allows for two full afternoons and the three noon walks. It cannot be proved which schedule will provide children with more opportunity for outdoor activity.

"The professional educators consulted felt that some kind of break with unstructured activity in the middle of the day is beneficial to the children. It is true that the present schedule is fatiguing for some six and seven-year-olds, but it is possible that a longer continuous stretch in school might be equally tiring.

COMMUNICATIONS

Apparently disturbed by the controversy which has arisen around the subject of single session, the policy and philosophy subcommittee concluded its reports by going beyond the question of school schedules and urging Newton educators and the School Committee to find new ways of making themselves accessible to parents.

"We are having trouble in communicating effectively with one another. In the past 20 years, the population has doubled from 45,000 in 1947 to almost 100,000 in 1967. There has been a widening of the gap between the professional educators and the parents, primarily due to the revolution taking place on the education scene," the report stated.

The remaining expenditures would be for refrigeration.

The Falls subcommittee stated: "After reviewing the physical facilities for the various Newton elementary schools, it is recommended, initially at least, that any school lunch program be planned in terms of eating in the classroom.

"A number of schools (more than half of the 24) would require serious encroachment on the physical education or library programs to set up tables and chairs prior to lunch and remove them afterwards.

In addition, Dr. Cook suggested that some provision be made for reduced-temperature storage to inhibit food spoilage. It was also suggested that some sandwich materials be provided by the school to cover the lost or forgotten lunch," the report said.

"Communications between teachers, parents, principals, agencies, administrators, School Committee members, and the general community cannot be handled as simply as they have been in the past. We must search for creative innovative methods to keep one another informed," the subcommittee stressed.

Members of the subcommittee on educational implications and policy were Mrs. Mary B. Everett, principal of the Cabot School; Mrs. William Haney, Mrs. William I. Heine, Bernard I. Kaplan; School Committee member Mrs. Norma W. Mintz, and Dr. Kathleen Mogul.

The full study committee came to the unanimous conclusion that the evidence did not warrant a general change of schedule but that parental interest did merit the creation of a pilot program in front of two to four schools.

No specific schools were recommended.

It was also suggested that a special committee be formed to advise the school administration in the conduct of the pilot programs and to evaluate the results, so as to recommend permanent schedule policies one year from now.

Technically at least, the present Newton elementary school schedule is temporary, although it is substantially the schedule which has existed for almost 60 years. However, the State Board of Education has been empowered in recent years to set a minimum school day, and the City of Newton must obtain a yearly exemption from the State Board in order to continue its three-day-a-week split schedule and two short days.

Although, some Newton parents have objected to the present system on the grounds that a 5-hour and forty-minute schedule on Monday, Wednesday and Friday is too long, the State ruling does not set a maximum time for school days.

Pupils' Work
Featured In Festival Of Arts

The second annual Festival of the Arts was held at Warren Junior High School in West Newton Tuesday, January 31, and Wednesday, February 1, from seven to nine-thirty in the evening.

The program represented many facets of pupils' work—drama, dance, vocal and instrumental music, art, and graphics, reflecting the integration of the arts within the total curriculum.

Tuesday night's program included a drama, "The Lady of Larkspur Lotion," by Tennessee Williams, selections by a brass sextet and a woodwind quintet, and folk songs of different countries. The evening concluded with a cantata for women's voices entitled, "Folk Songs of the Four Seasons," by R. Vaughan Williams.

On Wednesday night the concert band, string orchestra, brass sextet and full orchestra performed, as did the girls' choral groups, the "Sweet Sixteen" and the "Treble Clefs." Dance numbers included a ballet and a Philippine folk dance. The drama for the evening was "The Stronger," by Strindberg.

The art display, open both evenings, included painting, drawing, construction and sculpture done by Warren youngsters; as well as live demonstrations showing the use of various media by students. These included: Mixing colors and values—Elizabeth Rose, Grade 7; Perspective drawing—Marcia Rivero, Grade 7; Watercolor painting—Laura Rivero, Grade 8; Clay modeling—Julie Taymor and Mark Hurwitz, Grade 9; Stenciling—Jonathan Weiss, Grade 9; Volume drawing—William Keyes, Grade 9; Non-objective expressionism—Steve Porter, Grade 9; Abstract figures in black crayon—Betsy Harrer, Grade 9; and Surrealistic ink sketching—Robert Athas, Grade 9.

Cast members in the drama were Julie Taymor, Betsy Harrer, Mark Hurwitz, Shelley Brenner, Kathy Altman, and Susan MacDonald, with Lee Sherman as stage manager and Joe Schindler as scene designer. Members of the brass sextet are Amy O'Donnell, John Boyd, Michael Jacobson, Jonathan Levy, Buck Little, and Paul Warner; the woodwind quintet is made up of Alice Goodwin, Andrea Husher, Amy O'Donnell, Jim Berkowitz, and Charles Cupoll.

The ballet was performed by dancers Roberta Rosenthal, Mimi Kaye, Jane Katz, and Barbara Zeles. Folk dancers included Amy Bresky, Kathleen Williams, Leslie Crutchfield, and Judy Keene with polers Mary Ann Horrigan, Denise Antonellis, Ellen Peghiny and Peggy Hyde.

The Festival Art work was under the supervision of faculty members Mrs. Elizabeth Moriarty and Mr. Donald K. Shelton, the Graphics under Mr. Ralph H. Lewis, Vocal Music that of Mr. Donald R. Sullivan, Instrumental Music Miss Miss Carol Sykes and Mr. Blaine W. Sprout, Dances under Mrs. Jeanne Maggio, and Drama under supervision of Mr. Jon B. Adams. Both evening's presentations were extremely well attended.

Play Your Cards Right!

Card playing is a party pleasure and many evening get-togethers are specially designed to become card-parties after dinner is through. Invited guests should know that this will be the evening's activity. As a hostess you should—if space allows—set up card tables in advance with spankingly fresh decks on them. Also gather a good supply of sharpened pencils, score pads, coasters.

It's my experience that men are inveterate gin rummy stalwarts. So, that their wives and dates don't become forlorn gin rummy widows, provide separate games for them. Ladies love canasta, bridge, Scrabble, anagrams and board games.

If you're hosting a card-playing evening, stop the activity about half way through with a little pre-warning: "We're having refreshments in about 15 minutes, so don't start a new round." Serve little cakelets, or assorted cookies and have coffee, tea or soda on hand. Card players usually like soft drinks while they're intent on their game, so always keep a good supply of refreshing chilled Pepsi-Cola in the refrigerator.

There's nothing wrong with playing for money, if everyone agrees on the stakes. Don't think that an evening of cards is less than an evening of conversation. It can be a good "deal" if you make it so.

Men's Sports Wear Is Bright And Splashy

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—Every year we report faithfully that men's sports wear for Spring is louder, brighter and splashier than ever. Well, it is true again this year but even more so, and especially in slacks.

This time there is a combination of Aztec prints from Mexico, Inca prints from Peru, big African prints from Africa, stained glass prints presumably from Notre Dame, Pareo prints from Hawaii. And, of course Paisley.

The Library

of the Library, and hence it is our responsibility to communicate to you our opinion concerning the location of the proposed new building; which is a matter of great importance to the citizenry of this city, both present and future.

A great deal of time and effort has gone into consideration of this site. We appreciate the generosity of those on the library site committee in expending their time for this purpose;

But before a final decision is made, we would like to report to you the conclusions of the majority of the Board of Trustees, based upon studies and deliberations made by us since the report of the library site committee was released in March 1966.

In the first place, we feel it is essential that a new library be built according to the schedule laid out in the Capital Improvement Program.

In the second place, we are opposed to the location at the corner of Homer and Walnut Streets for the following reasons:

1. This area is completely removed from everything to which people are attracted in the normal course of their daily activities. To locate a central library in an area such as this is to violate the most fundamental principle of twentieth century library thinking which is to make a central library easily available to the greatest number of people.

To put the library at the corner of Homer and Walnut Streets is also entirely contrary to the best judgement of virtually every library expert in this country, including Messrs. Humphrey and McNiff, who were hired to choose the right location for it.

2. The site at Homer and Walnut Streets is only a mile away from the two most active branches in our system, namely the Newton Centre and Newtonville Branches. The cost of maintaining these branches is approximately $35,000 per year each.

Both of these branches, because they are properly located, have a very large circulation (nearly 100,000 books a year each) and to close either of them would impose an unreasonable hardship on residents who are now regular library users.

By putting the main library at Homer and Walnut Streets, we would be adding still another building to our present library system. This is again in direct opposition to the recommendations of the Humphrey-McNiff survey.

Obviously, if the new building were located at either Newtonville Square or Newton Centre Square, the present branch in that area could be eliminated without inconvenience to present patrons.

This would result in an annual saving of $35,000 per year, which will be lost if the library is built at Homer and Walnut Streets.

Taking into consideration the above factors, we request that the recommendations of the library site committee be rejected. Since it does not appear possible to erect the new building on the site which was recommended in the Hum-

Brimmer And May School Annual Sale

Articles to be on sale include a wide selection of spring clothing and sports equipment such as skis, boots and skates at fantastically low prices, as well as riding outfits and boots.

Assisting on the sale committee will be Mrs. John W. Carlton of Waban, and Mrs. Joseph Urbanetti, Mrs. Charles Butnam and Mrs. Murray Rothman of Newton Highlands.

In addition to managing HCA's legal affairs, he will continue as corporate secretary.

Completes Training As An Army Recruiter

Sgt. John J. Anicelli, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Anicelli, 28 Woodrow Ave., Newtonville, has completed a recruiting course at the Adjutant General School, Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

He was trained in Army recruiting and reenlistment procedures. Additional instruction was given in techniques of career counseling with emphasis on knowledge of the Army school system.

phry-McNiff survey and requested by the Board of Trustees in 1964, the Trustees' consideration of the site of the present Newtonville Branch Library.

The Trustees are aware of a cost of land-taking for this site. However, in approximately four years an equivalent amount of money could be saved by replacing the Newtonville Branch with a main library instead of adding a new building to the system.

We reiterate that it is of prime importance for the new library to be built according to the schedule of the Capital Improvement Program. Members of the Board have expressed themselves unanimously on this point.

Therefore, as a last resort, if the Aldermen should not accept the proposal by the majority of the Trustees to erect the new library on the Newtonville Branch site, the Trustees would accept with great reluctance the Homer-Walnut Street site.

Respectfully submitted,
Josephine T. Brewer

2 Local Solons, Clergyman, Want Viet Bombing Stopped

Two Newton law-makers and local clergymen were among the supporters of a bill this week to memorialize Congress to enact legislation calling upon President Johnson to cease the bombing in Vietnam.

They testified at a hearing before the Committee on Congressional Law of the Massachusetts Legislature. An overflow crowd caused the hearing to be moved from the fourth floor State House hearing room to the Gardner Auditorium.

Rep. Joseph G. Bradley of Newton declared that while he did not approve of the bill's call for a general cease fire by the United States, he did support a cessation of the bombing.

"I am aware of the ramifications of our unusual position, as it appears to be contrary to the opinion of the present Administration," Bradley asserted. "However, Congress and the President are the servants of the people,

High Winds Cause Havoc All Over City
